

Nicaragua quake kills thousands

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A series of powerful earthquakes destroyed a large part of the Nicaraguan capital of Managua early Saturday, crumpling buildings and sparking fires which killed or injured tens of thousands of persons. It was the second most destructive earthquake ever to hit the Western Hemisphere.

Reports from neighboring Costa Rica said the Nicaraguan Health Ministry said at least 18,000 persons were killed, either by collapsing buildings or fires which followed. Another 40,000 persons were injured and 200,000 left homeless, the Health Ministry said.

Pilots who flew over Managua said as much as 70 percent of the city was in ruins. Fires started by the earthquake burned out of control. The water supply was cut off and there was no water for firefighting or for drinking. Electricity also was knocked out.

Communications from Managua were virtually cut off. Only ham radio operators provided links with the outside world.

Many journalists who flew to Managua aboard military aircraft were unable to cable their reports to the outside world.

The American embassy was reported seriously damaged or destroyed. The secretary to the American ambassador, Rose Marie Worlich, 36, of Philadelphia was killed, the State Department said in Washington.

American billionaire Howard Hughes was reported by an aide to be in Managua but to be "all right." The presidential palace and two of the city's three major hotels were reported razed or seriously damaged. Army troops patrolled the streets to prevent looting, especially from banks.

Managua is located on a large inland lake and pilots flying over the stricken city said parts of Managua appeared to have sunk lower than the lake's water level, resulting in major flooding.

All of Managua's hospitals were destroyed, according to the Nicaraguan National Guard. The Honduran Ministry of Defense said the Nicaraguan National Guard advised them to be prepared for more than 200,000 injured.

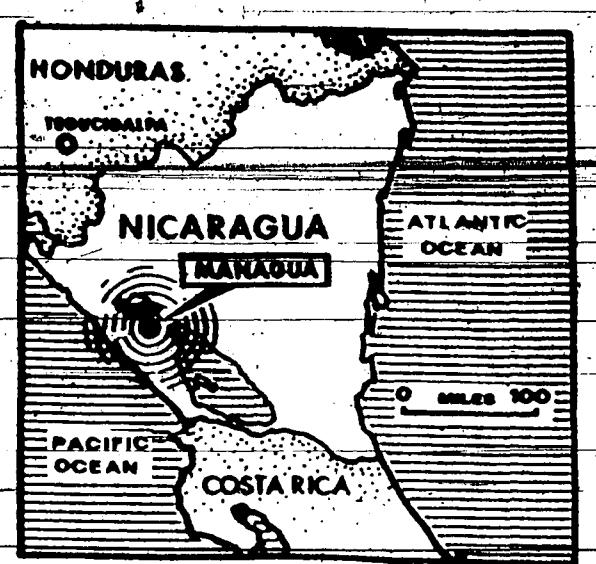

The first tremors were felt shortly after 11 p.m. EST Friday. The strongest tremors occurred at 1:30 a.m. and registered 6.25 on the Richter scale.

Relief flights into the stricken capital began Saturday. The U.S. Southern Command, based in the Panama Canal Zone, and the U.S. Readiness Command in Tampa, Florida, co-ordinated American rescue efforts. At least two mobile hospitals were to be flown to Managua on Sunday.

The State Department said rescue planes would begin evacuating all Americans—estimated to number about 3,000—on Sunday.

Bethlehem security tight

BETHLEHEM, Israel-occupied Jordan (UPI) — Electric surveillance and army command cars competed Saturday with holiday bunting and a lone Christmas tree for the attention of crowds thronging the traditional birthplace of the Christ child.

One day before the celebration begins with a Christmas Eve procession from Jerusalem, officials estimated that 20,000 pilgrims had arrived to take part in activities throughout Israel.

The visitors came in 140 organized groups, borne by 11 special cruise ships and over 70 overseas flights.

In Bethlehem where Christianity places the manger birthplace of Jesus, Mayor Elias Freij said he expected 10,000 visitors, a decline from last year.

"Security is very tight here," Freij said. "It always has been and the (Middle East) situation seems to be hitting us. Business is still quiet but we all hope that tomorrow it will start in earnest."

The Israeli military government, alert to warnings of Arab guerrilla attacks, redoubled their security measures with jeep patrols, helicopter overflights and radio-equipped foot soldiers.

Freij said the army took over two floors of the town's city hall to quarter security forces.

Mussa Abu Hamad, a local policeman, said, "We've been warned to be on the lookout for packages left around, and persons with suspicious move-

Automatic rotating cameras atop the church of the Nativity scanned the milling crowds in manger square below.

Most of them were Israelis on weekend excursions. Their curiosity was drawn by the red, orange, blue and yellow light poles, colored crepe paper streamers and multi-hued balloons that lend this town, in the rocky Judean hills, a carnival air.

Outside the police station, Bethlehem's one permanent Christmas tree wore a newly donned trim of purple and silver globes.

Smoke from the pushcarts of chestnut vendors wafted up towards a cloudless sky. Despite a brisk winter chill, weather forecasters expected dry conditions to last until Sunday night's celebrations.

Local television crews laid cables in preparation for the first live international satellite broadcast of the midnight mass that will usher in the holiday.

For thousands of pilgrims unable to enter the small church, the telecast will be projected onto a two-story high white cloth screen suspended from a corner of the square.

The live television coverage will help Mayor Freij in his appeal to world Christianity for aid in rehabilitating Bethlehem.

In a statement he said, "I believe that the time has come for mankind to remember this town, not only through chanting carols and exchanging greeting cards on Christmas, but by promoting its message through the year and in generations to come."

He called for donations "to rehabilitate the glory of Bethlehem as the spiritual center of Christianity" so that the parking lot now located in manger square can be transformed into a plaza and the town's old quarter can be reconstructed.

Merry Christmas to all!

Truman remains in coma

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman, his heart showing signs of congestive failure, slipped into a coma Saturday but doctors said his condition improved minutely Saturday night. Truman, 88, was in very critical condition.

Doctors were encouraged by a stabilization in the former chief executive's blood pressure and sporadic periods of increased pulse.

"President Truman remains completely unresponsive and in critical condition," said Research Hospital spokesman John Dreves. "Since (Friday) night his blood pressure has dropped low enough to require medication five times."

Newsman asked Dreves if Truman's continued unresponsiveness to stimuli indicated Truman was in a coma and the hospital spokesman said, "Yes, he's comatose."

"At times since noon (Saturday) his respiration has been extremely shallow and slow," Dreves said.

Truman's wife, Bess, 87, spent much of the day sitting at his bedside after he was called from their Independence, Mo., home when his condition worsened during the early morning. But Mrs. Truman returned home late Saturday.

The letter told Nixon:

Vietnam air war pressed

SAIGON (UPI) — American bombers raided North Vietnam again Sunday, the seventh consecutive day of round-the-clock bombing, military sources said. The U.S. command refused to confirm a White House report that the bombing would stop for Christmas Day Monday.

The U.S. warplanes flew against what was probably the heaviest anti-aircraft missile fire of the war.

The U.S. Command said Saturday two more B52 heavy bombers were shot down over North Vietnam on Friday, the ninth and tenth this week. Radio Hanoi claims 17 B52s shot down since bombing was resumed against Hanoi and Haiphong last Monday night.

U.S. spokesmen declined to confirm a report from the Florida White House at Key Biscayne that U.S. jets would stop the bombing for 24 hours starting at sundown Sunday as part of a Christmas truce being observed by both sides.

In Moscow, the Tass news agency said U.S. air raids against Hanoi Saturday damaged the East German embassy and the Hungarian trade mission.

In the ground war, heavy fighting was reported in northernmost Quang Tri Province and along the Central Coast. In the Central Highlands, Communist troops stepped up the pressure on Kontum city, 260 miles north of Saigon.

South Vietnamese intelligence sources said they had intercepted a North Vietnamese radio message reporting the death of North Vietnamese Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap. The sources claimed Giap was killed in an explosion while inspecting bomb damage in Haiphong on Friday.

The B52 downings left at least 55 American airmen missing in action since Monday, night—the heaviest such toll of the war. Radio Hanoi has listed the names of 15 U.S. airmen it says have been captured in the bombing assault.

A U.S. command spokesman said Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots had more than 100 Soviet-built SAM2 missiles fired at them on each of the first four days of the bombing offensive. From April 6, when President Nixon ordered the renewed bombing of North Vietnam, until the start of the stepped-up air war Monday, only 2,800 SAM2 missiles had been fired at American planes.

Jerome resident killed in plunge

JEROME — The Snake River canyon claimed its second life in six days Friday night.

A 19-year-old Jerome resident died when he fell about 200 feet from the canyon rim above the Shoshone Falls power plant.

According to Jerome County Prosecuting Attorney Eugene Fredericksen, Charles O. Bean, 19, the son of Mr. and Mrs.

Orville Bean of Jerome, died as the result of a fall into the canyon directly above the power plant on the north side.

Fredericksen said the Bean youth and two teenage companions — one age 16 from Twin Falls and the other age 17 from Wendell — apparently were rolling rocks into the canyon at the time of the accident.

Jerome County Sheriff James B. Burns, who investigated, said the youths were apparently trying to dislodge a large boulder from the canyon rim. He said when it broke loose, Bean, who was atop the rock, went with it. Bean fell about 200 feet onto the rocks below.

Heyburn woman victim in Burley accident

BURLEY — A Heyburn woman died Saturday as a result of injuries sustained in a traffic accident here.

According to Cassia County Prosecutor Gordon Nielson, Marie Boswell, 72, Heyburn, died at Cassia County Memorial Hospital after the car in which she was riding was struck by a pickup truck.

Burley police said the accident occurred about 4 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Eighth and Normal streets.

According to police, a car driven by Lois M. Saldana, 28, Heyburn, was going east on Eighth Street when it was struck by a pickup truck driven by Delain D. Horne, 18, Rupert, Route 2, which was travelling south on Normal Street.

The Boswell woman, a passenger in the Saldana vehicle, was riding in the right front seat. Mrs. Saldana's daughter, Mashell Saldana, 6, was riding in the right rear seat.

Police said the truck, owned by New Century Mobile Homes of Burley, struck the Saldana vehicle and then continued on, striking a telephone pole. Horne was alone in the truck.

All four persons involved in the accident were taken to the Cassia County Memorial Hospital emergency room.

Marie Boswell was pronounced dead approximately one-half hour after arriving at the hospital.

Mrs. Saldana said her daughter both sustained minor facial injuries. They were treated and released from the hospital.

Horne was also treated and released from the hospital.

Cassia County coroner Dr. Leslie L. Fillmore will hold an inquest and an autopsy will be performed. Dr. Fillmore said he did not examine the Boswell woman, but suspected chest injuries were responsible for her death.

Investigation is continuing into the accident, and criminal charges are pending.

New access for airport

Sorrow told

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul Saturday expressed his sorrow to the victims of the Nicaraguan earthquake in a wire he sent to the archbishop of Managua.

The cable, sent by Secretary of State Cardinal Jean Villot, said the Pope "prays for eternal peace for the dead and hopes for the prompt recovery of the injured."

TWIN FALLS — Construction of a new primary access road to the Twin Falls City-County Airport is planned by the Twin Falls Highway District.

Ralph E. Olmstead, chairman of the district board, said Saturday the project would also include construction of a bridge over the low-line canal to replace the one now in use.

The route, designated FAS Route 2735, would be eligible for federal aid.

Mine disaster top Gem news

Editors note: The following dispatch is a summary of the top 10 news events in Idaho during 1972 as voted on by United Press International Editors and news directors in the state.

BOISE (UPI) — The sun was still blocked by the high mountains to the east as the morning shift entered the silver-rich mine near Kellogg, May 2.

None of those passing from daylight to the darkness of the Sunshine Mine realized that six hours later a tragic event would begin to unfold with the closing chapters marked by 91 deaths and the sorrow of those waiting above.

The story of these men and the miraculous rescue of two miners who lived for a week 5,000 feet below the earth's surface in the fire-ravaged mine was voted as the top news event in Idaho during 1972 by United Press international news editors and news directors. The first runner-up story was the Republican landslide during the Nov. 7 general election. The heavy voter support gave the party a clear majority in both the state Senate and House.

The other top 10 stories selected by newspaper editors and television news directors were: the battle between the legislature and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus over the release of budget information; the hijack of a light plane from McCall; the December cold spell which brought sub zero temperatures; voter approval of a state government reorganization plan; the youth takeover at the Democratic state convention; and the sinking of the ship the middle fork of the Salmon River; and the Nixon landslide in Idaho's general election.

There were 190 men working in the shafts of the mile deep Sunshine Mine in northern Idaho May 2 when a fire broke out and smoke began circulating through the 100 miles of tunnels. One hundred and eight miners scrambled to safety bringing with them the bodies of five victims of carbon monoxide poisoning.

For the next week rescuers met road block after road block in their struggle to reach men trapped in the depths of the mine.

Then Tuesday night they found Tom Wilkinson, 23, and Ron Flory, 28, who survived for a week at the 4,800 foot level by eating the lunches of their dead companions.

Nine days after the fire broke out at the 3,700 foot level the last of the bodies were located. It ended a vigil by wives, relatives and friends outside the main tunnel of the mine.

American toll 2 in quake

Valley Briefs

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — At least two Americans, a woman working in the U.S. embassy and a visiting friend, were killed in the Managua earthquake, officials here reported.

The State Department in Washington identified one of the dead women as Rose M. Worlich, 36, secretary to the ambassador. Her mother lives in Philadelphia.

Medical officials at Tegucigalpa Airport reported receiving the body of an American woman on one of the first mercy flight planes to return from the shattered Nicaraguan capital, identified as that of a friend of Miss Worlich's who arrived in Managua from the United States "a few days ago" on a visit.

The only identification available of the second woman, officials said, was the name Valeri Slugs, or something similar.

Miss Worlich's body had not arrived and there were unconfirmed reports from crews of the mercy planes that it was buried in rubble at the same location where the other woman's body was discovered.

In Washington, the State Department said Ambassador Turner Shelton managed to send some details of the catastrophe by radio.

TWIN FALLS — The Senior Citizens shopping bus will run Tuesday to the downtown area. Luncheons will be served at the Senior Citizens Center Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

Nicaragua quake toll said 18,000

A Guatemalan newsman who flew to Managua reported by radio that "Managua appears to be sinking. The center of the city seems lower than the rest."

The newsman, Gonzalo Asturias of Guatemala's El Imparcial newspaper, said tremors continued Saturday afternoon, but "people don't seem to notice them anymore. They just walk along the streets in a daze."

"Drivers on the sidewalks go almost unnoticed," he said.

"Ninety per cent of the buildings seem to be damaged or destroyed. All the familiar landmarks, the presidential palace up on the hill overlooking the city, the Intercontinental Hotel, the Gran Hotel, Hotel Balmoral, all are severely damaged," he said.

The Managua office of Pan American Airlines said in a radioteletype message to its Guatemala City office that the airport was "operational and being used." But, the report said, "the terminal is dangerous due to gas leakage and large cracks. All of the glass in the control tower and the terminal building windows have been broken out. Large areas of the city have been destroyed by quake and fire."

In Miami, a survivor who was evacuated by Pan Am said the streets were filled with rubble, children were screaming and the road to the airport was filled with refugees carrying packs on their backs.

"You can't believe it," said businessman Alvaro Sanson of Leon, Nicaragua, a Managua suburb. "People grabbing their possessions, only what they could get."

A Pan Am stewardess spending the night in Managua said ruined Christmas decorations gave the massive destruction a particularly poignant quality.

"God, it scared me to death," stewardess Linda Stidder, 29, said. "It looked like papier-mache buildings the way they fell."

A University of California seismologist, Dr. Bruce Bolt, said Managua's adobe buildings have brittle walls, making an earthquake especially dangerous and destructive.

"Hundreds of mutilated bodies were strewn along the streets, some still wrapped in bed sheets, some missing heads, hands or feet," said one witness fleeing the city.

"Like the end of the world," said Juan Castanera, manager of the Communications Satellite (Comsat) station on the outskirts of Managua.

Castanera, speaking by telephone to Washington by means of a special Comsat hookup, said he had not been able to get into the city because of the thousands of refugees streaming out of it. He estimated that a great portion of the city had been leveled by the quakes and that about one third of Managua was engulfed by flames hours later.

"What I saw of the city, it was like a World War II city at the end of the war," Castanera said.

The earthquake was the second that has devastated the city this century and the third major one in its history. Managua was destroyed March 36, 1931, by an earthquake and fire that killed 2,000 persons, and it was leveled by an earlier quake in 1885.

Former President Anastasio Somoza, who turned over leadership of the country to a triumvirate last May but remains its military strongman, escaped injury in the quake. He sent a cable to President Nixon at the Florida White House in Key Biscayne, advising that his capital had been devastated by an earthquake. Nixon ordered immediate relief help for the stricken nation.

Managua lies on the shore of Lake Managua, 25 miles east of the Pacific coastline, but the lake is so polluted that its water is undrinkable.

Managua, a former Indian village on which Spanish conquistadores founded a city in the 16th century, has been repeatedly stricken by disaster. In addition to the earthquakes of 1885 and 1931, the latter recording 6.00 on the Richter scale, the city was ruined by floodwaters from Lake Managua in 1876.

Americas' worst quake hit Peru

By United Press International
In terms of destruction, the Nicaraguan earthquake appeared to be the second worst in the history of the Western Hemisphere.

The worst took 66,794 lives May 31, 1970 in northern Peru. About 25,000 were killed by avalanches which smothered cities and villages at the base of the huge Huascaran Mountain. The Peruvian disaster measured a magnitude of 7.75 on the Richter scale, less than the staggering jolt of 8.5 dealt Alaska March 24, 1964.

On that day, 115 Alaskans were killed, plus 17 who died in tidal waves on the beaches of Oregon and northern California.

Dr. Bruce Bolt, University of California seismologist, said a factor in the high death toll in Nicaragua would be the type of construction.

Adobe buildings, he said, are particularly dangerous because the walls are brittle. He said countries which use little timber, such as Turkey and Iran where boulders sometimes are used to weigh down roofs, always suffer heavy death tolls.

"There is fire in Managua," he said, "but people should be able to run away from fire. In the Tokyo earthquake, many fire deaths occurred because people couldn't get away."

In 1923, the Tokyo disaster took 143,000 lives. Fire swept through buildings of wood and paper windows, and narrow streets made escape difficult.

The world's most destructive earthquake is believed to have happened at Shensi province, China, in 1556. It is calculated that 830,000 people were killed. In 1737, in Calcutta 300,000 died.

In this century the most deadly quake, after Tokyo's, occurred in Messina, Italy, in 1908.

Directors change

Kimberly man to assume post on highway board

TWIN FALLS — Ralph Olmstead, chairman of the Twin Falls County Highway District Board the past seven years, will be succeeded Jan. 1 by Lloyd Shewmaker, Kimberly.

Olmstead, who was elected to the Idaho legislature in November, is resigning to devote full time to his new office and to avoid any possible conflict of interest, he said.

Members of the highway board and district staff presented Olmstead with a gold watch Friday afternoon during the annual Christmas party in the district office. He has been a member of the three-man board of directors the past 15 years.

Shewmaker, a Kimberly rancher and farmer and life long resident of that community, will be serving his first public office. He has been active in the Civil Air Patrol and is a pilot of 32 years experience. He has been active in the Salmon River Cattle Association, and other farm and livestock groups.

Other members of the highway board include Kenneth Poe, Twin Falls, and Ora Jones, Hollister. The will meet Jan. 5 to reorganize and name a new chairman.

Olmstead also has resigned as chairman of the transportation committee of the Twin Falls County Resource Planning Commission.

In thanking the board and district staff for cooperation during the 15 years he has served on the board, Olmstead said the Twin Falls Highway District is the largest of its kind in the state both money wise and mileage wise.

There are 800 miles of roadway in the district, about half of which represents paved roads. The only highway districts of greater size, Olmstead said, are those covering entire counties.

In addition to Twin Falls there are three other districts, Murtaugh, Buhl and Filer, in Twin Falls County.

Program given on cooking

SHOSHONE — Gourmet cooking and Wine was the program topic at the Shoshone Civic Club Friday afternoon. Mrs. R. G. Neher was program chairman.

A film on cheese making and slides on California wine growers were shown.

A silent auction was held and money raised will go to the Idaho Federated Women's Clubs Penny Art Fund.

The group voted to hold future meetings at the Jennings House, adjacent to the Episcopal Church on U. S. Highway 93, instead of the Legion hall.

The Antique Festival Theatre appearance in Shoshone will be July 19, Mrs. Neher announced.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Neher, Mrs. Howard Adkins and Mrs. Charlie Green.

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was arrested for drunken driving Saturday following an accident in the 700 block of Second Avenue North.

According to police reports, Jake William Zitterkoff, 64, was proceeding along Second Avenue North when his pickup truck slammed into a parked car belonging to Ellsie Yurie, Twin Falls.

The impact propelled the Yurie vehicle over the curb and into a tree, while Zitterkoff's truck continued forward hitting a second parked car belonging to Roy D. Browne, Twin Falls.

Zitterkoff's truck and the Yurie vehicle were demolished in the accident. The Browne vehicle received an estimated $350 damage.

Zitterkoff was not injured in the accident. He was arrested and booked in the Twin Falls County jail. Following court appearance he was released on $250 bond.

Communion tonight

Prisoners get turkey on yule

TWIN FALLS — Prisoners in the Twin Falls County jail Christmas will have their usual turkey dinner this year through the courtesy of the Salvation Army.

As a new community project this year, the Salvation Army has furnished the county cook with turkeys for the approximately 25 prisoners now in the jail.

In addition they will be making pumpkin and berry pies, salads and hot rolls to be delivered to the jail for the Monday main meal.

The county will furnish mashed potatoes and dressing.

Opal Hallmark, county jail cook, said she will prepare the turkeys and all of the meal except what is delivered to the jail by the Salvation Army volunteers.

In addition to this the organization is providing meals for transients Christmas Day and participating in the community Christmas program to provide baskets of food and toys for needy families.

Excelsior club elects new leaders

HANSEN — Mrs. Loren McFarland was elected president of the Excelsior Social Club during a Christmas party and meeting Thursday afternoon.

The event was held at the home of Mrs. Pat Conner. Mrs. Von Nebeker was elected vice president; Mrs. Clifton Haynes, secretary, and Mrs. Louis Hranac, treasurer.

Mrs. Hranac presented a poem for the opening exercise and secret pal gifts were exchanged.

Mrs. Conner received a birthday gift.

The next meeting is Jan. 4 at the home of Mrs. George Thompson. Program leader is Mrs. Gene Walker and roll call will be low calorie recipes.

Physician home from hospital

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Fen Heber Covington was released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Saturday following treatment for injuries suffered when he was struck by a car last Tuesday.

Dr. Covington, 59, Twin Falls, was hit by an auto driven by Stella Maxine Trout, 49, Twin Falls, in the 200 block of Martin Street. He apparently did not see the vehicle and walked into the side of it as it moved.

Dr. Covington suffered a broken right arm and head lacerations in the accident. No citations were issued.

Overcomes

TWIN FALLS — The Christmas spirit overcomes everything — even tax payment deadlines.

Twin Falls County Treasurer Ruth K. Jones said Friday personal property tax payments, normally due in her office the fourth Monday in December, could be postponed a day.

Monday, Christmas Day, is the fourth Monday of the month, and Mrs. Jones said tax payments could be either brought to her second floor office in the county courthouse or postmarked by Dec. 28 — one day late.

The county expects to receive $366,000 from the personal property taxes this year, Mrs. Jones said.

Woman, 47, hurt

TWIN FALLS — A Picabo woman was injured Friday afternoon when she was struck by a car while crossing Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Gioia Gloria Larkin, 47, Picabo, was crossing Blue Lakes near the intersection of Fairway Drive when she was struck and thrown several feet in the air by an auto driven by Charles E. DeAtley, 63, Jerome.

According to police reports, DeAtley apparently did not see Mrs. Larkin until it was too late to avoid hitting her. He reported that he applied his brakes but slid into the woman. DeAtley was traveling north on Blue Lakes.

According to police reports, Mrs. Larkin was on her way to the grocery store in the Lynwood Shopping Center. Mrs. Larkin was given first aid at the scene by personnel of Magic Valley Ambulance Service and then taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. She suffered shoulder injuries and thigh and leg bruises. She was admitted to the hospital overnight and released Saturday morning.

No citation was issued pending further investigation, according to police reports.

TF man sentenced

Extend Controls

The figures show that inflation, once dangerously accelerating, has been slowed remarkably and the jobless rate has fallen to the lowest level since August 1970.

But the pressure for higher wages and prices are growing and the jobless rate for November was 5.2 per cent, still above the 5 per cent President Nixon set as his year-end goal.

Inflation persists as a major problem and for that reason, Nixon will call for an extension of wage-price controls beyond the scheduled expiration April 30.

Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz, announcing the decision, said consultations will begin immediately to determine what changes will be made in the controls started in August 1971.

Schultz also disclosed that President Nixon will freeze new hiring and promotions, as well as pay increases for executives in the federal government. Schultz said the freeze would last through 1973 and apply to Congress and the federal judiciary.

In his determination to hold federal spending, a prime cause of inflation, below a ceiling of $250 billion, Nixon will cut back in some instances by withholding money appropriated by Congress.

This will bring on clashes with the Democratic majority in Congress. Unfortunately, more people are more interested in higher pay checks than in lower prices, and inflation seems more of a paper tiger than a man eater.

Experience around the world shows how devastating inflation can be. It is tearing at the vitals of Chile, Argentina and Colombia in South America. It is a fearful problem in England and Italy and out of control in parts of Asia. Prices may rise several times in a single day in Indonesia. The result is a kind of paralysis and panic.

Inflation is indeed hazardous to economic health. Taming it will require not only continued controls but a new attitude of self-restraint in government, in business, and in labor.

On Complaints

Perhaps nothing sums up the impersonality of today's society more than the increasingly elevated status of the complaint. There was a time when a complaint was handled directly, and graciously.

Some real or imagined injustice could be straightened out in an exchange of letters, over coffee or a cocktail, perhaps opening with a little heat but cooling swiftly with the realization that the person promising to make the correction was in a position to make it. There were no buffers, no chain of command to grasp before coming to grips.

That's long gone now, so quickly that the sense of serenity of it seems like a dream. It's the complaint department now, whether the grief is with the government or private enterprise.

MR. SPECTATOR

Only Way To Look

There is only one way to look at the results of the CSI trustee election. It has to stand as a solid vote of confidence in the way the college is operated under the guidance of Dr. Jim Taylor.

All the bunk about a rubber stamp board — and other topics and remarks picked out of thin air — were disregarded by the voters who, in no uncertain terms, showed they were satisfied with the way things were going.

True, there are rough spots in anything — in any operation. But voters of the two counties — including most of the students who cast their ballot — showed they were not too concerned about all the demands and accusations.

So, from Mr. Spectator, congratulations to Dr. Taylor and to the two successful trustee candidates — John Coleman and John Hepworth.

Cryptographers have long known which letters are the most common in English, but a computer has satisfied the publishers of Braille books for the blind that a sequence of those letters most seen in prose and poetry spell etaothi.

There's not much you can do with a word like etaothi except glare at it, or maybe use it to name a boat or a hunting lodge. The computer examined 1.25 million letters and to no one's surprise found that E showed up the most number of times.

But what letters do writers need the least? The letter-counting machine found that it wasn't X or Z that were the most scarce, but Q. While E was appearing 158,080 times, Q came up only 954 times in the texts examined. It was followed on the least active list by Z, X and J.

It could be said that E is the most ubiquitous of letters, but it doesn't appear in that word at all. It is happy to twice join Q in queer, which is what some of the non-English people think about all of the language.

The Times-News will not be published Christmas Day, tomorrow. That will let all of us remain at home for a change and enjoy the Christmastime with members of our family. And to all the readers of this column from Mr. Spectator, the best of the Christmas season.

WASHINGTON — Some foreign language newspapers in this country are apparently experiencing a resurgence after a long slump. The word is, a good part of their new circulation comes from young folk. A band of scholars meeting here informally the other day used that as a jump-off point for an impromptu discussion of growing ethnic consciousness in America. (Some talked of its worldwide aspects.) One of the ideas which emerged is that people of ethnic origin, Italian, Polish, whatever, are seizing upon the fact more strongly in order to compensate for the terrible rootlessness of life in this nation. They need some sense of real attachment, it is suggested, and this is the most visible thing to grasp. It has of course been argued for years that the "disappearance" of ethnic awareness was always more imagined than real, that the elements in the great American melting pot never truly melted. That may well be so, but it seems just as plain that the visibility of ethnic identity had diminished. And that lent credence to sociologists who had forecast that assimilation of people here of diverse national origins was simply a matter of time.

Do ethnic groups today dwell freshly upon their backgrounds to regain lost feelings of "belonging," and sharper identity? There is no way to quarrel with the scholars who say the answer is yes, since there are no available exhaustive researchers to disprove the notion. Yet some observers of the evident resurgence think other factors are at work.

In a nation where blacks are finding and stressing their identity and pushing the causes and goals of black people, the new ethnic emphasis may be seen in part as a defense.

Here it may be hard to distinguish between the real and the artificial. For some white ethnics, it could be simply a throwing up of strategic barriers to declare their own separateness and draw attention to themselves as peoples "neglected" while other minorities are being championed.

For other ethnics, resurgence may have a deeper meaning, though still one related to the new focus on blacks. If there is value in stressing one's special identity and background, as blacks are now doing to cries of encouragement from many quarters, then not to dwell upon one's specialness (in this case, ethnic) might suggest shame over it instead of pride. To some of what we are seeing may be a genuine reassertion of pride in background.

The trouble with all this, in both its American and its world aspect, is that it underscores division among peoples, rather than desperately needed harmony and accommodation. It is narrowly tribal in instinct, potentially destructive of efforts to resolve the inevitable conflicts among men in at least a passable way.

At the leading edge of separatism are always the militants who deliberately overstate the case for identity and attachment and then march off to man the barricades against the adversary. The Democratic party in 1972 has no intent to establish minority quotas for participation in its widened processes. Militants drove it to that corner. And where does the stress on special identity leave millions of Americans with inescapably mixed heritage? My own is French-English-Scotch-Irish-German. I haven't been able to find my group. If I and countless others like me are to find identity and attachment, we're going to need other means. But exactly what, in this new world of advancing separatism?

School Sports

You laughed when Princeton and Rutgers fielded intercollegiate athletes to compete — at Frisbee. It was no stunt. It's a foretaste of a new look in physical education.

Team sports will continue but the new emphasis will be on athletic skills you can develop in school and use throughout your life — school sports — take out.

The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports got its biggest boost from health-conscious President John F. Kennedy. The council's efforts continue under this President with a de-emphasis on team sports and greater concentration on athletic activities which can survive the academic years.

Football and basketball will likely continue indefinitely, they serve other purposes.

But the President's council and several state boards of education are concentrating on individual athletic activities.

Robert Leake, specialist in health, physical and recreation for the Utah Board of Education, says, "The new PE is on its way."

He says Utah's schools are offering more instruction in bowling, skating, skiing, tennis and swimming.

Traditional physical education in school has been the stand-around-and-wait kind of games. Now we're going to try to develop a generation which will prefer regular activity to the sedentary life, but we enjoy most that which we do best so schools must provide the necessary basic training.

Only those athletic activities which require neither team participation nor elaborate equipment are likely to be included permanently in the life pattern.

Former University of Illinois swimming champion, now a physician, Dr. Herbert Lakin, says, "It is as important to be taught how to play as to be taught how to work."

The American Medical Assn. says the evidence is irrefutable that "proper, regular exercise helps keep healthy hearts healthy, helps prevent the onset of cardiovascular disease."

Or as Hippocrates, as long ago as four centuries B.C., said, "That which is used develops, and that which is not used wastes away."

The President's council has learned that few individuals can sustain interest in a regimen of calisthenics.

Physical fitness, to remain interesting, requires fun and games.

That brings us back to the intercollegiate Frisbee game between Rutgers and Princeton. Those schools, which played the first intercollegiate football game 60 years ago, again have started something.

It is another competitive sport, playable either as a team member or individually. They expect it, like tennis, handball, skiing, dancing, bowling, swimming, archery, golf, badminton, to be a game you can play after school.

Churches Open

WASHINGTON — One of the big questions confronting the country is: Should the churches be allowed to remain open on Christmas Day?

A group of citizens have banded together to protest the way churches are trying to turn Christmas into a religious holiday.

Wendell Wankel, their spokesman, said, "If we allow the churches to do business on Christmas Day, the holiday will lose all its commercial meaning."

We believe that Christmas is a time for gift giving and eating and television watching, and anything that interferes should be forbidden.

But, I protested, there are some people who would like to go to church on Christmas Day. Surely you don't want to interfere with that.

They can go to church on Sunday or during the week. Why do they insist on going the one day of the year when people should stay home and enjoy the fruits of our great economy?

Maybe they want to thank God for all the good things He has brought them," I suggested.

That's not enough of a reason to keep the churches open," Wankel said. "Look at all the traffic congestion it causes. The church bells wake up people who are trying to sleep late. Besides, why shouldn't priests and ministers have a day off like everybody else?"

Maybe they like to work on Christmas."

That's not the point," Wankel said. "If you keep the churches open, you detract from the great materialistic fervor in this country. We say religion has its place, but not at Christmas."

But," I said, "Christmas

once was a religious holiday."

When Wankel asked, "Quite a few years ago I read a book that said at one time the religious aspect of Christmas was more important than the exchanging of gifts."

I don't believe you, Wankel said.

It's true. The original idea of Christmas was to celebrate the birth of Christ.

You read that in a book," he asked disbelievably.

Yep. Serious gift giving didn't take place in this country until the department stores got into it. Before that, people gave their children toys and went to church. In some communities going to church was the highlight of Christmas Day."

I'd like to see that book."

Wankel said, "Suspiciously. Anyway that was another era and we're dealing with today. Our main point is that if you keep churches open people will feel a temptation to go to them. Entire families may wind up there and this could hurt the ski-resort business very badly."

I respect your feelings about Christmas, Wankel. I said, but I don't think any group in the United States should dictate to any other group what houses of worship must remain open or closed on Christmas."

Wankel replied, "Too much time, money and advertising has gone into Christmas to have a small minority spoil it by going to church. We're not against churches per se. We're just against churches remaining open on the one day of the year that is sacred to our Gross National Product."

Suppose, in spite of your protests, the churches, still remain open on Christmas Day. What will you do?"

Wankel smiled. "God will show us a way."

Tubal Ligation

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am going to have a tubal ligation at the birth of my third baby. (I am 27.)

1. Can I expect unusual pain or a longer hospital stay than is normal after having a baby?

2. Is there a period of waiting to see if the surgery "took," as with a vasectomy?

3. Am I to expect painful menstrual cramps, as two of my friends report? I have never had cramps in the past.

4. What are my chances of becoming pregnant after the surgery? I got pregnant after 17 beautiful successful months with "the coil." You can see my pessimism. Mrs. M.S.

The answers are no, no, no, and none.

Your hospital stay should not be longer than usual, and no unusual pain.

There is no waiting to see whether the surgery "took," because the situation is different with a vasectomy. It takes some time to get rid of sperm that is still lingering in the ducts.

With a tubal ligation the Fallopian tubes are cut and tied, and there is no way for an ovum to get through to be fertilized.

The chance of pregnancy, therefore, is zero. While the IUD or "coil" is fairly good at preventing pregnancy, it does not always afford complete protection.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a sinus condition and post-nasal drip and as a result have bad breath. What can be done? Mouthwash is only a temporary aid. —Mrs. R. S.

I know of no shortcut other than correcting the basic problem which is the sinus infection and post-nasal drip. Rather than suggesting any ineffective palliatives, I recommend that you send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy of my revised booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble," which goes into the P-N drip as well as sinus. Once thoroughly understood, the trouble is more amenable to correction than many sufferers realize. Send request to me in care of The Times-News.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there harm in eating raw, and I mean raw, meat which has been liberally sprinkled with tenderizer? My daughter does this and also gives it to her young children.

I know there is no harm in eating meat cooked with tenderizer but am worried sick since I discovered my daughter feeding her children this mess. W. G.

The tenderizer is destroyed in the stomach and will do no harm. The real danger in raw meat is picking up a tapeworm. Cooking would destroy it. And from raw pork there is the danger of trichinosis, and again cooking eliminates the danger.

56 Years Ago Christmas Was On A Monday, Too!

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

What were folks hereabouts doing 56 years ago at Christmastime?

The way to find out, of course, is to look back in the files of the old newspapers.

How long ago is 56 years? Well, that's in 1916. Twin Falls was just 12 years old. One of the leading newspapers was the twice-a-week Twin Falls Times.

So we scanned the issue of Dec. 26 in that year. That was on a Tuesday, which meant that Christmas Day in 1916 was on a Monday.

The same way it is this year. There's another coincidence. The newspaper was not published on Christmas Day in 1916. It will not be published Christmas Day this year. So some future writer — telling residents years from now just what happened on Christmas Day, 1972, will have to be content with the issue of the paper appearing the following day.

But who cares? How about some "what was going on" items from way back when?

First off, the big snow storm on Christmas Day prevented the Oregon Short Line from running trains to the city. The mercury was 11 above zero and several cars of one train were off the track near Mindoka. But it was hoped some cars would reach Twin Falls by Dec. 27. Rumors were rampant — and some even accused officials of the Amalgamated Sugar Co., with holding some coal cars on the side track in the hopes more profit might result.

Next we read that several members of Company D were allowed to come home from Boise for Christmas — even before the mustering out was set. The boys? Among them Captain McRoberts, Lieutenant Leighton, Sergeant Wenzel, Corporals Foss, Suehr, Thomas and Crider. With them were Rollo Crater of the Sanitary department and Eugene Ostrander of the band.

And then the Christmas Story on Page One. The headline: "Christmas Brought To Children Otherwise Neglected. One Hundred Small Souls Made Happy."

And the story made no bones about those few who apparently objected to entertaining just the poor kids. This verse headed the story:

I sincerely hope the devil may get him
And on his hottest gridiron set him
And every little Devil fret him
Till his poor soul, so lank and lean,
Be, like a pipstern, burned out clean.
But the event, held in the Episcopal Church, treated only children otherwise totally impoverished. The youngsters, poorly clad and in many cases pinched-faced, from four to 14 years old, were seated in a long semi-circle gazing with eager eyes at two beautifully decorated Christmas trees. With Asher B. Wilson as Santa Claus, each name was called and each received a remembrance.

Among other things, each girl received a dressed dolly and each larger one a book and two handkerchiefs. Each boy received a tinker-toy or other more appropriate gift.

When it was all over, one tiny mitten, almost too full of holes to hang together, was left upon the floor — a mute and pathetic evidence of the fitness of things.

Then, also on page one that day after Christmas, was a story detailing the drive of teachers to have the law changed so that state money could be available for use in public schools. And in case the Legislature would not change the law, then the teachers requested another which would remove the present limitations on the taxing powers of the several district boards.

And a shocker, buried down in the story, and much different from the thinking of today — an address by Dr. Shepherd "The Missing Link In Our Educational System." After that inspiring speech, the teachers went on record as favoring the use of the Bible or selected parts of the Bible in public school.

Then, too, there was a lot of activity down at Jarbidge, Nev. Seems as though the Starlight Vein was proving to be very rich in gold prospects — the Elkora opened an immense body of ore at Long Hike and the building boom was on with many Twin Falls people erecting fine structures in that thriving town.

From Boise, in that day-after Christmas paper — came word that the highway department had added $500,000 to its request for money and now was asking for a total of $1.5 million for road building. This request brought the state budget, as proposed by the various departments, to $4 million.

Then there was the story pointing that Jerome "booze" was stopped in transit. Sheriff Kendall and Deputy Thompson captured two men and charged them with having in their possession, two 10 gallon kegs, four quarts, three pints and a one gill of whiskey plus a few empty bottles. They were on their way home to Jerome from Twin Springs when captured. They were let out on bond but the Sheriff said he was sure the two had intended using the whiskey to permit a few Jerome friends to celebrate Christmas.

Also there was tragedy that Christmas. Z. Curtis reported he had lost a yellow saddle horse with white mane and tail, five years old and weighing about 1,000 pounds. He offered a reasonable reward.

There was the women, unnamed, who advertised she had lost a black purse containing silver, a $10 bill and a return trip ticket to Moscow on the noon train. Then, too, there was that trunk check and key also in the purse. A reward was offered if you called 181-R.

And entertainment that Christmas? An advertisement of the Orpheum theater told of Durant and Volloza, a novelty act; Miss Collis LePage, noted English male impersonator; Mills and Mills in comedy talking and harmony singing.

Foto plays offered included "Under Oath" which was chapter two of the $10,000 sequel to "The Diamond From The Sky." Also "The Living Dead" which was a thrilling chapter of the Iron Claw novel featuring Pearl White. It all closed with a comedy drama "The Border Line."

A newspaper sponsored advertisement said in blunt terms: "Come in and pay that over-due subscription account. Don't wait until the paper stops."

Still another "holiday" story which must have been most welcome: The officials of the Oregon Short Line announced that, because of the rising prices, all employees of the railroad making $1,800 or less a year would receive an extra month's salary. It was not a Christmas gift as such, the story said, but because the railroad realized how hard it was to live with the price rises. And the story also noted that practically all the railroad workers living in Twin Falls qualified for the gift of a month's pay.

And in the social whirl it was noted that Mr. and Mrs. E. Phelps of Peavey, Mr. and Mrs. H. Huffman and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Huffman; all of Filer; Mr. and Mrs. L. Buck of Kimberly, and Senator and Mrs. S. P. Atherton of Buhl were guests for dinner at the D.E. Atherton home on Christmas. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Stephen arrived from Ann Arbor, Michigan, and E. J. Finch, accompanied by his wife, spent Christmas in Buhl, the guests of his brother, J. C. Finch and family.

Then an addition to the story involving the railroad workers and the month's pay. The company also decided to give them free health and accident insurance.

So that's about how it was around this neck of the woods 56 year back.

Except for one thing. Another story said the big celebration New Year's eve would be at the Rogerson Hotel Cafe. There would be noise makers and the works and everything would be in grand style. Mrs. I. M. Arroll was planning the spread in celebration of her second year as cafe manager.

On Americanism

Editor, Times-News,

During the past election the candidates of the American Party stood for Americanism. However, it seems many people do not understand what is meant by the term Americanism. Americanism starts off with a belief in God, who is the source of unalienable rights. In the Declaration of Independence our Founding Fathers set us apart as a new nation. A small part of it says that men "are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights." Here is the core of Americanism. This small sentence says two very important things.

First of all, it says that there is a God, and secondly, that the rights of personal freedom and private property and freedom of movement — these rights come from no place else, but from God. Consequently, no government can take them away. Freedom comes from God, not government. You know, a recognition like this, at the start of a nation never happened before. No nation ever began with the beginning that we had, and it is because of the truths expressed so well in the Declaration of Independence that our Founding Fathers went on to build a system of limited government, recognizing that individuals are more important, and that the government is the servant, not the master.

Americanism, proceeds with limited self-government where the government is limited by Constitutional law and the people are limited by freely accepted moral codes such as the Ten Commandments.

On the political spectrum Americanism is the moderate position between no government, Anarchy, on the right and the excesses of government control through the state monopolies of Communism, Socialism, Nazism, and Facism on the left.

It appears the American people have forgotten their own heritage, and if we allow our Constitutional Republic to fade out of existence, it may never return again. It took close to six thousand years of recorded history of the truths embodied in the Declaration of Independence to be incorporated as the foundation of a nation. We, who have enjoyed more freedom than any men who have ever walked this earth, owe it to ourselves to preserve, to protect, and to strengthen it. Americanism. We also owe it to our children and to generations yet unborn.

Lunacy Lanes

Editor, Times-News,

From time to time, out of dire necessity, we go to the city of lunacy lanes. Twin Falls, and it is obvious the "City Dudes" are at a complete loss as to what to do with the traffic they now have.

But these shekel worshipping fools jump at the chance to route Interstate 80 traffic down Main Street. Yes, Main also known as Main Street and use Shoshone St. as a runway for the airport.

These lovers of the pieces of silver could annex everything to Idaho Falls in one direction, and Lewiston in the other, and they would still have "bottomless pits" in the streets that they had in 1936 when I, out of dreadful necessity, went through Twin Falls. Although now the chuck holes, like people with age, get wider.

I have yet to go through "lunacy lanes" without violating a traffic law, but have never received a citation, proof again that the police are our friends and see that "obstacle course" from the same angle as I do.

Prayer For Today

Christmas Eve again, God. It doesn't sound possible to be both happy and sad on Christmas Eve, but we are. We're sad to think that there is still so much suffering in our world, that we've found no lasting peace. We're happy, though, that "Love" did come down at Christmas to point the way to that peace the angels sang about that first Christmas Eve. We take so long to learn, Dear God. Help us to work harder to find your way to "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

Those "Sugar Plums"

WASHINGTON — Those "sugar plums" dancing through the night — before Christmas — members of Congress are appointed every four years by Congress, the President and the Judiciary three by each branch. This body has six months in which to study the pay scale of these three branches and submit recommendations to the President. He in turn has another six months to send them to Congress — or junk them.

If he sends the commission's findings to Congress, it has 60 days in which to act. That is done in this roundabout way.

If Congress does nothing, the commission's recommendations — a pay hike or, most improbable, a cut — automatically go into effect. In other words, if Congress does nothing, the commission's proposals become law.

But if Congress turns them down, that's the end of them. However, Congress has to do that by direct action; that is, vote on a motion expressly to reject.

That didn't happen last time, and it's hardly likely to this time.

A special panel is set up — called the Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries. Its nine members are appointed every four years by Congress, the President and the Judiciary three by each branch. This body has six months in which to study the pay scale of these three branches and submit recommendations to the President. If Congress does nothing, the commission's recommendations — a pay hike or, most improbable, a cut — automatically go into effect. In other words, if Congress does nothing, the commission's proposals become law.

But if Congress turns them down, that's the end of them. However, Congress has to do that by direct action; that is, vote on a motion expressly to reject.

That didn't happen last time, and it's hardly likely to this time.

TIMELY QUOTES

It is much too late to debate the issue. Marijuana is here to stay. No conceivable law enforcement program can curb its availability.

—Consumers Union, advocating the legalization and regulation of marijuana.

It's all right to lose once, but to lose twice in the same week is a bit of a shock.

—Juan-Luc Pepin, Canadian trade minister, who was declared loser, then winner, then finally loser in Canada's parliamentary elections.

There are numerous countries in the world where politicians have seized absolute power and muzzled the press. There is no country in the world where the press has seized absolute power and muzzled the politicians.

—TV commentator David Brinkley.

We've made progress. But it's only a battle and the war continues. As long as there are hundreds of thousands of people in the United States willing to buy drugs with millions of dollars, no police in the world can end the traffic.

—Marcel Morin, chief of the Marseilles, France, narcotics squad, on efforts to end the "French connection" in international drug traffic.

I will pick the next police director without giving a tinker's dam about the color he entered this world. I do not have any desire to discuss color.

—Kenneth A. Gibson, first black mayor of Newark, N.J., to requests by community groups that he appoint a black police director.

Christmas is the day of Our Saviour's birth.

He was sent by God to this earth For God so loved us, every one.

He was willing to send his only son.

That at the end of this worldly strife

We may receive eternal life.

So think of Him, not as a babe so tiny

But as a great man — strong and mighty.

Who is able to help us, and will indeed,

If we just bring Him our every need.

So think of Him, not as a babe in a crib

But as a real man who lives instead.

One who is loving, kind and true

Who gave His life for me and for you.

But God in Heaven, rise Him up again.

To walk beside us here in this land.

If we walk beside Him wherever he leads.

He will supply us with all our needs.

So don't think of Him as a babe in a crib

But a man who lives, and willing to give.

So give to Him your life this day

The gift, for a price, you can afford to pay.

And think of Him, not as a babe so tiny.

But as a great man — strong and mighty.

Crash survivors prevail on faith

SAN FERNANDO, Chile (UPI) — Survivors of the Uruguayan Air Force plane crash in the Andes two months ago in which 29 died told Saturday a nightmare ordeal in which faith in God was their only weapon.

"Faith in God was all that we had. It gave us hope and courage," said Roberto Canessa, 19, whose mother and sister were among the dead.

Canessa and seven of the survivors were rescued Friday and taken to the regional hospital in the provincial capital, 120 miles southeast of Santiago.

Air Force helicopters landed alongside the snow-covered wreckage Saturday and flew the eight remaining survivors directly to a military hospital. All were reported in good condition.

The Uruguayan footballer disappeared Oct. 11 on a flight to Santiago from the Argentine city of Mendoza, at the base of the Andes. It had been chartered by the Olimpia Brothers rugby team of Montevideo for a series of games in Chile.

The plane carried 40 passengers and five crewmen. The crew and the five women were among the dead.

Canessa said the crash occurred around 4 p.m. in a mountainous area. "We were flying on instruments and had our seatbelts fastened because of the wind and snow," he said.

Canessa said about half the passengers died immediately. A few minutes after the crash, he said, a snowslide buried the plane.

Day by day, others died until just two of us were left," he said.

Canessa's mother, Teresa, and sister, Susana, were away from the team.

They did not take the plane. They had to leave the student and the crew to train. "We were very sad to see them go," Canessa said. "We were very sad to see them go."

"We buried then with the others in the snow."

Later, Canessa said, the survivors organized themselves in their battle for life.

The medical students were in charge of caring for the injured and controlling the food. The architecture students supervised arrangements for converting the fuselage into a livable hut, he said.

Canessa said an engineering student repaired the aircraft's radio about 10 days after the crash.

The first thing we heard was that the search for our plane had been suspended.

Many of us wept bitterly. However, the most tranquil of us had faith in God," he said.

"We passed a month and then another month like this. Finally, on Dec. 10, we held a meeting and it was decided that Luis and Fernando Parrada should strike out on our own to seek help."

We left that morning. We told the others to pray for us.

Tears of joy

WEeping with happiness at learning her son Roberto was among survivors of plane crash in Andes Mountains is Senora Mercedes de Canessa, Montevideo, Uruguay. Her son was one of two who made way out of snow-clad mountains seeking help for victims. Last survivors were rescued from crash site Saturday. (UPI)

Israel ousts refugees

By United Press International Israel ordered 105 Palestinian families out of their refugee camp homes in the Gaza Strip Saturday while Syria and Turkey called for Israeli withdrawal from occupied lands as a precondition for peace in the Middle East.

In the occupied Gaza strip the first attack in more than a month was reported Saturday. The military command in Tel Aviv said an explosion set by Arab guerrillas damaged a railroad track on the main rail line south of Khan Yunis in the Gaza Strip Friday night.

It marked the first reported guerrilla incident in the strip since Nov. 23 when a grenade exploded at the side of a warehouse in Chan Yunis. No casualties or damage were reported.

In the first step of plans to revamp the refugee camp at Rafah and other camps like it, Brig. Gen. Shlomo Gazit, head of the military government in the occupied territories, said road building operations will begin in the camp next week that will knock down 130 houses, 105 of them occupied and the others partially destroyed or abandoned.

In Damascus, Syria and Turkey called for withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied lands before peace in the Middle East could be achieved.

Astronauts relax

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The last Apollo explorers relaxed in the Christmas quiet of home Saturday afternoon, while their nearly 1.5-million-mile journey to the moon was reviewed by the world through the photographs they made.

A beautiful picture of the full earth framed in the blackness of space and streaked with wispy clouds highlighted eight Apollo 17 photos released by the Space Agency Saturday.

Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt captured the view of Africa, Arabia and the Antarctica polar ice cap a few hours after he and Eugene A. Cernan and Ronald E. Evans blasted away from Earth Dec. 7.

It may be the last photo of the full earth this century. The space agency has no plans to return to the moon and earth-orbital spacecraft do not fly far enough away to get a full view. The astronauts must spend part of Christmas Eve in technical discussions with space officials before taking a week-long break for the holidays. They worked Saturday morning in technical debriefings that follow every spaceflight.

A spokesman said the astronauts would spend Christmas at their homes in Nassau Bay and El Lago near the Space Center.

One of the photos released shows Evans clinging to the blistered side of the spacecraft during his spacewalk 184,000 miles from Earth. He retrieved film packages from the service module that housed cameras and scientific instruments used during six days orbiting the moon.

Another photo captures the command and service modules as the lunar lander approached after three days on the surface.

The third moon car that carried the astronauts over 22.4 miles of the Taurus-Littrow Valley highlights two other photos.

Schmitt and Cernan are pictured in the others, taking some of the 258 pounds of soil and rock samples they returned to earth.

The samples include the startling orange soil that scientists believe proves volcanoes existed on the moon. The discoloration was probably caused by steam or lava forced from the lunar crust, scientists said.

The geologists plan to open the box of rust-hued soil Wednesday. From that and other materials Apollo 17 brought home, scientists may piece together the very ancient and relatively recent history of man's nearest neighbor.

assistance to Cuba in development of a number of key industries, transport and agricultural production. It also agreed to terms for further granting of Soviet credits to Cuba and of reciprocal deliveries of goods and settlements.

Western intelligence sources have estimated Soviet aid to Cuba is running at the rate of one million dollars a day. Castro, making his second visit here in five months, attended celebrations marking the 50th anniversary of the confederation of the Soviet Union.

BERLIN (UPI) — Germans from the Western part of the city began to pour through the Berlin Wall Saturday for their happiest Christmas since 1965. Thanks to the Big Four agreement designed to lessen tension here, West Berliners once again could spend Christmas with their relations in the East.

An estimated 500,000 were expected to cross the border by New Year's Day, raising to more than two million the number since the occupation foreign ministers signed the Berlin agreement on June 3.

"Welcome to the German Democratic Republic" blared a loudspeaker at the Friedrich Strasse border station. Armed border guards patrolled the station to make sure the traffic only was one way.

The average East German still was barred from traveling West by the wall built on the East-West Berlin border, Aug. 13, 1961 to halt the flight of refugees.

Laden with presents, West Berliners went East by train, subway, elevated railway, in automobiles and by foot.

West Berlin police said the flow was not as great Saturday as had been expected.

The highpoint was expected Christmas Day and Tuesday, which also is a holiday in Germany.

It was the first Christmas since 1965 that families split by the wall could spend the holiday together.

Mine safety pledged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new president of the United Mine Workers said Saturday his union, coal operators and federal and state governments have all been derelict on mine safety, but under his leadership the union will make coal mining safer with or without the cooperation of management and government.

"We've had disasters occur too frequently," said Arnold E. Miller in a UPI "Washington Whodun" interview just a week after five men were killed in a coal mine explosion in his home state of West Virginia. "These disasters have got to stop."

Miller said he would insist that mine safety committees, made up of working miners, have the power to shut down mines or evacuate miners if they find dangerous conditions in mines.

And of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, he said "either they do their job or we'll do it for them."

Miller, one day after he was sworn into office, said the 1969

Coal Mine Health and Safety Act was "pretty adequate and some of the various state laws are pretty good."

"But the agencies on the state level and the Federal Bureau of Mines have not demonstrated any desirability to enforce the law," he said. "And the operators themselves have not done anything about the problem and I must confess that our union has done very little."

"Our safety today is worse than it was 20 or 30 years ago," he added.

"I intend to sit down and talk with the coal operators and explain to them what I think ought to be done," Miller said.

Wreck found

OSLO (UPI) — Search parties found the wreckage late Saturday of a Norwegian Fokker Fellowship airliner carrying 45 persons which crashed only minutes before its scheduled touch-down at the Fornebu airport here.

The rescuers did not say whether there were any survivors, but rescue authorities here ordered that the first injured should be transferred to a hospital in Baerum, a suburb of Oslo. The rescue center indicated there may have been seven survivors.

Airport officials said the plane was found at Asdoelatr, a small lake in a forest about 12 miles southwest of Oslo.

Earlier reports said two persons in the area had heard cries from people at the southern end of the lake.

Airport sources said radio contact with the plane broke off 12 minutes before it was scheduled to land.

Philippine vote on power delayed

MANILA (UPI) — A Philippine plebiscite on whether to allow martial law ruler Ferdinand E. Marcos to stay in power for an indefinite period was postponed Saturday from the scheduled Jan. 15 date.

Marcos said the postponement would enable some 12 million Filipino voters to debate the proposed charter which would replace the American-oriented constitution signed in 1935. He said officials will decide whether the plebiscite would be held on Feb. 19 or March 5.

made before 1,000 laborers at the Malacanang palace at the launching of a workers' movement for the ratification of the constitution. It followed a five-hour meeting earlier with Congressional leaders.

The decision to postpone the plebiscite was reached after meetings with leaders of various sectors of the country, Marcos said.

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., was established by Act of Congress Aug. 10, 1846.

DR. LUTHER (LUTE) JERSTAD
... scaled Mt. Everest

Everest climber Burley speaker

BURLEY — One of the first Americans to scale Mt. Everest will address the Burley-Rupert Knife and Fork Club at its regular Ponderosa Inn meeting Jan. 8.

Dr. Luther "Lute" Jerstad, although employed professionally as a speech instructor at the University of Oregon, has earned an international reputation in connection with his avocation — mountain climbing.

His conquest of Mt. Everest was a six-month project that included rigorous pre-ascent training.

He was awarded the Hubbard Medal for his effort, an honor given only to those who reach the Everest summit.

Many scientific tests were made on Everest's slopes, according to Jerstad, and have been applied in the space program and nuclear age experimentation.

Jerstad's physical interpidness was evidenced early. As a college athlete, he played in the finals of three national basketball tournaments and received two awards for inspiration.

County treasurer processes returns

TWIN FALLS — It will take the next ten days for county personnel to open and process the last minute tax payments mailed to the treasurer's office.

Twin Falls County Treasurer Ruth K. Jones said the office staff has until Jan. 1 by law to process the property tax payments, due in her office by Dec. 20, and she expects it will take until the deadline.

For now, boxes of unopened property tax payments from county property owners are stored in a vault in the courthouse.

Mrs. Jones said if past years' collections are an indication, she has on hand about 70 per cent of the total property tax collections for the year. Notices for $6 million were mailed out.

Under Idaho law, first half payments must be made by Dec. 20, with second half remittances due on June 20. But Mrs. Jones said many Twin Falls taxpayers pay their entire taxes in December.

Bicycle club meets

GLENNSFERRY — The first meeting of the 4-H Bicycle Club will be at 5 p.m. Thursday at the Elmore County Courthouse.

All boys and girls who have access to a bicycle are invited. Sgt. Gilbert Miller of the Mountain Home Air Force base will be leader.

Information about the club may contact him at 832-4531.

So far leaders for wood-working clubs have not been found. Some youths who signed for the woodworking club might consider changing to the bicycle club, suggested Mrs. Marilyn Jordan, Elmore County home extension agent.

US-Soviet gains not in danger

Viets walk out, protest bombing

PARIS (UPI) — The North Vietnamese peace delegation stormed out of a technical-level meeting with American diplomats Saturday after protesting U. S. resumption of the full-scale air war in Vietnam.

The Communists denounced "frenzied" U. S. air and naval attacks against North Vietnam which they said had leveled villages, hospitals, schools and populated city areas, and destroyed at least three foreign embassies.

They declared Hanoi's willingness to settle the Vietnam problem peacefully and called on Washington to take part in serious negotiations. It was the third time this week the Communists cut short negotiating sessions. They declined to set a date for a new meeting immediately.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union is unlikely to allow its irritation over new U.S. bombing attacks against North Vietnam to imperil the gains of improved relations with Washington, diplomatic sources said Saturday.

The propaganda raised against the bombing reached a height unparalleled in Soviet criticism of the Vietnam War since before President Nixon's visit to Moscow in May.

The diplomatic sources said that despite a warning by Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist party general secretary, that much in future Soviet-American relations hinges on ending the war, the Kremlin is not likely to sacrifice the hard-won rapprochement with Washington.

The Soviets opened up on all propaganda fronts Saturday in their campaign against the bombing renewal.

Worker's rallies in different cities and statements by official organizations hammered away with the Kremlin's already expressed view that the attacks are a "barbaric act" designed to pressure Hanoi into signing a peace treaty.

"Soviet people strongly condemn the new atrocities perpetrated by the American military against the DRV (Democratic Republic of Vietnam)," the Tass news agency said. "They wrathfully express their indignation at crowded meetings held in different cities of the Soviet Union."

Tass said a statement by the Soviet peace committee "demands that the pointless, barbarous cruelty against the peaceful population of Vietnam should be stopped immediately."

The propaganda drive began Tuesday with a Tass statement that said "the new escalation of military operations by the United States against the DRV can only be regarded as an attempt to bring pressure to bear on the Vietnamese side in order to compel it to accept the American terms for a Vietnam settlement."

Brezhnev condemned "these barbarian acts" in a major policy address Thursday and "emphatically stressed" that much in the future of Soviet-American relations depends on ending the Indochina war. Eastern European Communist leaders echoed Brezhnev's words Friday, Saturday was the peoples turn to complain.

"Speakers at a meeting in the Lenin-Komsomol car plant expressed ardent support for the firm and principled position of the Soviet government," Tass said. "The speakers stated that no piratical acts by the American military can break the will of the heroic Vietnamese people."

Round-clock air raids continue over Vietnam

In the ground war, for the first time since the siege of Kontum City was lifted June 14, North Vietnamese troops began massing Saturday south of Fire Base November, within four miles north of the city.

In three small battles within a mile of the base during the day, a total of 42 Communists were killed. Three South Vietnamese died and 18 were wounded, military spokesmen told UPI reporter Matt Franjola at Pleiku.

Late Saturday the base began receiving heavy shell fire, and early in the evening communications with the base were lost and a tactical emergency declared. A U.S. Air Force AC130 Spectre gunship was sent to the scene. Radio contact was re-established within about two hours with an American adviser in a tank, who said other antennas had been shot away.

Military spokesmen told Franjola the situation was "very confused" and it was not known whether Communists were in or around the base perimeter.

In Saigon, South Vietnam's Foreign Ministry announced government troops will observe a 24-hour Christmas holiday truce, beginning at 6 p.m. Sunday. Thursday night the Viet Cong's clandestine Liberation Radio announced the Communists would observe a 24-hour cease-fire beginning at 1 p.m. Sunday.

The U.S. command, declining to "discuss future operational matters," said it had nothing to say about a Christmas holiday truce. However, a command spokesman said that "very little time would be needed to implement a Christmas cease-fire."

Vietnam situation worries UN chief

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said Saturday he was "greatly concerned" over the worsening situation in Vietnam, and a U.N. in a statement to newsmen, Waldheim said.

"I deeply regret that the long and strenuous efforts to achieve peace in Vietnam have again been interrupted."

"I am greatly concerned at the deterioration of the situation and the continuing bombings."

It is my earnest hope that the negotiations for a cease-fire in Vietnam will be resumed without delay.

"It could be done almost up before the start of the South Vietnamese truce," the spokesman said.

UPI correspondent Helen Thomas, reporting from Key Biscayne, La., where President Nixon is spending the holiday, said she had learned that U.S. bombing of North Vietnam would be halted in line with the arrangements made by the South Vietnamese.

The British foreign office in London said it has received unconfirmed reports that a

Hanoi radio says PW camps bombed

SAIGON (UPI) — American war planes twice bombed a detention camp in Hanoi where U.S. POWs are confined, Radio Hanoi said Saturday night.

In a broadcast monitored in Saigon Radio Hanoi said "The detention rooms, the shower house, the library were damaged by U.S. bombs and rockets."

In a commentary, Radio Hanoi said the first bombing occurred Wednesday and the second Thursday.

"Many POWs have shown their indignation about the cruel act by Nixon and worry about their fate. One of them said, 'Is this the Christmas gift that Mr. Nixon sent us?'" The broadcast did not give the name of the POW who made the alleged remark.

"They (POWs) have shown many bomb fragments that they picked up in the camp," the broadcast said.

If repeated earlier reports that "certain fliers were wounded" in the camp but did not list a number or names. It also repeated earlier reports that folk singer Joan Baez and former war-crimes prosecutor Telford Taylor had been shown the bomb damage at the prison camp.

In a statement in Paris, North Vietnamese envoys identified the camp as the "Thieu Detention Camp." The statement said it is "situated in a populated zone of Hanoi near some embassies and containing no military targets."

Radio Hanoi reported Thursday night that the Cuban embassy in Hanoi had been bombed at 11:15 a.m. However, it quoted the Cuban charge d'affaires as saying the embassy staff was at lunch when the bombing occurred.

In the latest broadcast monitored in Saigon, Radio Hanoi said the second bombing of the detention camp occurred at noon Thursday.

In Saigon, a U.S. command spokesman Saturday repeated an earlier statement that, "We have not targeted any areas where there were U.S. POWs."

Kansas fugitive held here

TWIN FALLS — A fugitive from Kansas turned himself in to police Thursday night during the course of a search by Twin Falls Police officers.

According to Chief of Detectives Tim Qualls, Ray Charles Turner, 36, Kansas City, Mo., was stopped for a routine investigation Thursday night by police and tried to out-run officers while his records were being checked.

Police officers chased Turner when it was learned he was wanted in Kansas on a burglary warrant. Before they caught up with him, Turner awakened a Twin Falls resident and asked him to call police and tell them a wanted man was at the address.

Turner was picked up by police and placed in the county jail on a hold for Kansas authorities.

anta Claus lives for Virginia's descendants

N.Y. bates.
Mrs. Robert Temple told UPI that in some ways the family observance has changed since her mother died more than 11-2 years ago at the age of 81. But many of Mrs. Douglas' grandchildren and great-grandchildren—those who live close enough—will be here to help celebrate.
Mrs. Temple noted that one change since her mother's death was that the number of telephone calls from newsmen had dwindled although the family recently went to Washington, D.C., to help launch the first Santa Claus stamp ever issued by the United States.

One thing that has not changed, however, said Mrs. Temple, "and probably never will" is the spirit that prompted the letter from 8-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon and the now famous reply, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."
Mrs. Temple recalled that her mother wrote the New York Sun in the fall of 1897 and the response by editorial writer Francis P. Church appeared shortly after. It was reprinted

'Yes Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist.'

each Christmas Eve thereafter until the 1950's when the Sun merged with the now defunct World Telegram. Church died in 1916 and Mrs. Douglas always insisted it was he who deserved all the credit. She wrote this letter to the Sun:

"Dear Editor:
"I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says 'If you see it in the Sun it's so.'
"Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"
"Virginia O'Hanlon
"115 West 95th Street."
The Sun printed the letter along with Church's reply. The most famous part of that response:
"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable their existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished."

BIG DUMP

The sale all Magic Valley waits for every year. For years we have done a full month's sales volume during this one big week. This year we must do more because of our heavy inventory — nearly half a million dollars — due to too many late carload shipments. So prices will be even lower and special arrangements have been made so that payments can be delayed till spring.

And the sales people will quote the low Big Dump Price according to its condition, its age, and its depth of inventory. We close our year as of December 31st. We have just five days to do a full month's business. We will do our part by giving you the lowest prices — the rest is up to you.

Navy official asked to quit

By WARREN NELSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gordon W. Rule, a high civilian Navy official who publicly criticized Pentagon waste and denounced President Nixon's appointment of Roy L. Ash as budget director, has been reassigned and asked to retire, the Pentagon said Friday.

A congressman immediately charged that Rule had been bullied, and Rule, a cigar-chomping redhead and outspoken critic of military cost overruns, retorted, "I'm not going to resign if some four-star admiral asks me to."

Rule has been director of the Procurement Control and Clearance Section of the Navy Materiel Command. In that job he oversaw Navy contracts worth $6-$8 billion a year.

Three days ago Rule testified before the Joint Economic Committee that the appointment of Ash, former president of Litton Industries, which has had two multibillion dollar shipbuilding contracts with the Navy, was "a mistake," and should be withdrawn.

Rule also said that "Old General Eisenhower must be twitching in his grave" because of the late President's warning against the military-industrial complex.

Pomerelle open Monday

RUPERT — Pomerelle ski area will be operating Christmas Day as part of its regular seven day per week schedule.

Resort officials say skiing is good with about one and one half inches of new snow having fallen Thursday night on a packed base of about four feet at the top of ski runs.

Buses will be running daily to the area from Twin Falls, Jerome, Burley and Rupert during the holiday period.

Merry Pet

Linda Merry,

Question: Is it true that ravens have to have their tongues split to talk? Someone gave us a beautiful raven they caught wild. We've tamed him a bit but we want to teach him to talk.

Answer: Forked tongue not necessary for man nor bird. This notice stems from the bird's tongue being joined to the bottom of its mouth far forward by a small piece of tissue called the frenulum.

It is the frenulum which is sometimes cut to keep ravens from being "tongue-tied." But it seems that ravens will talk equally well whether the tongue is cut or not.

Teaching them is mainly a matter of repetition and patience on the part of the owner.

You might be able to speed the process and hear his speaking voice on Christmas Eve though, if you're clever. All the animals talk on Christmas Eve you know.

They have since that very first Christmas Eve when Joseph placed Mary on a small grey donkey and they went out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. But there was no room at the inns for many were the people who had come to be taxed.

At last a stable was found where they might be housed, but even that was not without travail.

The animals of that stable each had their place and knew it well. Donkeys One and Two occupied the stalls. Cow and her calf had the main place at the manger. Mama Ewe was bedded down nearby with her twins — why even the chickens knew where to roost!

Now just who was going to give up his place for these humans? There was a terrible din of clucking, mooing, lowing, blowing, and even a few snorts until someone realized that they were bleating just like humans. A hush fell and Cow decided she could surely step aside if Donkey One would, and so a place was found for Mary.

And Mary brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in the manger. Strange that of all the important people in the world, no one was present at the birth of the Son of God, the Savior of Mankind.

Rather, this miracle was watched over by a little grey donkey, Cow and calf, Ewe and twins, and a few other barnyard animals whose names history didn't even record. These lowly animals were equal to the occasion, however.

When they saw the baby Jesus, love shone in all those brown eyes, they dropped to their knees (yes, all four of them), and they worshipped. They spoke softly but they spoke, not brays or neighs — but praises to God in words that Mary heard and knew and cherished forever.

And so it is that just at midnight on Christmas Eve, if they aren't drowned by sleigh bells or skidoos, you might hear the whisper of animal voices.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL THE PEOPLE WHO LOVE PETS AND THE PETS WHO LOVE PEOPLE.

Miller to head mine workers

By DONALD R. FINLEY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arnold R. Miller, a rank-and-file miner disabled by black lung disease, became president of the United Mine Workers Friday, ending more than half a century of autocratic rule by the late John L. Lewis and his hand-picked heirs.

"Every coal miner will know this is his union," Miller said when he was sworn into office at an emotional ceremony where he was cheered by more than 300 jubilant rank-and-file supporters.

"It no longer belongs to one man," said Miller, a reformist who defeated incumbent W. A. "Tony" Boyle in a court-ordered and government-supervised election after Boyle's 1969 win was set aside because of ballot and campaign fraud.

Joseph A. "Chip" Yablonski, son of Boyle's 1969 opponent, was overcome with emotion as Miller was sworn in by the president of his West Virginia local union, Orville Robinette.

Yablonski's father, mother and sister were murdered three weeks after the 1969 election. "I could bust I'm so happy and thrilled," Yablonski, a Washington attorney, later told UPI.

Miller, 39, from Onley, W. Va., and his entire slate of candidates took their oaths of office in a basement conference room at the UMW headquarters shortly after U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant, who ordered the new election, declared them. The winners' in voting supervised by the Labor Department.

Miller then went to Boyle's old office on the second floor of the 60-year-old Italian Renaissance-style building two blocks from the White House and declared to cheering supporters "this office will be revitalized. This office is now open to the rank-and-file miner."

He said this marked the first time that he, after 21 years in the coal mines, had ever been in the union president's office.

TWIN FALLS — Mary Drown is the December YM-YWCA artist of the month.

Many of her paintings are presently displayed at the "Y" and Magic Valley residents are welcome to view them throughout December.

She lives with her husband, Bill, on their ranch in the Three Creek area 30 miles west of Rogerson.

Mrs. Drown has been painting for about 10 years. She began painting more or less on her own and with friends in the Elko, Nev., Art Club of which she was once president.

Though largely self taught, she has studied under the direction of Louis Heinaman, Salt Lake City; Lee Parkinson, Ogden, Utah, and Susan Hutchinson, Twin Falls.

Mrs. Drown has done most of her painting in oils, but recently has begun working with acrylics. She also works with water colors.

For subject matter, she prefers still life and flowers and the semidesert landscapes of southern Idaho and northern Nevada.

Mrs. Drown has shown her work in several places, most recently at a one-man show at the Peacock Gap Country Club, San Rafael, Calif.

Drive slated

TWIN FALLS County March of Dimes Chairman Raymond Hanson discusses the forthcoming March of Dimes Mothers March with Mrs. Robert H. (Sandy) Becker, chairman of the mothers march. The annual drive will officially begin Jan. 1, with the mothers march set for the week of Jan. 22.

TF chairman named for annual drive

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Robert H. (Sandy) Becker has been appointed chairman of the March of Dimes Mothers March, according to Raymond Hanson, Twin Falls County March of Dimes chairman.

January is March of Dimes Month, with the week of Jan. 22 set aside for the mothers march. Some neighborhood workers have been named, but many more volunteers are needed, Mrs. Becker said.

She has set up orientation meetings for 7:30 p.m. Jan. 4 and 15 at the Idaho Power Auditorium.

Mrs. Becker is well qualified for the job since she is secretary for the executive committee of the Mayor's Committee to Hire the Handicapped and active in Jay-Cettes, serving as secretary-treasurer and president in 1971 and 72.

"Birth defects have become the No. 1 child health problem in the United States," according to Mrs. Becker. "They may happen in your home, next door, or down the street. We need your financial support to help eliminate these tragedies that strike some 250,000 babies every year," she said.

A quarter of a million infants are born with birth defects annually in this country. The March of Dimes supports intensive research, medical services, professional education and community service programs throughout the year, with much of the money received in the local drives staying in the community.

According to Mrs. Becker, contributions to the March of Dimes also will help in establishing more prenatal care programs for mothers with high-risk pregnancies and intensive care nurseries for the critically ill newborn.

TWIN FALLS — Mini-reviews for some of the books recently received by the Twin Falls Public Library have been released by library officials.

"The Chinese Agenda" by Joe Poyer. This is a story of a joint American and Russian team and their journey into desolation and peril. It starts as a dangerous mission; turns into a murderous intrigue and multiple death.

"Funeral Rites" by Jean Ganet. A novel set at the time of the liberation of Paris in the late summer of 1944, when the newspapers were filled with reports of massacres, fighting and tortures.

"The American Nightmare" by Sidney Slamich. "We must take (our) culture back from the experts. It is your power to do so, dear reader, dear members of the silent majority and you must do it."

"Good lives," by George R. Stewart. Here are vivid sketches of a few men — all great, though not all widely known to the American public, whose careers displayed that kind of fulfillment, known as the good life. "Citizen Nader" by Charles McCarry. The author approaches Ralph Nader and his work as neither adversary nor as an advocate. He succeeds brilliantly in humanizing the complex elusive man behind the headlines.

"Let Me Count the Ways" by Peter Devreis. The home of Tom becomes a debating society that makes him a son as divided as the house from which he comes.

"Other Voices, Other Rooms" by Truman Capote. A 20th anniversary edition of the first novel of one of the foremost writers of our time. The introduction is written especially by the author.

"The American Magazine" by John Tebbel. A one-volume history of American magazines from the earliest publications in 1741 to the present rise of the black press and the avant-garde magazines. It is an intellectual, social and literary history of life in the U.S.

"The Supreme Court and Religion" by Richard E. Morgan. Here is a fundamental dissent from the positions recently taken by the court interpreting the religious clauses of the first amendment.

"The Only Way to Cross" by John Maxtone-Graham. The splendor and romance of a vanished era — when travel aboard was synonymous with an ocean passage is vividly recaptured in this book.

Cranberries

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Cranberries, most often associated with holiday meals, were a peace symbol to several Indian tribes, says the New Jersey State Department of Agriculture. In a newsletter, the department said the Delaware tribe of New Jersey first offered and ate the berries at peace pow-wows.

Indian women gathered wild cranberries from bogs just before the first frost and dried them for later use. They were the first course at meals on special feast days.

New era for American alcoholics

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family News Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — What's new for nine million Americans on the alcoholic trail? A "help here" sign hoisted by hospitals, community organizations and rehabilitation centers.

It's a new deal for men and women caught up in the battle with the bottle.

The encounters cost $15 billion a year—rough estimate. Some alcoholics end the struggle on a do-it-yourself basis. The suicide rate among alcoholics is 58 times that of non-alcoholics.

The American Hospital Association (AHA), through a nationwide education program, is breaking down resistance by many hospitals to admitting acutely ill alcoholics as inpatients. The campaign also is tying in the 6,000 voluntary hospitals with other community resources aiming to help alcoholics get and stay sober. "Many professionals in the hospital field still believe the alcoholic is a nuisance, not a sick person," says Alex McMahon, AHA president.

"Studies by the association show that the alcoholic is not disruptive or unmanageable or needs special facilities and time-consuming treatment. Hopefully there is a new look in admitting and treating the man or woman with a serious drinking problem."

Hospitalization can be life-saving if withdrawal symptoms have begun. The mortality rate for delirium tremens was about 15 per cent 20 years ago. Today it is less than one half of one per cent—a part of the pay-off for more hospitals adopting a more positive attitude toward alcoholics.

Hospitals used to take an ostrich posture when faced with an alcoholic patient. They are finding, now that they're really looking at admissions, that alcoholic abuse is a common cause for the admission of general patients.

From 25 to 30 per cent of all adult medical surgical patients in metropolitan hospitals, regardless of diagnosis, have been found to be suffering also from alcoholism. Still, a lot of alcoholics are winked at by hospitals. At a New York hospital only 120 patients in a recent year were admitted under a preliminary diagnosis of alcoholism. A closer look showed many times that number of patients that year were alcoholics.

It doesn't show up in the statistics either but a substantial number of home accidents are related to too much booze. Home accidents account for 20 per cent of all accidental deaths.

Consider one index. Of 620 home accidents cases at Massachusetts General Hospital, 40 per cent had positive breathalyzer readings. Alcohol in the blood.

Consider another index. At Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco, 50 per cent of all fracture cases resulted from alcoholic abuse—being drunk.

The price of alcohol abuse goes on. The AHA reports employers' losses are estimated to be 26 per cent the average annual salary of each alcoholic employee. Of the six million arrests made each year in the United States, 40 per cent involve alcoholism. More than 28,000 fatal highway crashes involve drivers who have been drinking excessively.

What the hospitals and communities are doing means that for the first time no person with a drinking problem need be without some form of help, regardless of economic status or region of residence.

The new helping hand extended by hospitals and others is inadequate. But it's a start.

DEAR ABBY: A big dog in our neighborhood took the heads off two pet rabbits which belonged to my children. I telephoned the S. P. C. A. and told them to pick up that dog. I really feared for the small children in our neighborhood with such an animal running the streets.

Well, I didn't realize the mess this would get me into because while they were searching our neighborhood for that big dog, they picked up a small harmless dog and took him away because he had no tags and was running loose.

Now the owner of the small dog is furious because she knows I called the men who picked up her dog.

What would you have done in my place? UPSET

DEAR UPSET: Exactly what YOU did, so don't feel guilty. Laws are for the protection of all, and those who break them should pay the price.

DEAR ABBY: My husband plays cards with "the boys" one night a week. I don't mind that, but I do mind when he keeps it a big secret if he loses—or wins. Also, how much.

When I ask him how he came out, he gets angry and clams up. I think a wife has a right to know these things. Maybe he keeps his winnings a big secret because he doesn't want me to ask for anything extra from his winnings. On the other hand, maybe he keeps his losses a secret because he's ashamed or thinks maybe I'll try to keep him from playing if he loses too much.

Which of these theories do you think is correct? CARD PLAYER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: BOTH!

DEAR ABBY: My very tall teen-aged daughter walked into a store the other day, and the saleslady loudly exclaimed, "My, there's a tall one for you!"

This absolutely destroyed my daughter's ego! That saleswoman would never have said, "My, there's a pimply one for you!" Or, "My, that's a fat one for you!"

Please remind your readers that personal remarks of this kind are cruel. Unusually tall girls don't need remarks to remind them they are taller than most girls their age.

I can't think of a clever way to sign this, except one that is too long, so feel free to doctor it if you wish.

MOM OF A 6 FT. GLORY

DEAR MOM: No doctoring necessary. Tell your "glory" to walk tall. She's potentially great model material.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing fast and am going to mail this before I lose my nerve. What do you do when you love your husband who is a lousy lover, and it's your fault because you have pretended a lot and made him think he was great, just to build his ego?

In eight years of marriage I have been satisfied only twice, and that's no lie.

I have been 100 per cent faithful to my husband (thank God thoughts don't count) but it is getting more difficult. I have been invited to go to bed with three different men this year, so maybe my hunger is obvious. The fact remaining I don't want to break up my home or anybody else's with an affair, but I am going crazy trying to be a good wife.

Don't think I haven't tried to make things more interesting for my husband, because I have. I've read all the "how to" books to my husband, who falls asleep while I am reading to him.

I would like to hear from other women with this problem. I can't believe I'm the only love-starved woman around.

Problem? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to: ABBY, BOX 6702, L. A., CALIF. 9000 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Gift of love

NORMA PEACOCK, first grade teacher at the Immanuel Lutheran School, Twin Falls, admires the felt wall hanging which the students presented to her as a Christmas surprise. With Angela Hoops, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hoops, and Kurt Thamer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Thamer, all Twin Falls.

Filer pupils make 'scene'

By MARJORIE LIERMAN, Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Many hours of painstaking labor and love went into the Christmas gift presented Norma Peacock, first grade teacher at Immanuel Lutheran School, by her pupils.

The class made a large wall hanging with a nativity scene made entirely by the students. A wooden rod holds the blue felt hanging and the background and creche figures were all cut freehand from colored felt and glued on the background.

At the bottom of the hanging, the 24 students all signed their names in black ink for a lasting remembrance to their teacher. Miss Peacock said she prizes the gift very much and plans to use it each Christmas.

Miss Peacock came from Denver last year to teach at the school. This is her first teaching assignment. The room mothers came to the school several afternoons to help the pupils with "the surprise."

Room mothers include Mrs. Thamer, Mrs. Martin Andersson, Mrs. Jean Pace and Mrs. Dale Stukenholtz.

Presentation of the gift climaxed the class Christmas party also featured a gift exchange and refreshments. The Lutheran School dismissed Dec. 21 for the Christmas and New Year holidays.

The school Christmas program was presented Thursday night at the church.

Santa finds many helpers for TF

By BONNIE JONES Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — "Santa" in the form of many community organizations and individuals, visited the homes of 180 area families Saturday.

The 180 families were those whose names were submitted to the YM-YWCA offices during the past month as being in need of Christmas time help if they were to enjoy a good meal and gifts on the special holiday.

Acting as a clearing house, the YWCA checked the needs of each family and assigned families to organizations or individuals.

Sally Molyneux, YWCA executive, said youth groups delivered the baskets for the YM-YWCA, while the Twin Falls Fire Department members delivered toys to the families.

About 35 Elks Lodge members, taking a large share of the families on the list, delivered food boxes Saturday morning while the Salvation Army and individual clubs with families assigned them made plan for special deliveries.

Several hundred mechanical toys, dolls, bicycles and tricycles and stuffed toys were repaired and cleaned for the gifts.

Many persons who donated cash to the community project helped buy turkeys or other meat for the family baskets. Mrs. Molyneux said there was sufficient cash donation for a suitable sized meat purchase for each basket.

Except for families where only one or two persons were involved, turkeys were purchased. In cases of the individuals other small cuts of meat were given.

Mrs. Molyneux said the Twin Falls schools came through with an outstanding contribution of canned foods and other items and many donations of such items as mittens, overalls, coats and other warm clothing were received.

Efforts were made to give families help which will extend beyond Christmas Day wherever possible, she said. Many of the baskets included staples and items which can be used for some time to come.

Navy man from Hailey comments on racial fuss

By GEORGE WILEY Times-News Writer

HAILEY — A local U.S. Navy man said Friday in his opinion racial violence last fall aboard the USS Kittyhawk was "more or less people letting off steam."

H. T. Barry D. Eldredge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Omar D. Eldredge, Hailey, said he was working in the ship's engine room at the time of the incident and returned to his ship on the second deck until the brawl subsided.

"I really don't know what happened," Eldredge said. "It just started happening." He said he thought it was started by a few individuals who wanted to get out of the service.

Eldredge, who is home on leave visiting his family in Hailey, said there were no strong lines of racial separation or hatred on board the Kittyhawk.

"Even during the incident blacks and whites were running around together, being friends," he said. He added that several black friends of his did not know what precipitated the incident either.

"They just went to bed," he said. "It kind of came as a surprise."

Eldredge said the Kittyhawk was on extended duty out to sea at the time of the riot. "Fights break out when you've been out at sea for a long time. We'd been extended so many times, everyone was getting tired of it."

Eldredge said he was on his own in talking about the incident, that he had not been instructed by superiors as to what to say.

Asked about the atmosphere on board ship after the incident, Eldredge said there was tighter security and that groups were kept from congregating. Otherwise, everything returned to normal, he said.

Eldredge will spend the Christmas holidays with his family and return to duty on the Kittyhawk after the New Year. He is assigned as a welder and sheet metal man of the aircraft carrier.

Hay bale injures Kimberly farmer

KIMBERLY — A Kimberly farmer was listed in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial hospital Saturday afternoon after a farm accident Thursday.

Tommy Russell, 44, was taken to the hospital with head and neck injuries he received when a wet bale of hay fell on him about 8 a.m. Thursday.

According to Mrs. Von Nebeker, Russell was feeding cattle on the farm he operates two miles south and one mile east of Kimberly. He managed to crawl to the farmhouse where his daughter, Connie, telephoned Von Nebeker, who manages the farm.

Mrs. Russell had already left for work.

Burns said the accident must have occurred before midnight, although the watch on Bean's wrist was reported to have stopped at 12:02.

The Twin Falls sheriff's office had received a call at 11:55 p.m. from an Idaho Power Co. employee stating that a group of boys were rolling or throwing rocks off the canyon rim, endangering the power plant.

The Twin Falls sheriff's office relayed the message to the Jerome sheriff's office. Sheriff Burns was on his way to investigate when he received a call that two youths were at the power plant and that an ambulance was needed.

Burns said he thought the accident must have occurred prior to midnight because one of Bean's companions was on crutches as a result of a recent motorcycle accident was was delayed by his condition in getting to the power plant to report the fall.

After the Jerome sheriff arrived on the scene, a search was begun for Bean and his body was found about 200 feet down in the canyon.

The body was found and recovered by Magic Valley Ambulance Service personnel and employees of Idaho Power Co. It was taken to Hove Funeral Chapel in Jerome about 3 a.m.

Jerome County Coroner Dr. Lauren Nehr has requested an autopsy.

Fredericksen said juvenile petitions will be filed against Bean's two companions.

Bean's death was the second within a week to result from a fall into the Snake River Canyon. Tuesday night a College of Southern Idaho student, Dorothea Ambrose, 19, Jerome, fell to her death off the canyon rim near the end of North Washington Street in Twin Falls.

Season's meanest trick-mailbags stolen in TF

TWIN FALLS — Two mailbags containing parcel post packages were stolen from the rear dock of the Twin Falls Post Office some time last week.

According to police reports, the remains of the ransacked mailbags were found by a Twin Falls resident near Sunset Memorial Cemetery Friday.

Whoever took them ripped the packages, largely Christmas gifts, open and removed the contents. It could not be determined whether any articles were left intact, although the contents of the recovered mailbags looked more like the ingredients of a trash can than a mailbag.

Lloyd Libert, postmaster, said he said the mailbags were taken from the Post Office loading dock during the night. He said the post office employees are at work on the dock throughout the night and the bags could not have been left unattended more than four or five minutes. The dock and the parking lot behind the post office are well lighted, he said.

Libert said the theft, a federal offense, is being investigated by the Postal Inspection Service with the assistance of local authorities.

He said that personally he thought there was a possibility some of the recovered material in the two mailbags came from another mailbag which was stolen late last month, although he would make no official statement on a tie-up between the two thefts.

Asked if he had any indication that post office employees were involved in the theft, Libert said, "No, none at all."

According to Libert, the mailbags were on the dock awaiting pick up by a truck. He said that the Christmas package volume made it impossible to bring all packages inside the building between delivery and pick up.

The mailbags contained no letters, Libert said.

New airport access road plans told

In announcing the proposed project, Olmstead said "it will provide an adequate roadway for the primary access to the Twin Falls City-County Airport."

"The proposed project would consist of constructing a bridge across the low-line canal and constructing a roadway, base and surfacing on the proposed enlarged right-of-way. Adjustments in existing irrigation facilities and utilities will be required throughout the length of the project. There are no streams within the proposed project."

The official said design and construction details to provide maximum protection from soil erosion and other environmental disturbances will be included in the plans.

"Comments of interested persons concerning the potential environmental impact of this project are solicited," he said. Such comments, in writing, should be sent to the Twin Falls Highway District, Box 605, Twin Falls within 30 days.

"Such comments in regards to the potential social, economic and environmental impacts will provide the district with additional information to better serve the transportation needs of the area," Olmstead said.

Recent traffic counts on the airport access road showed a heavy use increase.

Candy land theme wins first place in Twin Falls yule light contest

TWIN FALLS — A Christmas lighting display carrying out a "Candy Land" theme was judged winner of the annual city-wide contest.

The unique display was constructed over a three-week period by Dan S. Nielsen, 527 Polk St., and resulted in his receiving the top prize of $60. The contest is sponsored annually by the Idaho Power Co. and the Times-News.

Utilizing a simulated candy house and candy makers, the display spreads over the ground lights into the rooftops and a "fairytale" because of the scores of lights used.

Second place award of $40 went to Alvin S. Cooley, 707 Northview Drive. It tells the story of the Littlest Angel with a path leading up one side of the house to several figures on the roof.

Third prize of $30 was awarded E. Leroy Permann, 1308 Alder Drive. Following the theme "Let There Be Light," the display utilizes light displays over Japanese Yew shrubs, juniper bushes and blue ash trees the shape of goblets. Pink lights line the rooftops and a large Christmas card in the yard features the Lion and Lamb theme.

Fourth place and $20 went to Warren L. Shillington, 2070 Addison Ave. E. It features lights almost everywhere, strategically located, plus windows revealing a decorated flock tree.

The three judges donated two evenings in touring the city inspecting all interesting displays. At the end of the second evening the displays had been reduced to 10 possible winners and these were then assigned points by each judge without discussion among themselves. The four winners were then inspected again.

Judges were Carl Burton, interior decorator at Sears-Roebuck and Co.; Chuck Upton, executive of the Ym-YWCA, and Patricia Patricia Maughan, Twin Falls county extension home economist.

As a requirement of the contest, the winning displays will be lighted each evening starting tonight and continuing through Jan. 1 in order that interested persons may see them.

BLM projects emphasize environmental impact

SHOSHONE Emphasis on assessment of environmental impact has added to the workload for Bureau of Land Management personnel during 1972.

O'Dell A. Frandsen, district manager, said district personnel are now responsible for preparing an environmental analysis record - or "EAR" - on all new actions involving land which the BLM administers.

As an example, he said, proposals for range improvement projects such as installation of a cattle guard, construction of a fence, development of a spring, or seeding must include that record.

"In general, this is indicative of the increased interest of the public in the public lands," Frandsen said. "Not only does this interest come from the general public but from local governmental agencies, non-profit associations and private companies."

Other changes within the district include new faces among BLM personnel as well as improvements in land areas and land uses.

Now personnel include Frandsen, who became district manager in January, 1972; Terry Costello, district recreation specialist; Ken Drew, watershed specialist; Gary Hansen, Bennett Hills area manager; and Don Sweep, chief of the division of resource management.

Among improvements are water developments, seeding, classification of lands for recreation and public purposes, enhancing wildlife habitat, cooperative livestock management systems and litter cleanup, according to Mike Green, district information officer.

An example of public concern over environmental impact was demonstrated when the Wood River Recreation Association applied for a special land use permit on 330 acres of public land west of Halley. The permit was issued for off-road vehicle use.

Frandsen said "The idea is that by having such an area available, the impact of such vehicles on other areas would be lessened," he said. When completed, the area will have off-road vehicle facilities, plus archery and firecracker ranges.

Another area which received

Yearly report

heavy recreational use last winter, the Johnson Hill snowmobile area, will be available again this winter for that purpose, Green said.

In the coming year, the BLM will evaluate and classify all public lands in the district for ORV users.

When these regulations are complete, we will ask for public opinion about classification of public lands concerning off-road vehicle use," Frandsen said. "Currently a proposal for joint use of a 70-acre tract of public land near Ketchum is being considered. This would combine a Ketchum City park with a new ski lift for Bald Mountain," he said.

Frandsen said the Sun Valley, Inc. has presented a four-term plan for development of the Bald Mountain area. This winter, BLM and US Forest Service personnel will prepare an environmental impact statement on that area.

Plans for the coming year include gathering information about historic and archaeological sites and evaluation and identification of public access requirements, Green said.

Provisions for wildlife protection are also made including placement of bird guzzlers, watering devices along pipelines, planning seedings to provide forage for birds and deer, and walkways allowing small animals or birds to escape from water troughs if they fall in while drinking.

Other accomplishments in the district during the past year include:

- Issuing grazing licenses for 50,000 cattle and 170,000 sheep.

- Making range studies on 31 allotments managed under cooperative allotment plans. Two new allotment plans were initiated on 27,000 acres of public lands.

- Inventory of soil and watershed conditions on 143,000 acres northwest of Paul Reservoir.

- Seeding with mixed grass, forbs and browse of 13,000 acres between Shoshone and Kimama for fire rehabilitation.

- Filing of oil and gas lease applications on 150,000 acres in the district, although no exploratory wells have been drilled yet.

Green said plans for 1973 include a watershed inventory on 70,000 acres in two areas north of Minidoka and Twin Falls.

Fire was again a primary concern of BLM personnel during 1972, which was classed as a "normal" fire year, Green said.

During the year, 32,412 acres burned, with 99 per cent of that area blackened by man-caused fires.

In reseeding operations, Green said, fire-resistant grasses such as intermediate wheat, streambank clover and Russian wild rye were used to reduce the fire potential caused by the rapid regrowth of cheatgrass and mustard when burned areas are left untreated.

A special furrow machine was used to seed some 600 acres of bitterbrush and four wing salt brush in the Kimama Butte and North Butte areas, Green said.

The machine should aid in reestablishment of browse plants necessary to maintain habitat for deer, antelope, pheasant and other wildlife, he said.

Skeleton Hitler's aide?

BERLIN (UPI) — A West German prosecutor today said new evidence indicates a skeleton found in Berlin may be that of Martin Bormann, Adolf Hitler's deputy, after all.

Joachim Richter, the Frankfurt district attorney who has been working on the Bormann case since 1965, said the size of the skeleton and traces of what might be glass splinters in the teeth raised the possibility that the mystery of what became of Bormann might be solved.

"We hope it will turn out to be Bormann," he said. "But we can not say yet. The examination should be completed in the middle of January."

Construction workers found two skeletons Dec. 8 in the Lehrter Railway Yard, where survivors of World War II claimed Bormann and Dr. Ludwig Strumpfegger, Hitler's personal physician, had been buried.

West Berlin police said last week a preliminary examination of the skulls thought possibly to be Bormann's showed it was not his and probably belonged to one of the many anti-Nazis executed in the railway yard at the end of the war.

Pohpe today had no comment on Richter's disclosure of new evidence, saying only that the case is now in his jurisdiction.

Bormann's fate has been a mystery since he was last seen leaving the chancellery bunker one day after Hitler killed himself there on April 30, 1945, as the Russians closed in.

A West Berlin registry office declared Bormann dead in 1954 but since then, unconfirmed reports have said he is alive. The latest report, published last month, said he is a 72-year-old businessman living in South America.

No delay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unlike other gift-laden tourists entering the United States, Santa Claus won't be delayed at customs U. S. Commissioner of Customs Vernon D. Acree announced Wednesday.

"Santa, with his magic flying reindeer and sleigh full of toys is given a swift clearance each year under customs regulation 1029A2," Acree said.

The regulation provides that the baggage and effects of distinguished foreign visitors be admitted free of duty.

"All customs ports of entry along the U.S.-Canadian border have been alerted so that Santa is not delayed in any way," Acree said.

Ambassador named

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon has selected John N. Irwin II, now No. 2 man in the State Department, to be new U.S. ambassador to France, administration sources said. The formal announcement was expected today.

The White House announced previously that Irwin would be leaving the post of undersecretary of state and that Kenneth Rush, Nixon's onetime law professor at Duke and now No.

2 man at the Defense Department, would succeed him. In Paris, Irwin will fill a vacancy created by the resignation several weeks ago of Arthur K. Watson.

CSI edges BYU 74-73 in overtime

PROVO — Ron Fryson's field goal with 13 seconds left and a steal by Willie Williams soon after lifted the embattled College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles to a 74-73 overtime victory over the Brigham Young frosh Saturday night.

Fryson's field goal came from inside after the Eagles had fallen behind with 33 seconds left in the overtime period. CSI worked the ball for about 15 seconds before the score. After it, BYU called time out with 13 seconds remaining and got off two passes before Williams picked off the third one. He handed it to Rick Sobers who doubled up over the ball and watched the last two seconds tick away.

BYU, one of the tallest teams on the CSI schedule, also proved to be one of the better shooting clubs. Gary Allen hit 25 points during the night, most of them from well outside. Romberg added 22 more and was particularly painful to the Eagles in the later stages of the game and overtime.

Williams, who sparked defensively with several steals in the second half and provided excellent rebounding, came up with 17 points, most of them in the last half. Fryson, who had trouble getting started, wound up with 22 points, four in overtime. Sobers and Vince Williams also hit double figures with 14 and 10, respectively.

The victory sent CSI into the Christmas holidays with a 10-1 record — and a fourth place ranking in the national JC poll. In addition, it gave the Eagles a sweep of what was expected to be its toughest week in history — UOP and USC Jayvees and the BYU frosh.

CSI scored the first points of the game and held sway throughout the first half. Twice the Eagles had eight-point leads in the first 10 minutes and appeared on the verge of breaking away. But Allen steadied the Young Cougars each time. Late in the first-half, Allen and Romberg connected to whittle CSI's lead from 36-30 to 36-34 at intermission.

Allen's long shot sent BYU ahead 38-36 in the first minute of the second half and the teams were tied again at 38 and 40. Then Fryson got a cripple off a steal and Williams hit a pair of free throws. After pushing to a 50-44 advantage, CSI saw Allen and George Walkerhorse bring BYU back, two free throws by Walkerhorse providing a 52-50 lead.

Fryson and Sobers hit around a field goal by Allen as the teams had two more ties and then the Eagles seemed to have won it. With 2:55 remaining, Vince Volmut got a tip in to send the Eagles ahead 64-56.

But BYU's Chris Williams picked up two free throws next time down court and Romberg added a tip-in seconds later. Allen's free throw with 1:45 left reduced the margin to three and a CSI turnover set up another Romberg follow shot that pulled the Cougars to 66-65.

Sobers hit two clutch free throws with 37 seconds later. Allen's free throw with 1:45 left reduced the margin to three and a CSI turnover set up another Romberg follow shot that pulled the Cougars to 66-65.

Sobers hit two clutch free throws with 37 seconds left but Romberg nullified those 13 seconds later. Curt Thompson shoved the Eagles ahead with a free throw with 18 seconds showing but missing the next one. Allen made that look costly when he hit from the corner to fashion the tie and demand the overtime.

After one tie in the overtime, a free throw by Williams and Fryson's cripple on a Sobers free sent CSI ahead 72-69 with 1:14 left. But Allen hit another long shot and Romberg's tip gave BYU the lead 73-72 with 33 seconds left.

CSI called time out, then worked the ball into Fryson for the winner.

Allen says Kilmer provides 'Skins edge over Green Bay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Allen says he believes his Washington Redskins have a definite edge over Green Bay in Sunday's playoff game because of quarterback Billy Kilmer, and you'll never believe this, but Packer coach Dan Devine says maybe Allen is right.

The rival coaches appeared Saturday at back-to-back news conferences in advance of the confrontation in which the Redskins are rated 41-2-point favorites. The weather forecast was for temperatures in the 50s with a strong possibility of some rain. Allen said Washington should have an edge in quarterbacks over Green Bay's Scott Hunter and rookie backup man Jerry Tagge because of Kilmer's greater experience.

Devine declined to argue that. "I think experience is extremely valuable," he said. "I would hate to think that having 10 to 12 years experience would not be to some advantage. We've shown our inexperience at times this year," Devine said of his young Packers. "But we've done some poised things and we'll be even better next year."

Both coaches predicted the emphasis would be on the running game with Larry Brown and Charlie Harraway operating for the Redskins and John Brockington and MacArthur Lane carrying for the Packers.

Alabama takes Dayton crown

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — Senior guard Paul Ellis scored 18 points Saturday night and Alabama held off a late Dayton rally to win the first University of Dayton Invitational Tournament, 77-76.

Ninth-ranked Florida State, behind the shooting of Larry McCray and Reggie Royals, defeated Northwestern, 91-73, in the consolation game.

Ellis hit two jumpers late in the game to give the Crimson Tide a 68-67 lead which they held on to for their fifth win against one loss.

Alabama had a 39-35 halftime lead, but Dayton fought back and went up by six, 66-60, with 6:34 remaining.

Squires top Chaparrals

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The Virginia Squires jumped to an early first half lead, slumped badly in the third period and had to battle their way back in the final minutes to salvage a 112-107 win over the Dallas Chaparrals Saturday night.

Julius Erving, who contributed 41 points for the Squires, hit a jump shot with a little over a minute remaining to tie the game at 107-107. Bernie Williams followed with another jumper and Erving made a three-point play to pull the game out of the reach of the Chaparrals, who did not score in the final two minutes of play.

Bullets rally past Pistons

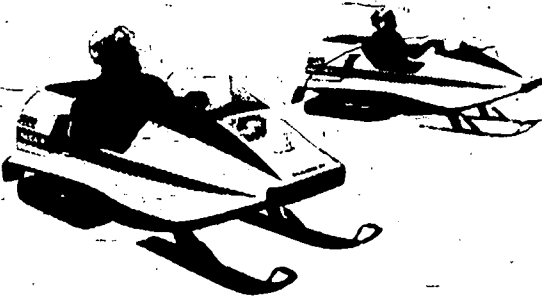

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Flynn Robinson scored a season-high 25 points, but Mike RJordan and Elvin Hayes rallied the Baltimore Bullets in the final minutes to a 104-97 NBA victory Saturday over the Detroit Pistons.

RJordan hit two straight baskets to snap an 89-85 tie in the fourth quarter to put Baltimore ahead for good after the Bullets had blown a second period, 22-point lead to trail going into the final period, 79-77.

Brawl mars Bucks' win over Celtics

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar fired in a game high 26 points Saturday night to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 104-98 win over the Boston Celtics in a game marred by a first quarter brawl.

Milwaukee's Bobby Dandridge was thrown out of the game with 2:46 left in the first period. He was charged with a technical for holding John Havlicek on the floor as they scrambled for a loose ball.

The Bucks, who led 55-38 at the half, had to scramble the rest of the way to hold off the Celtics' attack.

The Celtics narrowed the gap to 78-66 at the end of the third quarter. With 1:43 left in the game, Boston trailed by just four points but a rally sparked by Abdul-Jabbar and Mickey Davis gave the Bucks a six-point edge.

Havlicek was top scorer for Boston with 26 and Dave Cowens added 22.

Injured Buckeye returns

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — reserve linebacker Kevin Fletcher returned to Ohio State's football practice Saturday but starting center Steve Myers remained sidelined with a virus.

Fletcher had suffered a bruised arm in a swimming pool mishap but has been pronounced all right for the Rose Bowl against University of Southern California.

If Fletcher cannot play on New Year's Day, his place will be taken by Steve Luke, a sophomore.

Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes' team will practice Sunday and then take Christmas Day off. The Buckeyes are scheduled to practice Tuesday and have Wednesday off.

"Our defense was pretty good today," Hayes said after Saturday's drill, "but our passing offense isn't as sharp as I'd like it to be. Our receivers are dropping the ball too much."

The national champion Trojans have been given off until Tuesday by Coach John McKay.

The fist fight occurred in the first quarter when Cowens was called for fouling Dandridge. Hot words ensued between the two and Cowens dropped Dandridge with a right cross followed by a left hook.

Both were called for punching fouls and Dandridge received several stitches for a cut in the mouth.

Technical fouls were also called in the first half on both coaches. Boston's John Heinsohn and Milwaukee's Larry Costello.

Colonels belt San Diego

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Kentucky Colonels and San Diego Conquistadors, two teams going in opposite directions in the American Basketball Association, continued their streaks Saturday night as the Colonels won, 116-105, behind Dan Issel's 31 points.

Tams take fourth spot

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Center Randy Denton sank two free throws with 41 seconds to play Saturday night to vault the Memphis Tams past the New York Nets, 105-103, and into fourth place in the Eastern Division 6 of the American Basketball Association.

The Nets dropped to the cellar with the loss after rallying from a 61-60 halftime deficit and almost pulling the game out.

Forward George Carter lost a pass out of bounds for the Nets in the closing seconds of the game as they set up for a final play. Billy Paulitz of New York then missed a desperation three-point attempt at the final buzzer. He wound up as high scorer in the game with 32 points.

Carolina wins match of leaders

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — the Carolina Cougars, sparked by the 34-point effort of Billy Cunningham, came up with a 123-117 win over Utah in a match between the Eastern and Western division leaders of the American Basketball Association Saturday night.

The Cougars trailed throughout the first half, losing 55-53 at intermission, but rallied in the third quarter when Cunningham sank 18 of his 34 points.

Carolina went ahead at 65-63 and led by 12 points by the end of the third quarter, 90-78. Utah came within four points twice in the final period but never completely cut the gap.

Mack Calvin provided the backup for Cunningham with 26 points and three players had 14 points. Joe Caldwell, Steve Jones and Ed Manning.

Utah was led by Jimmy Jones with 23, Glen Combs with 22 and Willie Wise with 21.

Ariz. St. bowls over Missouri

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Arizona State's Woody Green led the nation's top offensive team to a 49-35 victory over Missouri in the second annual Fiesta Bowl Saturday night.

The All-America running back scored on runs of two, 12, 17 and 21 yards and gained 202 yards on 25 carries to earn the game's offensive player award.

Arizona State set a school record for total offense with 718 yards, some 200 more than its 516.5 yard average which led the nation this year. The record-setting performance came on a night with the temperature in the 60s before a stadium record crowd of 51,318.

The 13th-ranked Sun Devils had to survive two comeback attempts by the Big Eight Tigers, who never led in the game, but fought back to within seven points after trailing 28-7 at halftime and 35-21 late in the third quarter.

Two touchdowns, within slightly more than a minute in the fourth quarter, sealed the fate of the Tigers by pulling Arizona State into a 49-28 lead.

Danny White hit Ed Beverly on a 53-yard pass and Green sprinted 21 yards off tackle for the second.

Missouri had fought back by outscoring the Devils 14-0 in the third quarter. One touchdown came on a 48-yard pass from John Cherry to Chuck Link on the first play following a pass interception by the game's Green opened the final quarter with his third touchdown of the night on a 17-yard run, which was promptly matched by Fink, who scored his first touchdown of the season on a 100-yard kickoff return.

Missouri's final touchdown came on a 31-yard scamper by Tommy Reamon with two minutes left.

Arizona State started surprisingly conservative after taking the opening kickoff at its own 24. The Devils marched 76 yards in 13 plays entirely on the ground for their first touchdown. Green got the score on a pitchout from White into the end zone from two yards out, climaxing a drive that took 5:26.

Pete hits 42 as Hawks win

ATLANTA (UPI) — Pete Maravich scored 14 points in the final period and 42 in the game Saturday night to fire the Atlanta Hawks to a 124-112 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

The score was tied 89-89 after three periods and the Hawks led by only one with eight minutes to go in the final stanza when Maravich re-entered the game and got Atlanta its fifth consecutive victory and 10th win in the last 12 games.

It was Philadelphia's ninth straight loss.

Kevin Loughery led Philadelphia with 27 points while Fred Carter and Mike Price had 18 each.

Blackout stays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A three-judge appeals court Saturday turned down a suit challenging the local television blackout of Sunday's pro football playoff game between the Washington Redskins and the Green Bay Packers, attorney Robin Ficker said.

Ficker, president of the Washington Redskin Fan Club and the lawyer who initiated the suit, said he planned, if possible, to carry the case to the supreme court.

"I'm very dismayed that the public interest is being turned down at this time when people should have the Christmas spirit," Ficker said. "It's very unfortunate that people that don't have money to buy a TV set powerful enough to pick up the Baltimore signal can't see the game."

Ficker said he was informed by telephone of the court's decision, which came after a brief hearing earlier in the day. He said that the court ruled that pro football's antitrust exemption was constitutional and it cited the 1962 Blatch case in New York upholding a similar blackout.

Browns' owners prepared for playoff loss

MIAMI (UPI) — While Cleveland coach Nick Skorich prepared his team for an upset victory today, Browns' owner Art Modell prepared himself for defeat by the unbeaten Miami Dolphins in the second of the American Football Conference playoff games.

"I have confidence in these kids and they have pride," said Modell. "But Miami is a true super power of a football team. Chances are mighty good that Miami will go all the way."

The biggest test the Browns have faced all year begins at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Orange Bowl before a capacity crowd of 80,010 and a national television audience (NBC).

"I'll be happy if we get through the national anthem," Modell said facetiously.

No such negative remarks were coming from Skorich, one of the quietest and least publicized of pro football's coaches. The job he did with the Browns in the face of adversity this season speaks for him.

Skorich put the Browns into the playoffs for the ninth time in the past 10 years with a 10-4 record even though they scored only 19 points more than their 14 opponents. Because of injuries, he did it with 10 different players working at defensive end and moving his other linemen around so much that fans never knew how the Browns would line up until game time.

Skorich still was peeved that none of his players were chosen to play for the AFC in the annual Pro All-Star game.

"We'll just be the Browns anonymous and let 60 million television watchers see for themselves Sunday in the Orange Bowl," he said.

Besides reaching the playoffs, the lone other bright spot in Cleveland's season was the emergence of young Mike Phipps as quarterback to justify Modell's trade to the Dolphins in 1970 of wide receiver Paul Warfield. The Browns received a draft choice, which they used to get Phipps.

The Browns, for a change, are all healthy but still remained two touchdown underdogs.

In three years at Miami's helm, coach Don Shula is taking the Dolphins into the playoffs for the third time. After winning the AFC championship last year and going to the Super Bowl, the team put together an incredible year.

Louisville smothers Utah 84-67

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Louisville came out shooting in the second half behind the scoring of forwards Allen Murphy and Bill Butler to crush cold Utah 84-67 Saturday night.

The Cardinals built up a 38-32 halftime lead, but outscored the Utes 14-4 in the first five minutes of the second half, to race away from what had been a close game.

Murphy finished high man for the night with 18 points and Louisville's short man up front, 6-2 forward Butler, added 17 as the Cardinals out shot Utah 48 per cent from the field to 35.

The visitor's zone defense cut off Utah's inside shooting and controlled the backboards. The Cardinals outrebounded the Utes 56 to 35, with center Bill Bunton high for the night 16.

Utah reserve forward Charles Menutti was high for Utah with 13 points and fellow freshman Luther Burden added 12 from the guardline.

Louisville is now 6-1 while Utah drops to 2-7.

Steelers nip Raiders on batted pass at buzzer

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Super rookie Franco Harris caught Terry Bradshaw's desperation deflected pass on the Oakland 35-yard line and raced into the end zone for the deciding score with only five seconds remaining Saturday to lift the Linderella Pittsburgh Steelers to a 13-7 victory over the Oakland Raiders and a berth in the American Conference title game. Harris caught a ball deflected by Oakland's Jack Tatum at the Raider 35 and raced down the left sideline to complete a 60-yard play and send the Steelers into the next Sunday's American Football Conference title game against tomorrow's Miami-Cleveland winner. Harris' touchdown came one minute and eight seconds after Kenny "Snake" Stabler apparently had given the Raiders a legal.

Thousands of fans waving red, white and green Italian flags, the sign of Franco's Italian army of fans, surged onto the playing field, delaying play more than five minutes. Steeler players were mobbed and had to fight their way to the dressing room after Stabler's desperation pass with no time remaining was batted down by five. Steelers. Pittsburgh's title-starved fans, whose club is making its first playoff appearance, in 40 years of NFL competition, carried the Steeler players into the clubhouse chanting "We're No 1."

After the touchdown run by Stabler, who replaced Daryle Lamonica in the third period, the Steelers took possession following a touchback with 73 seconds remaining.

Bradshaw threw nine yards to Harris on the Steeler 29 and then hit Frenchy Fuqua with an 11-yard pass to the Steeler 40 with 31 seconds left.

Two long desperation bombs to Ron Shanklin and John McMillin were batted away setting up a fourth and 10 situation with only 26 second left.

Bradshaw under heavy pressure, rolled to his left and unleashed a long bomb down field. Tatum, attempting break up the pass play, sent the ball reeling back into the arms of Harris, who was trailing five yards behind the play.

The rookie sensation from Penn State, a shoo-in for rookie of the year honors, raced untouched into the end zone.

Al Davis, Oakland's managing general partner and front office boss, stormed through the press box screaming at league officials that the play was illegal but it got him nowhere.

Davis sat sulking in a corner, his head in his hands for more than 20 minutes after the conclusion of the game.

What had seemed like a valiant effort by Pittsburgh's steel-curtain defense appeared to have gone to waste when Stabler marched 80 yards in 12 plays for the go-ahead touchdown.

The Steelers' awesome front four, led by the inspirational play of end Dwight White, who turned in a brilliant effort despite a painful knee injury, had held Oakland's offense, the third most productive in the NFL, this year, in check all game.

Baby-faced Roy Gerela, pro football's biggest bargain at $100, had provided the only previous scoring when he kicked an 18-yard field goal with 5:08 elapsed in the third period and then connected on a 29-yarder with only 3:23 remaining in the game.

The Steelers' defense, which led the league in sacking the quarterback and interceptions and tied for the fumble recovery lead, forced four turnovers and held Oakland's talented rushing trio of Marv Hubbard, Charlie Smith and Clarence Davis to only 108 yards net rushing.

Hubbard, who gained 1,100 yards this season managed only 44 against the rugged Steeler defense.

Harris was the game's leading rusher with 64 yards and Bradshaw finished with 11 completions in 25 attempts for 175 yards.

Lamonica, who had been bothered with the flu all week long, completed only six of 18 passes for 45 yards against devastating zone coverage, by the Pittsburgh secondary. Stabler, who relieved in the third period, hit six of 12 for 52 yards.

Andy Russell had one interception, his first in two years and linebacker Jack Ham added another. Safety Glen Edwards and Mike Wagner had fumbled recoveries, with Wagner's setting up Gerela's second field goal.

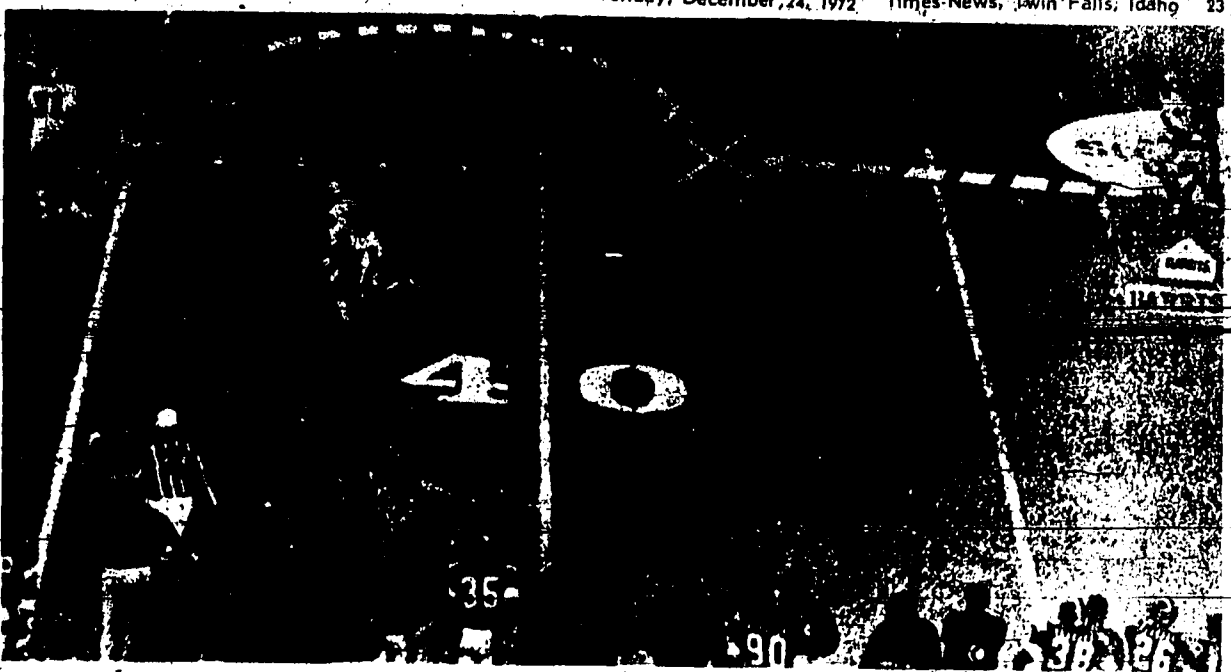

DIAGRAM OF the freak play that hoisted Pittsburgh past Oakland in the final seconds illustrates the yardage covered. The ball (circled) is headed on fourth down toward Steeler Frenchy Fuqua. It was deflected straight-back up field by Raider Jack Tatum, meanwhile, Franco Harris, still seven yards from the keyspot, kept coming, too, the ball in full stride and went 42 yards. A little luck

God's help and luck described play that carried Pittsburgh past Oakland

PITTSBURGH (UPI)— "It was a little bit of luck, and God was with us."

That was the way rookie Franco Harris summed up the Pittsburgh Steelers' 13-7 comeback victory with five seconds remaining in their American Football Conference playoff against Oakland Saturday.

It was a freak 60-yard touchdown pass involving Steelers Terry Bradshaw, Frenchy Fuqua, Harris and Oakland defender Jack Tatum that gave the Steelers a victory that shocked even the hometown crowd of 50,350.

Bradshaw's pass was intended for wide receiver Barry Pearson but it went to Fuqua, who collided with Tatum and the ball squirted into the air at the Oakland 35. Harris copped the ball at the Oakland 42 and sprinted down the left sideline for the winning touchdown.

"I just happened to be in the right place at the right time," Harris said. "Actually, I was supposed to be the blocker on the play. I went downfield farther than usual. When I saw Terry throw, I made my break. I saw the ball bounce off Tatum and then I put my hands kind of low. I think around my knees—and caught it."

It's not often you get a chance when you're behind with only a few seconds left, but we made good. Yeah, yeah it was my biggest thrill." Fuqua said he was dazed by the collision. Asked if the ball hit him first, Frenchy replied, "No comment."

"When the play was busted, I scrambled more or less. Then we collided. I felt no pain but I was dazed. I didn't know a thing until I got up and saw Franco on the five-yard line and heard the fans cheering."

Had the ball hit Fuqua before Harris caught it, without hitting a defender, the play would have been illegal, Tatum said he never touched the ball, but officials disagreed.

Roy Gerela, who kicked field goals of 18 and 29 yards, said he was confident when the specially team lined up both times.

"Anytime you're within the 35-yard line, you should make good in a field goal," said the 5-foot-10 placekicker. "This was a pressure game. Any playoff game is a pressure when it means money."

The fans helped us, believe me. They gave us a psychological edge with their cheering. Those cheers brought the whole team up," said Gerela, one of whose fans wore a gorilla costume and Santa Claus suit to the game.

In the first period, with the Steelers in a fourth and one situation, Gerela was wide with a 52-yard field goal attempt.

Steeler coach Chuck Noll was also surrounded by newsmen in a Pittsburgh dressing room that seemed subdued for a team that had progressed further toward a professional championship than it ever had before in its 40-year history.

"We lost containment at the end when the Raiders scored (with 1:13 left to play)," said Noll. "Oakland played the way we felt they would. In the beginning, they tried to run over us. Then they gave way to a passing game."

Bradshaw said he was trying to find Pearson on the touchdown play with hopes of setting up another Gerela field goal.

Raiders feel frustration of loss on fluke in playoffs

PITTSBURGH (UPI)— "There's no tomorrow," said Coach John Madden after his Oakland Raiders lost 13-7 to the Pittsburgh Steelers in the last five seconds Saturday on one of the most controversial plays in National Football League history.

"You're down to a fourth-down play," Madden said. "You play 21 games for this moment, then the ball bounces off a chest and into another player's arms and it's all over. There's no tomorrow."

Following Ken Stabler's 30-yard touchdown run with 1:13 left that put Oakland in front, 7-6, the Steelers moved the ball to their own 40, bringing up a fourth down situation. Terry Bradshaw threw a desperation touchdown pass with 26 seconds left and John "Frenchy" Fuqua and Jack Tatum collided going for the ball at the Raiders 35. The ball was deflected into the arms of Franco Harris, who scampered down the left sideline the rest of the way for the winning touchdown.

"They got the last play of the game," Madden said. "That's the story of the game. What the hell do you say about that?"

Madden said he wasn't sure if Tatum touched the ball or not. Officials held up the game as Steeler fans swarmed onto the field to watch the instant replay before ruling that Tatum had touched the ball, thus granting the Steelers the AFC playoff victory.

Tatum, however, was quite sure he did not touch the ball. "I don't think I touched it," Tatum said as he cut the tapes from his ankles. "I was just trying to knock it loose."

Gene Upshaw, the Raiders' All-Conference guard, called it "a hell of a way to lose."

"He just throws it up for grabs—it was a desperation pass—and it just bounces into someone else's hands," Upshaw said. "Guess that's football but I can't accept that."

"You work all season to get here and then you lose it all on one play."

Ken Stabler, who replaced Daryle Lamonica late in the third quarter, withstood an awesome pass rush to move the Raiders 80 yards in 12 plays, scampering the final 30 yards himself to give the Raiders a 7-6 lead with 73 seconds to go.

"We were running a deep pass pattern," Stabler said. "They (the Steelers) were on some kind of blitz or red dog and I got outside the rush. There was a lot of room and I just took off."

Stabler, who took over after Lamonica, was unable to penetrate the Steelers' 40-yard line, said he wasn't nervous when he went in.

"I was just trying to figure out some way to get some points," Stabler said. "It doesn't seem fair to lose like that, but the game's never over until the time's run out."

On the surface it looks like transplanting surplus Yellowstone elk would be an added bonus for Idaho sportsman and the hunter has asked the Idaho Fish and Game Department to do this throughout the years. Many of our original elk herds in Idaho were started from such transplants; however, we must take a close look at the current situation in Idaho. The main reason biologists feel these surplus elk are not needed at the present time is that most areas that are suitable elk habitat already have an elk herd that is adequate for the winter forage available. We would just be increasing the competition for food that is already in short supply on many ranges. If some of these big game units have a shortage of animals we can adjust the hunting seasons to allow them to build up to capacity their food can support. Many elk areas are on a controlled hunt basis for this reason. This is a much cheaper method of building up these herds than trapping, and transplanting elk from several hundred miles away.

If the need arose in the future, we could always trap and transplant elk from within areas in Idaho. There is an additional problem of elk causing predation problems on farmers haystacks and winter wheatfields. In fact, it has been necessary in some areas, such as Warm Springs Creek near Ketchum, to trap and transplant elk from that area because of human encroachment of their winter range. We've also been forced to winter feed elk in several locations in the State.

The Fish and Game Department has entered into cooperative agreements with agencies such as the Bureau of Land Management and U.S. Forest Service which require prior approval before any transplants can be made. Our policy is to follow this same procedure when dealing with private landowners. We have been hard put to find sites to release animals that provided adequate habitat and did not conflict with agriculture or other uses.

We certainly are not closing the door on any policy of future elk transplants, if needed, and welcome public input on our programs. There have been a number of successful transplant programs of other species in recent years in Idaho. The most notable of these have been mountain goats into suitable habitat in the Seven Devils and bighorn sheep into the Owyhees. Both of these areas have had hunting seasons established. We plan to continue this policy as surplus animals become available of the needed species. For example, one of the possible locations for bighorn sheep in Hells Canyon of the Snake River which had good populations of bighorns at one time.

Rozelle explains TV blackout policy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Saturday that the reason that he was opposed to lifting the blackout rule in effect for NFL home games, including playoffs, was the adverse effect on ticket sales in the city of the game.

Rozelle, speaking at halftime on the CBS-TV 49ers-Cowboys telecast of a National Football Conference semifinal playoff game, commented that the weather conditions at this time of year are frequently poor, and "even the possibility that a game might be televised could hurt ticket sales."

"In the last two weekends, 211,000 people bought tickets to NFL games and didn't show up because of the weather, including 35,000 last weekend at Kansas City," Rozelle said. "Can you imagine how much worse this figure would be if these games were televised?"

"The players need the emotional element of a large crowd," Rozelle added. "Concerning the Super Bowl, Rozelle said 'the element of weather is minimal this year, with the site being Los Angeles (on Jan. 14), and if the contest is a sellout 10 days before the game, then the people in Los Angeles will be able to see the game on TV.'"

Rozelle said he wished to interchange the site of the Super Bowl each year to avoid the possibility of the people in one city being shut out of home TV more than one year in a row. "The reason we've heard so much about the blackout this year is because of the attitude in Washington, especially toward the Washington Redskins," Rozelle said. "We feel it is enough to bring the fan the seven road games for his home team and bring him other games when his team is at home."

"We will get back to this issue next year," added Rozelle, "and we are considering all possibilities."

Dallas scores twice in last 2 minutes to edge 49ers 30-28

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Roger Staubach, sacked four times in less than a quarter of play, hit for touchdown passes of 20 and 10 yards in the final two minutes Saturday to give the Dallas Cowboys an uphill 30-28 victory over the San Francisco 49ers in the opening round of the NFC playoffs.

The 49ers forced five turnovers.

ers, converting three of them into touchdowns, and held a 28-16 lead with a little more than two minutes left when Staubach, hero of last year's NFC title game and the Super Bowl, swung into action.

He connected with Billy Parks on a 20-yard throw with 1:30 left to close the gap to five points at 28-23 and then, after All-Pro Mel Renfro recovered an on-side kick at the 50, he went the distance in just three plays for the winning score, a 10-yard throw to Ron Sellers.

Fumble recoveries by Tommy Hart and Windlan Hall and a pass interception by Skip Vanderbundt set up three one-yard touchdown smashes by Larry Schrieber as the 49ers opened a 28-13 lead 10 minutes into the 28-13 lead.

Staubach replaced the 49ers with about two minutes left in the third quarter and in less than two minutes he got the Cowboys a score on Toni Fritsch's third field goal of the game to cut the deficit to 12 points.

Then, as the 49ers sat on their lead, Staubach rallied the Cowboys for the last-minute heroics. It marked the third straight year Dallas eliminated the 49ers in post-season play. The last two times the Cowboys beat San Francisco in the NFC title game.

Now, the Cowboys await the winner of Sunday's game between the Green Bay Packers and Washington Redskins to find out whom they meet on Dec. 31 for the NFC title.

Fritsch booted field goals of 37 yards in the first quarter, 45 in the second, and 27 in the fourth while Morton connected with a 28-yard pass to Lance Alworth to account for the earlier Dallas points.

San Francisco scored its other touchdown when Vic Washington ran 87 yards with the opening kickoff.

After Staubach passed to Parks with 1:30 remaining, Fritsch sent his kickoff to Preston Riley, who fumbled, and Renfro jumped on the ball at the 50. On the first play, Staubach could not find a receiver so he ran up the middle for 41 yards to the San Francisco 29. With 1:03 left, he passed to Parks on the left sideline for 19 yards and then with 56 seconds remaining he found Sellers all alone in the end zone with the pass that gave the Cowboys their victory. The 49ers made one more shot and apparently had the ball at the Dallas 40 with 17 seconds left but were caught holding and that ended their chances.

Staubach connected on 12 of 20 passes while in there for 174 yards and the two big TDs. For the 49ers, who ran well after All-Pro defensive tackle Bob Lilly went out early in the second quarter with a painful back, John Brodie completed 12 of 22 throws for 150 yards.

The Cowboys were credited with 237 yards net passing and 165 running for a total offense of 402 yards. That broke the conference playoff mark of 401 Dallas set in 1967 against the Cleveland Browns. The 49ers gained a modest 255 yards total.

Padres to remain in San Diego

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The San Diego Padres killed rumors Friday that they will move their National League baseball franchise to Washington, D.C., or anywhere else.

For the past two weeks there were indications the club would move to the nation's capital because of an apparently unsolvable advertising problem with the city.

"The events of the past few weeks concerning the future of the Padres has culminated in a decision by the team's owners to discourage further overtures of Washington or any other city pertaining to a possible transfer of the club," a spokesman said at a special news conference.

The problem primarily was scoreboard advertising. The city leased the scoreboard to a private firm. Advertising on two revolving panels was sold to a bank and an airline which conflicted with the sponsors of the Padres' radio broadcasts, one of whom was U.S. National Bank, owned by Padres' majority stockholder C. Arnolt Smith.

The announcement Friday indicated there was no immediate agreement but the city and the Padres would continue discussions on the advertising problems and a settlement would be announced next week.

"This decision has no contingencies," the spokesman said. "There are no demands by the Padres on the city nor are there any provisions for special relief. Padre ownership now is confident that the team will be able to operate successfully in San Diego stadium."

Kentucky nips Kansas 77-71

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Jim Andrews scored 13 points and Bob Guyette 10 in the final half Saturday night to enable the Kentucky Wildcats to pull away from a 33-33 halftime tie for a 77-71 victory over Kansas. Guyette wound up with 17 points to share scoring honors with Kevin Grevey. Andrews finished with 16 points, and collared 19 rebounds for the second straight game.

After hitting only 33 per cent of its field goal attempts in the opening half, Kentucky connected on its first six shots from the field in the second stanza and raced into a 54-point lead. The Jayhawks chopped it down in the late game.

Jacksonville rips Furman

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Jacksonville University grabbed a quick lead using a sizzling fastbreak attack and coasted to an easy 86-66 victory over 17th ranked Furman Saturday night.

The Dolphins, now 6-2, jumped to a 15-4 lead in the opening minutes as they repeatedly converted Furman mistakes into fast break baskets by guard Leon Benbow. The Purple Paladins were held scoreless for over three minutes during this stretch.

Furman, now 4-2 after suffering its second loss this week, remained within striking distance until 77th sophomore Fessor Leonard got into foul trouble early in the second half and the Dolphins turned the game into a rout.

49ers can pin horns on any of three individual players

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—When a team loses a big game in the final minute, it's hard to blame any one man, but if someone has to wear the goat's horns, you can take your pick of three 49ers who played well enough to direct the San Francisco offense of win, called it the kind of game "you can't sit back and analyze and say what went wrong. We could all look back but it doesn't do any good. Hindsight is always 20-20."

Brodie, while disappointed, praised the Cowboys for their victory.

"I give them credit," said the veteran 49er who now has lost to the Cowboys in three consecutive playoff games. "But I can't believe it. We had it. There was no way to lose it but somehow it slipped away."

The San Francisco defense played about as well as it had in any one game this season except for the last-minute breakdown.

kickoff and were moving the ball on the Cowboys' defense, as they had game long, when Banaszek committed the unpardonable sin.

On first and 10 at the SF 45, John Brodie seemingly completed a 23-yard pass to Riley at the Dallas 32. But on the play, Banaszek was called for holding and the final chance of the 49ers went down the drain.

"We moved the ball well enough to win," said dejected 49er coach Dick Nolan. "But the key situation did us in. You saw the kickoff fumble and the holding penalty."

"It was just a situation that happens. Like that last play when the holding penalty took us out of field goal range."

"And if we had held onto that kickoff, we would have had TD."

But he was the player Roger Staubach turned in on when the Cowboys needed a touchdown to win the game in the final minute.

Riley helped set up the Cowboys at midfield on the winning drive when he was unable to handle an onside kick and all-pro Mel Renfro fell on it to give Dallas its chance.

But the 49ers had one more chance. They took the next Records

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Records set by the Dallas Cowboys in the 1978 NFL season were broken Saturday. Staubach became the first player to throw four touchdowns in a game. The Cowboys' 49ers broke the record for most touchdowns in a game, 11, set by the Dallas Cowboys in 1977. The Cowboys also broke the record for most touchdowns in a game, 11, set by the Dallas Cowboys in 1977. Marquette topples Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—Forward Larry McNeil fired in 28 points Saturday night to lead second-ranked Marquette to a 69-61 victory over Iowa.

The victory for the Warriors was their fifth without a loss this season. Iowa, playing its first game in 10 days because of semester exams, is now 3-2.

The Hawkeyes, who were led by Candy LaPrince's 15 points, were plagued by poor shooting at the foul line all night and ended up converting only three of 14 free tosses.

The Hawks led by as many as seven points late in the first half, but a 10-2 Marquette burst put the Warriors ahead 30-29 at intermission.

Providence belts DePaul

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—Junior Marvin Barnes scored 19 of his 23 points in the second half and grabbed 12 rebounds in that span Saturday night as nationally ranked Providence College surged past DePaul, 107-80.

Held to only a 44-42 lead at the half because of DePaul's 59 per cent shooting average the Friars scored 13 of the first 17 points in the second half and were never in danger thereafter.

Fran Costello pitched in 18 points for the Friars while Ernie DiGregorio and Kevin Stacom added 18 each. Al Baker had 12 points to round out the well-balanced Providence attack. Mike Gillespie had 16 to lead DePaul.

The Friars are now 5-1 while DePaul is 5-2.

Smiling Landry calls rally best Cowboys have ever made

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Usually stoic Tom Landry cracked a smile Saturday and called the Dallas Cowboys' stirring playoff victory over the San Francisco 49ers "the best comeback we've ever made."

"Before the game I told our players to go all-out for 60 minutes," said the Cowboys' coach. "With two minutes left it looked kind of bad, but there was always hope."

Those guys hung in there tough. It's tough to come back like that. This is just about our greatest victory since we won the Super Bowl.

You can be in that situation 100 times and probably win one of them.

Staubach, who took over for Craig Morton with 1:48 to go in the third period, rallied the Cowboys from a 12-point deficit with two scoring passes in the final minute and a half. The winner was a 10-yard pass over the middle to wide receiver Ron Sellers with 52 seconds remaining.

In the huddle, Sellers told me he was open in the middle because they were protecting on the outside," said Staubach. "However, I called a sideline pass to Billy Parks on the play and told Ron I'd be watching him down the middle."

The 49er linebackers blitzed on the play and I saw Ron was open on the inside, so I flipped it to him. Staubach credited Mel Renfro's recovery of an onside kick at mid-field as a key play. The recovery set up Dallas' winning score.

It was a very big play, said the former Heisman Trophy winner from Navy. The game would have been over if we didn't get it."

Renfro said he had eyes only for the pigskin.

"All I saw was the football on the ground," said the veteran defensive back of the Cowboys. "I grabbed it and hung on for dear life."

Linebacker Lee Roy Jordan, another Cowboy veteran, said it was the Dallas defense that turned the tide in the second half.

We stopped them when we had to," he said. "We did not give up and turned it over. Our defense is a good offensive team."

Staubach admitted he had trouble getting started when he entered the game with about 17 minutes remaining. A hard-charging 49er defensive line sacked him four times before he rallied his team.

They killed me a few times, but I got the protection when I needed it," said Staubach. "I haven't played in a while so it took me a little time to get untracked. I just want to play. I'm so excited."

However, Landry wouldn't commit himself on which quarterback will start against either Green Bay or Washington next Sunday.

"Remember, that five turnovers hurt Morton," said Landry. "I don't know if Roger will start next week."

Landry, who is usually very reluctant to use descriptive adjectives, called the game "fantastic."

"I know how former teammate and pupil Dick Notari (9er coach) felt," said Landry. "It was similar to how I felt when Bart Starr of the Packers sneaked over from the one to beat us out of a championship in 1967."

Bob Lilly, the Cowboys' all-pro defensive tackle, shuffled around the Dallas dressing room, using a broad grin to camouflage a terrific pain in his back. He was forced to leave the contest after the first 13 minutes due to a recurrence of muscle spasms.

"I just couldn't go on... it hurt like hell," said the 260-pound 12-year veteran. "And don't ask me about next week."

Minico edges Burley in final quarter

Spartans break tie at 33-33, 44-44 win

BURLEY — The Spartans pulled out a 44-44 tie with the Minico Bulldogs in the fourth quarter of the game Friday night.

The victory, the Spartans' 11th in a row, came in the last of 19 games. Morehouse and Craig Hapworth hit back-to-back baskets in the final quarter to break a 33-33 tie.

Minico, definitely favored, led most of the time but was shaken away as they came back. Morehouse hit 21 points, including a key shot in the final quarter.

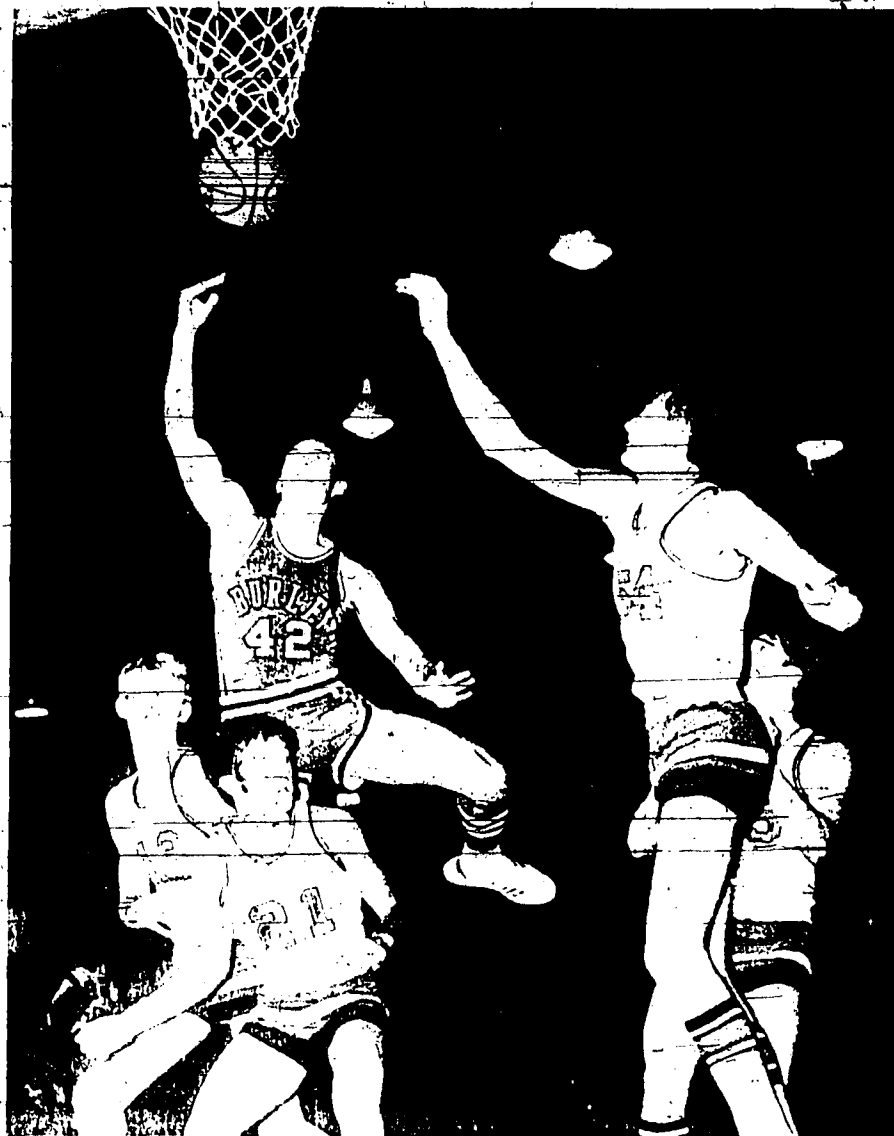

The teams flew at each other with main defenses, zone presses, and practice of meeting. Burley at midcourt, man or zone and the half.

The battle, in the final quarter, was a good one, each gaining in the final quarter.

Minico had the game in hand after Burley's last two points. They threw by Randklev with 1:01 remaining. Hapworth's two free throws two seconds from the end simply extended the tie.

It was a close first half with no more than three points separating the teams. At that point, Kim Buhl, Val Christenson and Hapworth shot the Spartans ahead 33-23. But in the last 30 seconds, Nielsen hit two points to close Burley to 33-33.

Minico won the opener 50-46.

Shelley tops Buhl 61-45 in last half

Buhl — Shelley broke open a tight game in the second half to defeat the Buhl Indians 61-45 Friday night.

Shelley grabbed a 12-10 lead in the first quarter and led 30-22 at the half, mainly due to several Buhl turnovers.

Shelley increased the lead to 10 in the third quarter and held Buhl to only 10 points in the final quarter. Shelley shot 71 times from the field to Buhl's 55.

Shelley put three players in double figures with little Wally Foster leading all scorers with 18 points.

Shelley downed the Indians 40-34 in the preliminary game.

Wendell avenges loss to Borah Jr.

WENDELL — The Wendell Trojans, in by far their biggest offensive explosion of the year, rolled over the Borah Juniors 76-71 Friday night to avenge an earlier loss to the Boise team.

Borah led almost all the way — but never got more than about 10 points out of reach.

Wendell pressed throughout the contest, trying to offset Borah's big-height advantage. But early in the fourth period, Coach Yogi Behrens let up somewhat defensively and turned his troops loose in a fast break.

Borah, which had protested a meager three or four point lead through the first five minutes of the last quarter, was caught a couple of times. Once Wendell took the lead it was all over. The Trojans ran up a seven-point advantage and coasted to a 76-71 victory.

Borah won the first game 56-57.

Wings rap Canucks

DETROIT (UPI) — Mickey Redmond scored his sixth goal in five games Saturday and assisted on two others to lead the Detroit Red Wings to a 5-1 national hockey league win over the Vancouver Canucks.

Goalie Roy Edwards of Detroit didn't have a chance for a shutout. Vancouver's Barry Wilkins put a screened shot past him from the point early in the second period for his fifth goal of the season.

Redmond flipped in his 19th goal of the season early in the opening period, converting the rebound of Ron Stackhouse's shot. Earlier in the period on a power play, Alex Delvecchio had slid in his ninth of the season after a shot by Redmond.

Pont feels Northwestern has change to be Big Ten winner

CHICAGO (UPI) — Alex Agase, who has no free time, says Northwestern has a good chance to win the Big Ten Conference.

John Pont said Saturday his decision to leave the head football coaching job at Indiana University to take the coaching job at Northwestern had left him "little time for the Christmas amenities."

He said he made his decision to take the Northwestern job early Saturday and called Northwestern Athletic Director Tippi Dye.

Pont said Northwestern had "many selling points." He said the school, the only private institution in the Big Ten Conference, could be a winner.

"I think Alex (Agase, his predecessor) proved that you can win. In the Big Ten we're all chasing Michigan and Ohio State. We've been seeing good players go elsewhere."

Pont said he had a long, enough control to do the job he wants to do. Dye said, "He was my first choice and has been all along. He's the first man I contacted and I'm glad I did. I might say he's the only man I offered the job to."

Pont was asked if he thought Northwestern's "high academic standards" wouldn't cause recruiting problems.

"I think that's great that you can't have time. Student

He said the fact that Northwestern is smaller than other Big Ten schools didn't matter.

He said Indiana could have finished 7-4 instead of 5-6 this past season, except for injuries.

He said Agase, who left Northwestern for Purdue, had left him "in good shape." He said he would talk to his staff at Indiana and some of the Northwestern staff to prepare for recruiting.

"This is not an ego trip or anything, but the coach has to believe in himself and the players will feel that way too."

Bankrupt line reports loss

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The bankrupt Penn Central Railroad said Thursday it lost $20 million in November and $185 million in the first 11 months of 1972.

The railroad's reported loss of $20,559,428 last month was a 27.2 per cent improvement over the November, 1971, loss of $28,008,382. The Penn Central lost $37,192,529 in November of 1970.

The reported loss of $185,606,623 for the first 11 months of the year marked a 25.4 per cent improvement over 1971's 11-month loss of $248,923,387.

The railroad, which is undergoing court-supervised reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws, said the November, 1972, figures were affected by increased labor costs of $3.8 million.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO SNOWMOBILE OPERATORS IN BLAINE COUNTY

The following are excerpts from Blaine County Ordinance 72-1, regulating the operation of snowmobiles upon the streets, roads or other public thoroughfares of Blaine County.

A valid drivers license issued by the state of Idaho is required to operate a snowmobile on public thoroughfares.

A snowmobile may be operated on public roads where such road is covered with snow to such an extent that travel by other vehicles is impeded. The Board of County Commissioners may authorize other public roads on which snowmobiles may be given.

When two or more snowmobiles are traveling together, they shall proceed in single file.

It shall be unlawful for any person to drive or operate any snowmobile in the following manner:

A. At a speed greater than reasonable for proper under all conditions.

B. While under the influence of intoxicating liquor, narcotics or habit forming drugs.

C. In a careless or reckless manner so as to endanger the person or property of another, or to cause injury or damage to either.

D. Without a lighted head and tail light and a six foot pole or rod with a colored flag one and one half feet by two feet in diameter in the interest of public safety.

E. Without an adequate muffler.

F. Operation of a snowmobile in a residential neighborhood in such a manner as to create a disturbance or nuisance.

G. Before the hour of 8 a.m. and after 10 p.m.

Violation of any section of this ordinance shall be a petty misdemeanor and punishable by fine or imprisonment or both, as follows:

H. For reckless careless operation of a snowmobile, or while under the influence of intoxicants or narcotics, a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than thirty days or both.

I. For violation of any other provision of this ordinance, a fine not to exceed fifty dollars.

PUBLISH Dec. 17, 20, 24, 27 & 31, 1972.

Precipitation coming for Christmas

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area:

Periods of rain with snow at higher elevations today, decreasing tonight. Locally windy at times. Variable clouds and chance of showers Monday. Highs both days near 40, lows at night mostly in the 30s. Probability of precipitation 60 per cent today, falling to 30 per cent tonight and Christmas.

Camas Prairie, Halley and Lower Wood River Valley:

Periods of snow with occasional snow and rain mixed at lowest elevations today, decreasing to scattered showers tonight and Monday. Snow level above 4,000 to 5,000 feet. Highs both days in mid-30s, lows at night 18 to 28.

Synopsis:

A Pacific weather front moved across Idaho Saturday evening, spreading rain and snow at higher elevations across most of the Pacific Northwest. Travelers advisories have been issued for northern Idaho, for locally heavy snow over mountains and passes and strong gusty winds. The snow level is expected to be lowering to 4,000 to 5,000 feet today. However, indications are for rain showers instead of snow in most valley areas of southern Idaho on Christmas day.

Strong gusty winds were expected as the front passed through southern Idaho last night.

Extended outlook: Southern Idaho, Tuesday through Thursday, continued warmer than normal temperatures with periods of rain in the valley and snow in the mountains. Daytime highs upper 30s.

New restaurant set at Burley

BURLEY — Construction of a new Red Steer take-home restaurant here will begin in February.

E. Ted Hawkins, vice president of the Boise based firm, said the facility will include seating for 80 persons as well as drive-through service. The restaurant will be located in the 100 block on East Main on land leased from Orland Bateman.

Construction of the restaurant will require about 90 days, which would allow an opening in May.

Red Steer Inc. now has 30 restaurants in Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington. Of those, 21 are Red Steer take-out restaurants and eight are Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise units, Hawkins said.

ATT satellite use OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reversing earlier decisions, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) agreed Friday to permit American Telephone & Telegraph Co. limited entry into the domestic communications satellite field.

The complex 50-page ruling in effect will give firms competing against AT&T a three-year head start in the market.

In part, the FCC decision will permit AT&T to operate a domestic communications satellite system with the Communications Satellite Corp. (Comsat), which was created by Congress to establish a global communications satellite system.

But it will restrict AT&T's use of a domestic satellite system to certain specialized long-distance systems for a three-year period and further require the company to divest itself of its 29 per cent holding in Comsat during that time.

Comsat is now seeking entry into the domestic communications field to compete with AT&T and other carriers in supplying new and improved domestic communications services, the commission said.

"Stock ownership by AT&T in Comsat is no longer necessary to further the policies of the Communications Satellite Act."

Friday's decision also approved a proposal by Comsat, Microwave Communications Inc. and Lockheed (Comsat-MCII) to set up a multipurpose domestic satellite system. Three other applications are pending — by Western Union, General Telephone and Hughes Aircraft — and more are expected.

We do not guarantee success in this field, we merely give them a chance to get into it," FCC Chairman Dean Burch answered when asked at a news conference what the criteria for entrants were.

Certified

TWIN FALLS — Rex S. Leforgee, Twin Falls, has received certification as a certified public accountant by the Idaho State Board of Accountancy.

Leforgee moved to Twin Falls earlier this month from Caldwell, where he was affiliated with a manufacturing firm for several years.

Sugar firm shareholders set January merger vote

DENVER (UPI) — Shareholders in American Crystal Sugar Co. and the Crystal Growers Corp. are scheduled to meet next month to decide whether to approve a proposed merger.

The boards of directors of the two firms Wednesday approved final terms of the proposed merger in which Crystal Growers will acquire the business of American Crystal. The merging plan calls for American Crystal to absorb Crystal Growers and the presently outstanding American Crystal stock to be converted to cash. Upon completion, each share of American Crystal preferred stock will be converted to $105, and each share of American Crystal common stock will be converted to at least $38.60.

Crystal Growers earlier this week announced successful completion of its offerings of stock to sugar beet growers in the Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota.

The $2.3 million raised by the stock sale and bank financing will pay the cash conversion price of the American Crystal stock.

Completion of the merger is also conditional upon receipt of a ruling from the Internal Revenue Service.

Idaho firm expansion loan OK'd

BOISE — Officials of Waremart Inc. have announced approval of a $2 million, long-term loan.

Ralph Ward, president of the warehouse discount food chain, said the funds will be used as additional working capital, to retire short-term debt and to enable the firm to continue expansion.

The firm operates 15 stores in Twin Falls, Boise, Nampa, Pocatello and Idaho Falls and in Arizona, California, Oregon and Washington.

The loan was approved by the Prudential Insurance Co., Ward said.

Cattle ruling scored

DENVER (UPI) — A spokesman for the cattle industry said Thursday President Nixon's decision to remove meat import restrictions was not in the best interests of either the American consumer or the beef cattle industry.

"The perpetuation of the bad precedent set last summer to remove import restrictions could profoundly shake the confidence of many of our cattlemen about the economic future of raising beef cattle," John Trotman said. Trotman, president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, said cattle raisers would be making decisions now about the numbers of animals to produce. He said their decisions would be translated into actual meat supplies available to the consumer in three to five years.

"If the President is going to rely on a foreign supply of meat to supposedly hold down the cost of living, then our producers could lose their incentive to stay in business," Trotman said.

Trotman said the American cattleman had produced 750 million pounds more beef this year than last, a four per cent increase.

"Our track record of production efficiency and of producing high quality beef for the consumer is unequalled anywhere in the world," Trotman said.

"It seems to us that the administration's action is in direct conflict with a report recently issued by the Economic Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture," he said.

Trotman said the report warned that a policy of unrestricted imports, through large supplies of competing foreign meat, would cause producers to reduce cow herd inventories, thus forcing consumer beef prices up sharply over the long run.

"We resent the fact that the Administration is using the American cattle producer as its whipping boy, when in fact it can better fight inflation by cutting back government spending," he said.

Feed grain supply policy explained

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration farm officials say they're walking a tightrope in trying to free enough feed grain supply to keep meat, milk, poultry and egg supplies flowing at ample levels — but without an over-reaction which would seriously depress grain markets.

Assistant Agriculture

Secretary Carroll G. Brumthaver gave that explanation to newsmen Friday after a conference with poultry and livestock groups concerned by recent high prices for feed grains and, particularly, for soybean meal.

Poultrymen at the meeting pressed Brumthaver and other officials repeatedly to recommend government action aimed at stepping up domestic soybean meal supplies by slowing down exports. But Brumthaver, without flatly rejecting the request, made it clear administration officials are cool to the idea.

Any controls on exports could damage long-range soybean export growth which is considered vital if currently idled crop acres are to be brought back into use, Brumthaver told newsmen. Further, an export slowdown now could substantially depress soybean prices and cripple the administration's hopes for a 5 to 6 million acre increase in soybean planting next year, the official said.

Brumthaver said recent trading developments indicate market experts expect soybean meal prices to ease off early next year, though they may remain "abnormally high" until clearer prospects emerge on 1972 harvest losses, and future production of soybeans and other high-protein crops. Turning to concern about high feed grain costs for poultrymen and others, Brumthaver noted the Agriculture Department has already — in effect — added 648 million bushels of grains to the "free" market supply available between now and next summer. This was done by announcing that extended price support loans on grain from old crops would be allowed to mature in 1973.

If necessary, Brumthaver pointed out, still more grain currently locked away from the market in the support loan program can be turned loose.

Christmas past, Christmas present

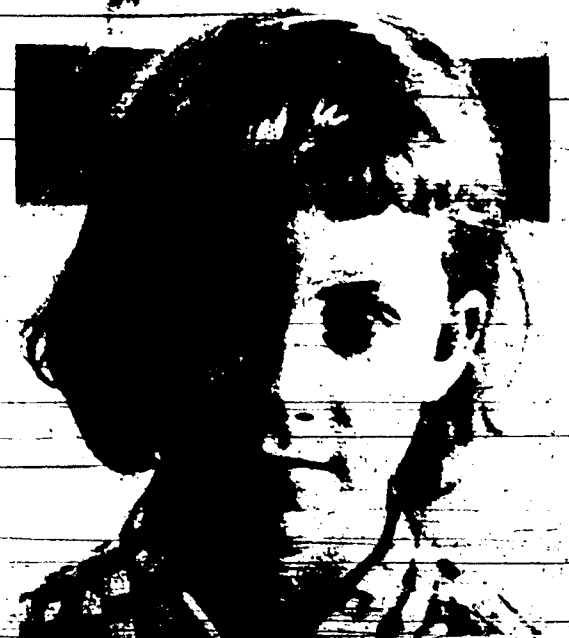

THROUGH the centuries Christmas has meant much the same thing to people everywhere. But many details have changed through time. The 16th Century Spanish artist who depicted the Adoration of the Magic in the tapestry at right, could not have known of Santa Claus. The jolly red-suited man with his reindeer is shown in the 20th Century needlepoint by Phyllis Brackett, below.

Could Santa refuse?

SANTA surely couldn't refuse any request from Eden School first grader Jolinda Metcalf. But just to be sure, Jolinda printed out a letter to Santa Claus, one of millions heading toward the North Pole.

In today's Christmas Greetings section, letters from youngsters from throughout Magic Valley are printed as they were written — erasures and smudges and all — to give Santa a clear idea of how much work he has in store tonight.

No peace in Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — If Christmas is the spirit of peace on earth and good will toward men there will be no Christmas here.

For the fourth Christmas there is no peace. Good will among men vanished long ago. There is a shell-shocked atmosphere; one is stunned by bombs and bullets and indiscriminate killing.

If Christmas is gifts, cards, a big meal by a decorated tree, then Belfast will go through the motions.

Stores that still have windows have holiday decorations in them. Trimmed trees show in only one habitable house in thirty. A municipal tree twinkles outside the locked and cordoned-off front door of city hall.

Christmas has its own momentum. Stores report a minor shopping boom, though they dare not stay open evenings. Post office workers struggle through the usual avalanche of holiday mail. Turkeys and geese hang in butcher shops.

In the country the land is green, hilly, Irish. The works of man upon it are neat, ordered, English.

Its cities are battlegrounds in the western world's most vicious urban guerrilla war.

The war has changed character since August, 1969. It is no longer minority Roman Catholics demanding civil rights from the Protestant majority, or militants trying to unite Ireland by force. By now it is a war of hate each sect against the other, both in varying degrees against the occupying British army.

Belfast has the same crime, delinquency and violence as any waterfront city of 349,000. But on top, overlaid, is the incredible savagery of "the troubles."

This year Belfast has had one political murder for each 3,500 people. If Americans killed each other at the same rate Chicago would have 1,000 murders a year and New York 46 a week.

Bombs explode nearly every day. One private car in nine in Belfast has been stolen this year. Gun battles, ambushes, midnight assassinations seem to rise in tempo as Christmas comes.

Belfast is at war with itself. No holiday celebration lightens the agony of that fact.

Suppose you're a housewife—Mrs. Elizabeth Collins' of Hollywood District—shopping for last-minute gifts.

You don't take the car, of course. Most of central Belfast is a "control zone," where a parked car risks being blown up by the British Army as a possible booby trap. You take the bus.

On the way, whole blocks, white streets of houses are gutted or simply gone. Virtually nowhere are you out of sight of destruction.

The army is everywhere—a six-wheeled armored car, a wary mobile patrol, soldier in combat gear, fingers on loaded triggers, patrolling or standing in doorways.

You must pay no attention to army "strong points" that are thrown together out of corrugated iron, sandbags, timbers, camouflage netting. There are rifle snouts in every

Coconut annual present

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) - If someone is tired of receiving ties for Christmas, they might talk to Ed Clinch. He has had his fill of repetitious Christmas presents.

Ever since 1948, Clinch, 57, has been given a Christmas coconut from an anonymous person or persons.

"I'm glad it's over," Clinch said Wednesday after receiving the annual present. "Now I can do my Christmas shopping."

Clinch, a Peoria park district foreman, has received his gift during the past years usually in a spectacular manner.

It has come by ambulance, helicopter, been parachuted onto an airport runway, delivered by the Peoria mayor and local television personalities.

This year it was delivered to Clinch's home by Mike Miln, newly-elected Peoria County state's attorney, who said he found the coconut wrapped in plain paper on his desk when he arrived at the office Wednesday morning.

But, for the first time, Clinch had advance warning on the delivery. An anonymous caller telephoned both Miln and the Peoria Journal-Star Tuesday to alert them that delivery was about to be made.

Clinch at least had time to shave and dress before the coconut and accompanying television newsmen arrived.

Clinch suspects the whole thing was started by some of his World War II buddies in the South Pacific as the result of a joke about coconuts falling out of a tree.

He refused to elaborate.

Visitor notices his hat

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) —Merchants held their breath Wednesday when the first child climbed onto J.E. Morris' lap at the annual Chamber of Commerce Christmas festivities and momentarily looked at his face and salt and pepper beard.

The businessmen were worried about what the child, a little girl, might say when she noticed that Morris had a black skin.

Then the girl slowly scrutinized Morris' size 48 costume and 350-pound bulk.

The only thing the tot could be heard to mumble was "he doesn't look the same as last year. He wears a different kind of hat."

NEW YORK (UPI) —Some happy Christmas tips from the National Safety Council:

- Select a fresh yule tree and keep it in water.
- Replace light strings that have worn insulation or broken

- Light strings on a metallic tree can electrocute you. Use an off-tree spotlight instead.
- Decorate with non-flamma-

Queen, Philip plan home yule

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's royal family will spend the holidays at Windsor Castle. Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will be joined by The Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and Earl Snowdon and their two children, the Duke and Duchess of Kent with three children and Princess Alexandra and the Honorable Angus Ogilvy with their two.

On Christmas Eve, there will be a carol service at St. George's chapel and then a walk back to the Castle to exchange gifts between adults. Children under 12 get theirs at the foot of their beds on Christmas Day morning. Prince Philip acts as Santa Claus.

After a morning chapel service on Christmas Day, there usually is a brisk walk to whip up appetites and then a grand luncheon party for young and old at 1:30 p.m. A traditional menu, with roast turkey and a plum pudding, is carried in ceremoniously. Crackers are pulled and everybody wears paper hats.

Then there are indoor games and television watching until tea at five. The giant tree in the ballroom is then revealed, brilliantly lit and decorated. Everybody in the Castle, including the staff, gets a present from under the tree.

The Queen makes generous gifts to the staffs of her four residences, buys a plum pudding for each of the 300 police guards who attend her and provides food parcels and logs for old age pensioners in Windsor town.

Hope you've got lots of good things for our friends and patrons. And please deliver

'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through our house
Not a nickel was stirring, not even a mouse:
The fives and tens were all folded with care,
In hopes another holiday soon would be there.

The tellers were gone and so was the boss —
No mention this night of profit and loss;
From the vault to door, there was nothing the matter
Even in the lobby, no patter or chatter.

The doors were all locked, the vault was sealed tight —
Really peaceful and quiet, this Christmas Eve night.
When down through the chimney with a puff and a groan
Came an old tired Santa, just to be alone.

His muscles were aching, his patience was worn,
He had so much to do before Christmas morn,
A few minutes rest in the president's chair
And then once again, Santa hadn't a care.
Freshened in spirit he again went his way
To make some child happy on this Christmas day.

it's Christmas

Christmas is the bright star that welcomes the Prince of Peace. It is the shining eyes of a child, transported by the magic of the Christmas Story. Christmas is a warmly lighted home where kindly thoughts abide in friendly people. It is the look of wonder on a child's face when the glittering Christmas tree twinkles with colored lights. Christmas is a mighty city lighted up - a peaceful village glowing warm against a wintry sky. Christmas is a lighted candle in the window - a gracious welcome to all who pass - the weak, the friendless, the tried, the true. May the lights of Christmas and its tender blessings shine in our hearts throughout the coming New Year.

Flowers like kindness

NEW YORK (UPI) — Be kind to cut flowers sent to your house for the holidays. Read the following tips:
—Place stems in deep warm water. Pour warm water into the container in which they will be arranged. Cut stem ends diagonally with a sharp knife. Remove all foliage below the water level. Add a commercial flower preservative to the water.

—Poinsettias have a milky substance or juice which should be sealed into the stem by quickly dipping stem ends one to two inches into boiling water.
—When stem ends get soft or decayed, recut the stems to remove the bad portion.
—When the flowers wilt, recut stems and place in warm water.

The Misshapen Little Christmas Tree

By Sarice Human Hazelton

The little, scraggly Christmas tree, wringing his little branches, was lonely for his mother forest and wild animals. Shedding needles like tears, the little tree cried and cried. "Where, oh, where are they taking my family and me?", he sighed.

The ride was long, the breeze too strong, the air of the city smelled! No wild flowers at his feet, no singing birds in one's hair. No soft soil to stand upon — just pavement hard and bare. No star light, no pale moon to shine — noise and hard lights are there!

"Why, oh, why did they chop me?", he groaned. "I'm an ugly tree." All the other lucky Christmas trees were oh-h-ed and ah-ed upon. His sisters, fluttering their branches, flirted with everyone. His brothers, straight and tall, were a beautiful sight to see.

With high-priced tags fastened to their trunks, they turned into snobs. Fighting and competing, putting on airs like some people. Forgetting they were to be used only a little while. They whispered to the passersby, "Pick me, pick me!"

Watching his tree family being bought from his side, The misshapen, little tree felt sorry for himself.

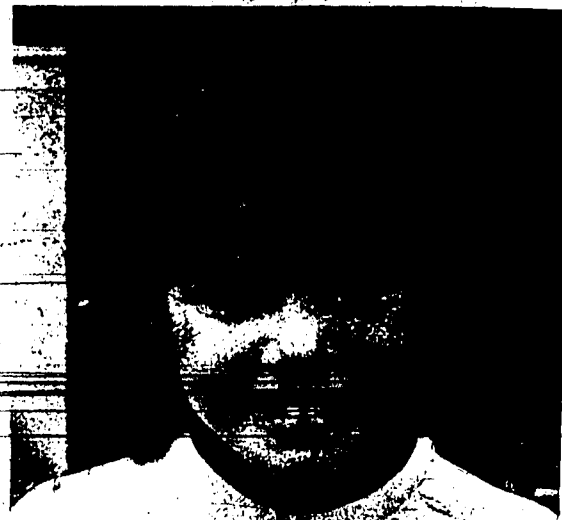

"Why, oh, why am I me? Why can't I be somebody else?" With drooping branches and sad needles, he cried and cried.

With the snow softly falling, with carols in the air, He decided to make the best he could of himself! Shaking his boughs, fluffing his needles here and there, Straightening his trunk, he thought, "I'm not so bad at all!"

Feeling graceful, beautiful, and smiling inside. He transformed his shape into a lovely Christmas tree! His boughs weren't the fullest, or his needles the freshest. But his tender, tree heart brought forth his inner beauty!

The shoppers stopped and stared at him. How could they have missed this tree? A thousand stars glittered on his boughs from the new fallen snow. His inner peace shone out, leaving many tiny rainbows. Noticing the children praising him — "Can this really be me?"

Dear Santa,
I'm sure what you give me is nice, Jackie. Have a Merry Christmas, Santa.
Love Jackie.

Tree shortage problem for Russian New Year

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nikolai Sidoryenko said a plastic tree that smelled nicer than a real fir would solve the problem. Piotr Yakovlev suggested moving the whole celebration out to the woods to spare the tree.

The problem is the yotka, the traditional Soviet New Year tree, and the shortage of trees.

The government did away with Christmas when it came into power 55 years ago. But it did not forget the trappings and a few years later switched them all — decorated trees, tinsel, colored lights and even a white bearded old man named old Grandfather Frost — to New Years Day.

Ivan Balashov, head of the Moscow forestry administration, said Muscovites would buy as many as 1.2 million New Years trees this year. Coupled with the sale of plastic trees this and previous years, nearly 100 per cent of the public demand would be satisfied, he said.

Literary Gazette, the newspaper of the Writers Guild, disagreed.

Comrade Balashov's figures do not tally with other letters we get about this problem," it said. "If the demand is fully satisfied, why do we have so many reports of tree poaching?"

Virtually all Muscovite families buy New Years trees, spending either 72 cents a yard for an often scrawny, picked-over tree in the state markets that open around Dec. 20, or $3.60-$4.80 for an elegantly shaped six-foot section lopped off the top of a larger tree by poachers. Literary Gazette suggested abandoning the holiday tree tradition if the price to forestlands was so high.

Nikolai Sidoryenko wrote in to recommend "creating" a plastic tree that smelled nicer than a fir to alleviate the problem.

Piotr Yakovlev tried a more natural approach.

"Every year in the early

"By then the police themselves have already started celebrating," one Muscovite said. Not every officer is as quick-witted as the one who last week caught one poacher running through a snowy forest with a pine tree tucked inside a cello case.

"He looked suspicious," the policeman said.

Non-toxic toys best

NEW YORK (UPI) — At Christmas toy buying time, look for the designation "non-toxic" on painted toys, clay, crayons and finger paints. Manufacturers following standards developed by the American National Standards Institute put that on the items. The phrase means paints and dyes won't poison child who chews, licks or sucks the playthings.

Electric candle best

NEW YORK (UPI)—Candles with electric candles keep look nice in windows at Christmas time, provided they are electric. Not for an instant entertain the idea of putting a real candle in a window—even a window that seems a safe place for a lighted candle. Even curtains and other flammable material pulled back. Also for a safe Christmas, turn off all Christmas lights at night when everyone is out of the house. The accident prevention tips are from fire fighters.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last-minute Christmas suggestions for the man of the house.

Does he feel soar? For $75 the Chalé Club of New York will send him soaring up in a hot-air balloon with a woman pilot and a bottle of vintage champagne. If he wants a sail plane or glider, Neiman-Marcus has a Caproni jet-sailplane for $18,000. The price soars to $32,000 if you throw in a jet engine.

Is he too lazy to his own jumping on a pogo stick? Hammacher and Schlemmer has a gasoline-powered pogo stick and he doesn't have to do anything but hold on for dear life. If his feet get sore they've got a whirlpool-type portable foot bath for home hydrotherapy.

Does he love fine jewelry? You can get a Tiffany's Christmas catalogue for $1 and he can look at all the fine jewelry he wants to. Does he have a moustache? Plummer-McCutcheon has a miniature spoon with an overlap device that keeps the hair out of the soup. Does he have a moustache and drink beer? Sunset House of Beverly Hills, Calif., has a moustache stein with hair guard.

Is his watch too noisy? They've got something now called a Pulsar watch which isn't really a watch but tells time with no hum, no whine, no tick. You push a button and the time flashes onto a specially-tempered glass time screen. Push again and you see the seconds flashing past.

Is he tired of plain, ordinary grapefruit? Frank Lewis of Alamo, Tex., has got some mighty peculiar soil in his backyard and his grapefruit come out royal ruby red. Does he spill the juice on his tie? A can of Scotchgard will make it run off harmlessly.

Does he feel he owes some people a dinner but doesn't like them well enough to eat with them? American Express has a "be my guest" service where you can send them out for dinner and stay-home yourself. Does he get tired of lighting one cigarette after another?

Tobacconist Nat Sherman has a 6 1/2-inch-long cigarette that lasts almost half an hour.

Would he like to smash atoms and save a billion dollars at the same time? Lafayette Radio Electronics has a miniature atom smasher for only $15.80, which is about $1 billion cheaper than the big ones. It produces 75,000 volts and a two-inch spark but is reported to be harmless.

Does he schuss down a ski slope half blind? Bausch & Lomb has a ski goggle that fits over regular prescription glasses. If he really wants to disguise himself, 3EM has a cold-weather mask that will cover the nose and mouth and won't interfere with the goggles.

Does he fancy himself a chef? Bazaar de la Cuisine in New York has gadgets for swizzling, spaetzeling, stirring, puddling, muddling, peeling, slicing, curling, grating, honing, sauteeing, larding, mixing, chafing, pounding, filtering, steaming, molding, grating, shearing, shucking, fluting, poaching, ricing, mincing, whisking, curling and stuffing.

Does he have frayed nerves when he visits Dallas? The Dallas Market Center has Squiggles, a device that looks like a piece of corrugated tubing with an unruly mop of hair. Plug it in and it undulates, squirms and hypnotizes. If he wants further relaxation he can comb Squiggles' hair.

As long as he is in Dallas there is also a Texas-size ant for a paperweight, 3 inches tall and 4 1/2 inches long in chromium plate. And a passion meter which is a glass tube full of colored liquid. The heat of the hand forces the liquid up through the tube and indicates the amount of heat generated.

Does he play games? 3EM has something called Neo Chess which is played like chess but in which the captured pieces become turncoats and are used against their former masters. Or there is Parker's Dealer's Choice, in which wheeler dealers play a used-car game involving everything from a 1905 Reo to an army tank.

Does he worry about what time it is somewhere else? Data Time has a world clock complete with a map of the world and a row of buttons for the time zones. Push one and a digital clock tells you what time it is wherever you want to know. Does he ever wonder what month Friday the 13th will fall on in 1999? Wittnauer has a calendar computer which shows the days, months and years right up to 2015 A.D. Do you wear his watch? Gubelin has a unisex watch with expandable bracelet that fits him and her.

Is he going on safari? Hunting World has revived the original Colonel Blimp safari trunks you beat back into shape with a mallet when they get bashed. Does he travel light? Executive Saddlabags are zippered pouches that fit over an attache case, saddlebag style for an overnight trip. Is his hair too long? Goody has braided elastic ponytail bands that come in a plastic ball that makes a Christmas tree decoration.

May the Christ Child bring joy to light this glorious, holy season.

Yule tree 'rustling' continuing

By United Press International
Rustling—the kind peculiar to the Christmas season—is still rampant in the Western United States. But tough laws and bad weather have hampered efforts by Christmas tree poachers in some places this year.

Tree stealing, an annual Christmas season peril for the Forest Service, got so bad in Washington state recently the FBI was called in. Utah and Nevada are using air surveillance to catch poachers, who seem to be working faster than ever.

The Forest Service estimates that poachers steal up to 15 million trees in the United States each year. Fewer than 1 per cent of them are caught.

Tree poachers clear $4 to $6 a tree, officials estimate. Most trees sell for about $1 a foot. People who deal with poachers aren't likely to ask questions about where the trees came from.

Some poachers aren't that lucky. In Pittsburgh, Martin L. Noel, 23, awaits trial on larceny charges in the Dec. 11 theft of between $500 to $600 worth of Christmas trees.

In Arizona, Old Man Winter has hampered thieves. Rain and snow came in early abundance and most roads into forest areas have been virtually impassable for the past few weeks.

Robert Umberger of the Forestry Service in Maine says commercial Christmas tree poaching has cut down tremendously in the last 10 years because state law requires a certificate before they can be transported on Maine roads.

California law calls for up to a $500 fine and six months in jail for anyone convicted of having a Christmas tree without authorization. In addition, rangers patrol the forests intermittently and snow blocks many roads leading into regions with small trees.

But Steve Beck, information officer for the Sierra National Forest in central California, says professional poachers are still active. "They go in with hand saws in the daytime and cut them down and then remove them by night."

John Drees of the Michigan Department of Agriculture says the problem of Christmas tree poachers is not what it once was in Michigan. Most trees in Michigan are now grown on farms specifically for that purpose. Drees said most people would rather spend about $5 to get a tree properly pruned and shaped to be a Christmas tree, rather than take the chance on poaching a wild tree that often is not properly shaped.

Michigan, too, has an anti-poaching law for Christmas trees, but it does not apply to persons with two trees or less between Dec. 1 and Dec. 28.

Officials in Massachusetts, where a stiff state law is backed up by around-the-clock patrols by the Department of Natural Resources, concede that there are a few thefts of Christmas trees, but say it does not add up to anything worth worrying about.

Occasionally the Forest Service scores a major triumph in the fight against poachers. A man caught in northern California admitted he had been stealing trees for 20 years at an average annual profit of $20,000. He went to jail.

Two Utah men were caught with 1,700 stolen trees. One went to jail and the other was fined.

Authorities say that while surveillance has been intensified in many states most poachers by now are counting their cash and secure in the knowledge that they've probably gotten away with their illegal deed—at least until the next Christmas season.

Belgians slicing US cakes

CORSICANA, Tex. (UPI) —It doesn't come as a surprise to a tall, gregarious Texan named Bill McNutt that a milkman in Vermont and King Boudouin of Belgium will be slicing one of his fruitcakes Christmas Day.

McNutt has been providing fruitcake lovers in 158 countries with the traditional holiday cake for more than two decades. His Collin Street Bakery address is known from Tahiti to Moscow.

"The orders just increase every year," he said.

McNutt, the president and owner of the 76-year-old bakery, has yearly shipped out the custom-made cakes to Princess Grace of Monaco; Count and Countess Frederick Chandon de Briailles of France and the Duke of Luxembourg.

Actor Walter Brennan just placed his order for the 21st year in a row and the U.S. embassy in Lagos, Nigeria, has requested 900 of the fruitcakes for distribution to the Africa's heads of state and other top government officials.

Russian government officials admit they don't know much about American Christmases, but that doesn't stop 32 of them from ordering their fruitcakes.

Going into this Christmas season, Collin Street Bakery listed more than 300,000 mail order customers. During the two month period prior to Christmas, the bakery produces more than 15,000 fruitcakes a day.

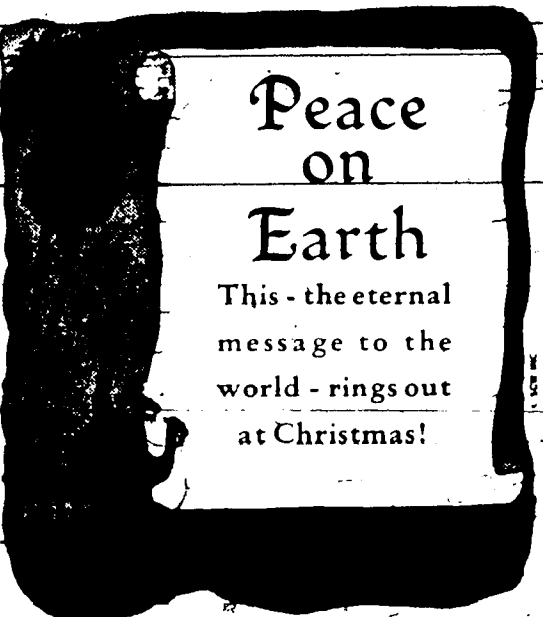

For almost 10 months of every year the three-story, block-long Collin Street Bakery produces pastries and bread for the 21,000 residents of this former oil boom town 60 miles south of Dallas. The work force, including company executives, bakers, secretaries and night watchmen, barely exceeds 40.

But by the middle of October the bread pans are set aside and the employe list swells to more than 750 for production of the "Collin Street Bakery Deluxe Fruitcake."

Greetings! Just a friendly note to say
We wish you the merriest Christmas Day!

Tribute offered neighbor

By J. EDGAR BIRCH
St. Anthony

My mind's put at ease, as I stand here in sorrow,
Thinking of a day that will come perhaps its tomorrow

When the test of a man's strength, his stature, and worth,
Will be known, to his friends, by his acts here on earth.

When the life that he led, and the game that he played,
Will be an open book where an assessment is made
Where his kindness in act, and his service in deed,
Will stand fully disclosed his virtues to plead

Alberia, my neighbor and friend, will pass the test high,
With kindness and goodness, she will most certainly get by.
She'll go a full mile, if need be to, go two,
With a heart that o'er flowed, and a hand out to you

No distance too far, no time so demanding,
As to limit her faith and a deep understanding,
Of any service she felt it her duty to perform,
By leading you forth, strongly clasping your arm.

She was a pillar of strength, in the service she'd do.
For a kinsman, or friend, or, just me and you.

she would lighten your load, your strength she'd sustain,
With solace and comfort, sharing your sorrow and pain.

And, now, that she's gone, she's just out of sight,
She's found a haven of rest, and a place that's more bright.
To meet her friends over there, and her relatives too,
She'll find happiness supreme, and more service pursue.

Tis my wish today, as I stand near her side,
And know that again in her presence we'll abide,
If we do that which is right, and in honor endure,
We'll have happiness today and our future insure.

Both Bertie and Rone have been friends in my home,
And more sincere neighbors I never have known.
I've admired them so much, in their sociable way,
Most all of my life, and that's many a day.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ENGELBERT HUMPERDINCK

I was in the audience when you appeared at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas. You asked for volunteers, and two gorgeous girls walked on stage. You sang to them and kissed them. Tell me honestly, were those girls plants, or do average middle-aged housewives like myself have a chance, too?—N. Holmes, Sacramento, Calif.

● Those were no plants, and sometimes the women who volunteer are old enough to be my mother. It is just that usually the young ones beat them to it. Maybe they are less reserved, or maybe they can just walk faster. But next time you come to the Riviera, please don't hesitate to step forward.

FOR DORIS DAY

What actor did you enjoy working with most?—Karen Hering, Appleton, Wis.

● I've enjoyed working with all my leading men, but if I have to be pinned down to a favorite, I suppose it is Rock Hudson. If I had to pick a favorite movie, it would be any of the ones I made with Rock.

FOR PAT BOONE

You have four daughters. How do you feel about letting them live away from home?—Al Lee, San Antonio, Texas

● I suppose you only refer to Cherry, 18, the oldest one. She talked about getting an apartment, but my wife Shirley and I are not willing to let her go. I simply will not consider letting any of our girls move away from home until they are 20. I lived at home until I was married. Of course, the girls can say that Shirley and I got married when we were 19—and it may be difficult to answer. But then, we were almost 20.

FOR ROGER STAUBACH, pro football star

Do you think your shoulder separation injury will hurt your future as a passer?—Adam Romo, Jr., San Antonio, Texas

● No. In fact, the doctors tell me that my arm should be stronger than ever. I'm confident I'll be a better quarterback than I was before.

FOR MIKE MANSFIELD, Senate Majority Leader

Is the Senate turning into Chicken Little? I understand it recently approved a treaty fixing liability for man-made space objects in case they fall on our heads. True?—F. D., Green Bay, Wis.

● As of February, 1972, there were 2,730 objects in outer space, and as of the same date 3,120 objects had been in orbit but since decayed. Thus, as space exploration continues, it becomes increasingly possible that persons or property may be damaged by space mishaps.

FOR SEN. EDMUND MUSKIE of Maine

Do you think acquainting the American public with Polish history, especially the contributions made by Americans of Polish descent, would eliminate Polish jokes and slurs?—E. Jasiorkowska, Chicago, Ill.

● Yes. I think as more and more people become aware of the heritage of others, there will be less reliance on so-called ethnic jokes. Any form of humor that relies on slurs on others' origins is in bad taste.

FOR DAVE DEBUSSCHERE of the New York Knicks

What made you give up your baseball career for basketball?—T. S., Anderson, Calif.

● After two years of double-sport participation, I realized I had more chance to be a star in basketball and dropped my baseball career. It's difficult to play two sports. Only one other modern player—Ron Reed of the Atlanta Braves—has attempted playing two sports professionally. And he dropped basketball quickly.

FOR SHELLEY WINTERS, starring in "The Poseidon Adventure"

Every actor and actress seems to have a favorite role they would like to play. What is yours?—F. J., Boca Raton, Fla.

● I'd love to play Golda Meir on the screen. What a woman!

FOR CLORIS LEACHMAN, currently starring in Walt Disney's "Charlie and the Angel"

Is it true you once won a beauty contest?—L. Johnston, Yuma, Ariz.

● In 1948 I was chosen Miss Chicago. I was also one of the five finalists in the Miss America pageant the same year. [Editor's note: When she was a shapely student at the Actor's Studio a few years later, Cloris was told by Julie Harris, "If I had your figure, I could rule the world!"]

FOR DAVE BRUBECK, jazz musician

You're a famous jazz musician, but your children are into rock music. Do you see this difference in musical taste as a generation gap?—P. L., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● Every generation likes its own music. It gives them an identity that sets them apart from their elders. In my early years, "swing was the thing." It became the basis for my style of jazz. My son Darius, 25, grew up when folk music was in vogue, so his approach reflects his interest in ethnic influences. Chris, 20, reached junior high about the time the Beatles took over, so his music is more rock oriented. But all my sons play jazz as well as rock. And they were trained in classical. I suppose our difference in musical preference (not taste; we all agree when it's bad, whether it's rock or jazz) is a "generation gap," but it's one that is easily bridged.

FMH — the fat mobilizing hormone — by experimenting on himself

You can now command your body to Melt Away Fat

AND LOSE AS MUCH AS YOU WANT WHILE YOU ENJOY EATING AS MUCH AS YOU WANT!

The Famous Superdiet — Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution reveals in full the recently discovered weight loss secret.

You don't need pills — you don't count calories — you don't even need willpower (because you're never hungry)!

Yet you can lose 10-50-100 pounds or more (6 to 8 the first week!) and keep it off for the rest of your life!

It's truly a Diet Revolution!

For over 50 years we've all been brainwashed into thinking that the only way to lose weight was to cut calories. "It's a hoax!" says Dr. Robert C. Atkins. We all know some lucky person who can "eat like a horse" and never gain a pound — what has she or he got that you haven't got?

Now we know! It's FMH (the Fat Mobilizing Hormone).

This is a substance that signals your body to start "living off its own fat." It was isolated in pure form only a dozen years ago, and it was just a medical curiosity until Dr. Atkins discovered how to make his body — your body — anybody's body — produce FMH on command!

Listen to his story:

"Only 10 years out of medical school I was already a fat man. 40 pounds overweight, with 3 chins! Yet I have no willpower — even the idea of hunger scares me. I knew I could not follow a low-calorie diet for even a single day. He read about FMH, and by using his own body as a laboratory, discovered that he could command it to make this miracle hormone whenever he wished. The FMH switched his body engine over to a different "fuel" — it started to burn fat. He continued to eat all he wanted — he never felt hungry, and at the end of six weeks, he had lost 28 pounds! And the diet revolution was born.

Why the Diet Revolution works.

Dr. Atkins found a simple test that would tell him when his body engine was burning fat. And 65 employees at AT&T agreed to try it. Every single one lost as much weight as he wanted — yet not a single one was hungry! Then the news got out — and thousands, many of whom were 50-100 pounds overweight, flocked to Dr. Atkins' office for treatment.

Is it any wonder celebrities like Roberta Peters, Buddy Hackett and David Susskind have told the world about the miracles this diet works? Is it any wonder his diet has made news in magazines like Vogue, Town & Country, Cosmopolitan, and Woman's Day?

Read these incredible true stories!

From size 18 to size 8! Beatrice G had been taking diet pills since she was a fat 9-year old! Yet when she came to Dr. Atkins, she still weighed 166 pounds and wore size 18! Now she's size 8 and still losing! "The best part is I know I'll never have to go hungry again!" she says.

Loses 85 pounds in 17 weeks. Herb W weighed 367 pounds at the age of 32. He had tried diet pills and

WHICH OF THESE DIETING MISTAKES DO YOU MAKE?

1. Do you have nothing for breakfast but high protein cereal with skim milk? "WRONG," says Dr. Atkins. "Have two fried eggs and all the bacon you want!"
2. Do you try to get by for lunch with nothing but a piece of lean ground beef with a little ketchup on it? "WRONG," says Dr. Atkins. "Have two cheeseburgers instead."
3. Do you skip lunch entirely and nibble a tiny box of raisins? "WRONG," says Dr. Atkins. "Have some chicken kiev dripping with melted butter!"
4. When you eat out, do you go off your diet? "No need to," says Dr. Atkins, and tells you how to enjoy Chinese food, French food, Italian food right from the menu.

started and quit Weightwatchers several times. After four months of Dr. Atkins' diet, he had lost 85 pounds — yet he was never hungry. I'm losing, but I'm not on a diet. I'm eating up a storm," he says happily. "It's fantastic!"

Why Dr. Atkins' diet will work for you.

1. Unlike any other diet — you control your own body chemistry to burn off unwanted fat and keep it off. (You're different from everybody else on earth, so Dr. Atkins' simple test, which you make every day, lets you know it's working, and lets you regulate your weight precisely.)
2. Unlike other methods — there are no pills to take, no calories to count, no strenuous exercises, and not a single hunger pang to suffer through! (You'll probably eat better than you ever have — and feel better too because you can lose while enjoying such luxuries as berries with whipped cream, bacon, cheeseburgers, butter, fried foods, all kinds of meats, poultry and seafood — even asparagus with real hollandaise sauce!)

The Diet Revolution tells you everything you need to know.

Why diet pills are bad news (p. 88)
How to start your body producing (FMH) the fat mobilizing hormone that flushes out and burns up your excess weight (p. 16)
How to test yourself and regulate your rate of weight loss (p. 126-130)
How to tell if brand name foods and diet drinks are okay — and which to beware of (p. 163)
Why calorie counting and starvation diets are a hoax (p. 94)
The 4 simple things you do to start (p. 123)
... and 94 pages packed full of luscious meal plans, food lists and recipes — and you can eat every one!
If you read and follow Dr. Atkins' advice, four beautiful things will happen to you.

1. You will feel free of hunger.
2. You'll feel better... perhaps better than ever before!
3. You will lose weight the first week, and continue to lose until you reach the weight you want to be! Most

After completing his medical education at the University of Michigan and Cornell Medical School, Dr. Atkins interned at Strong Memorial Hospital, and served his residency at Columbia University Hospitals, and St. Luke's Hospital. Specializing in cardiology, he knew that obesity is one of the primary reasons for heart trouble.

Marlo Thomas Recalls Christmases Past:

"The Greatest Lesson My Father Taught Me"

By Marlo Thomas,
as told to Helen Dorsey

Some people might tell you about the first Christmas they discovered there is no Santa Claus. I don't remember that.

When I think about Christmas, I think of family sharing. We always go to Mass and have brunch together, just the family. Actually, most of the Christmases I spent as a child were mixed in with a lot of traveling so I could be with my father.

My most memorable childhood Christmas came when I was eight. My sister Terry was five and my brother wasn't even born. My father was appearing at the old Chez Paree in Chicago, and they wanted him to stay over for Christmas and New Year's. My mother was determined to spend Christmas at home. Our tree was up, the presents were all under the tree and my mother said, "I'm not uprooting these children. They're all excited and waiting for you to come home."

My father told the Chez Paree people he could never be away from his family at Christmas, but they said, "Tell her she can bring all the presents. Tell her we'll get a tree, we'll have a Santa for the kids on Christmas morning and everything." So we went.

We went by train because my mother didn't like to fly. On the train we had a roomful of presents. I remember that very well. And what a terrific Christmas they gave us! Santa was waiting in the hotel room when we got there. There was a big train with presents stuffed in each car and a big tree.

I've only spent one Christmas away from my family. That's when I was in London, playing in "Barefoot in the Park" onstage. It felt very strange being away that day, but I gave a Christmas dinner in my flat for the cast and crew. I had to have something I could do myself—especially since I was going through a trying period. It was a time when I was trying to break out of the identity crisis that always goes with being the son or daughter of a famous person.

Lots of people think it's no trouble for children of famous people to make it. But it's a tremendous amount of trouble, an unbelievable amount, and some of us make it and some of us don't. I know many kids I grew up with, children of famous people, who are now in sanatoriums, or have become alcoholics or have taken to drugs. They just couldn't make it.

Homemade presents and cards, Marlo believes, mean more than presents and cards that are bought. "Do things yourself," she advises.

"When my play opened, my father gave me a set of horse blinders, and on the card he wrote: 'Just run your own race.'"

But it was on that Christmas in London that my father gave me probably the best gift I ever got. He knew I had been having a lot of trouble in the U.S. just getting out on the streets without people bugging me about who I was. I guess I went to London so I could get away and be what I was myself. Then when my play opened, my father gave me a set of horse blinders, and on the card he wrote: "Just run your own race."

It's true! He had told me, "Thoroughbreds run their own race. They don't look at anybody else or at what anybody else is doing."

I think the greatest gift you can give anyone is to let them be themselves. I mean, if I could ask anything, if I was a new baby, I would say to my mother, "Let me be me."

I think this is important for us as grown-ups too. Let the person you love be who they are and like what they like. I often wonder why, when we choose somebody to love, we then often try to beat out of them what we don't like or what doesn't agree with us. I keep noticing that in couples. I always say, "Why are you torturing that poor person? Let him be. If you don't like what he does, how he walks, eats, talks, then move on!"

You know, I took off the last year. Since then I've spent a lot of time trying to concentrate on my own feelings, rather than on my commercial pursuits. My new record album reflects that. It's called "Free to Be... You and Me." It resulted from my own anguish over the children's fairy tales my niece was reading and hearing. I listened too—and what I heard was the roles of children and parents that these tales traditionally assign to boys and girls and men and women. The purpose of my album is to help free children to be who they are and who they want to be.

I guess my most remembered childhood Christmas gift was a piano. I wanted one in my bedroom. My mother and father gave me a white piano, just made for little girls, and I wanted it so badly.

We always decorated with a Nativity scene out in front of our house. In Beverly Hills, where I grew up, the Chamber of Commerce gave a prize for the best display. We won it so many times they finally gave us the perennial plaque so we wouldn't be eligible any more. We went crazy with our Nativity. We started out small and finally we had this huge stable on the front lawn with life-size figures my father found in Italy.

My parents still put it up each year. One year when we were no longer at home my father thought, "Gee, the kids all have their own homes," so he didn't do it. All the people in the city wrote him letters complaining about its not being there. "It's a place we always take our children," they said.

As for my presents, I've gotten more into making things for people now, because I've realized, through the years, those are the gifts I like the best. Somebody would make me a pillow or draw me a picture or knit me something. I just felt the best about that. It's the warmest and best. Last year, I made a pillow for my niece, Dionn, for whom I'd do anything, and for my boyfriend, in needlepoint.

As kids, we made cookies and our own Christmas cards. I would still love to make my own cards, but now I send close to a thousand of them, and I don't have time. But I love it when someone sends me a handmade, homemade Christmas card. It makes me wonder how we got so far away from the real spirit of Christmas. How did we get so far away from truly giving to each other? Isn't giving really giving of yourself in some way?

If I had to select a single thing to tell people about Christmas I would say this: Don't worry so much about buying the biggest present, but do make it the most personal present. Do things yourself.

Gem: The Story of a Dog

A Special Christmas Gift for Children and Parents Written Exclusively for Family Weekly by

MacKinlay Kantor,
Author of "Andersonville"

My name is Gem.

I will tell you how I got that name. I was too small to remember, but often I've heard Her telling about it.

They drove over to a kennel and there I was, wriggling with my brothers and sisters. She picked me up and cried, "Oh, isn't this one a little Gem!"

He chuckled, and said, "They all look like gems to me. But now, with old Ranger gone to Heaven, we need a new dog."

So I was Gem, and They took me home.

First thing I can remember is getting spanked. I was out in the yard with Him, and He strolled to the driveway to get His mail. Suddenly, in the road beyond, appeared the most dreadful but exciting monster. It was a car.

I wasn't very big, but I took out after that thing lickety-split. I barked and threatened, and chased it safely away from us. And all the while I could hear Him calling to me to come back.

I did come—proudly at first. But He was standing there looking fierce, so I wasn't proud any more. I crawled and slithered and dragged my belly on the ground. He had a rolled-up copy of the "Times" and He gave me several swats with that, across my back and rear.

"Don't you ever chase cars again!" This was the end of the world. I had been certain that He loved me, and now He was beating me. I wanted to die. It seemed such a long time that I was wanting to die, but maybe it was only a matter of minutes.

Later I heard Him telling Her about it, and He said that He'd given me a spanking with the "Times." And She said, "Well, I should think so!" And She scolded me, and I crouched and shook, and was miserable again. For several minutes.

Once more I chased a car. Again I came cringing back, crawling and slithering and dragging in the dirt, and this time He gave me a more severe whipping. Actually it didn't pain me. You can't get hurt very much by being punished with a newspaper. It was just the idea of the thing.

And next time a noisy car came past. I heard Him speak my name in a low firm voice when He saw my ears go up. So I put my ears down and skulked back behind Him. Pretty soon—It's odd. But I lost interest in chasing cars. Somehow it didn't seem the thing to do.

So I have been spanked only those two times in all my life. Oh, I got into trouble on a few occasions. Once there were some chicken sandwiches on the kitchen table—we were going on a picnic—and I jumped up on a chair and put my nose into the basket. But She came into the room just then and screamed at me, and I got down

Hair Care

■ Beautiful hair is one of the most important adjuncts of a woman's attractiveness. It's also one of the most easily acquired. Yet astonishingly few women know the secrets of hair care, including how much they can do for their own hair beauty, without professional assistance.

Now a new book is available, which for the special price of $1 to PARADE readers, discusses simply and straightforwardly the way to attain beautiful hair. Called Hair Care, it is profusely illustrated with photos and line drawings, and written by stylist and editor Lydia Peraza. Hair Care provides all the information and instructions you will need to care for your hair with a minimum of expense and effort, and with a maximum of return in the form of hair beauty that men will admire and women envy.

As Miss Peraza points out, hair is one element of feminine attractiveness that is susceptible to quick improvement and enhancement. "Hair is the world's first miracle fiber," she writes. "It can be washed, tinted, straightened, curled, brushed, combed, teased, rolled, pinned and dried!" Of course, hair problems differ from person to person. Hair Care shows you how to get the most from your hair whether it's straight, curly or kinky, with a full account of the styling that is best for each type. From cutting to coloring, it covers the complete range of hair treatment.

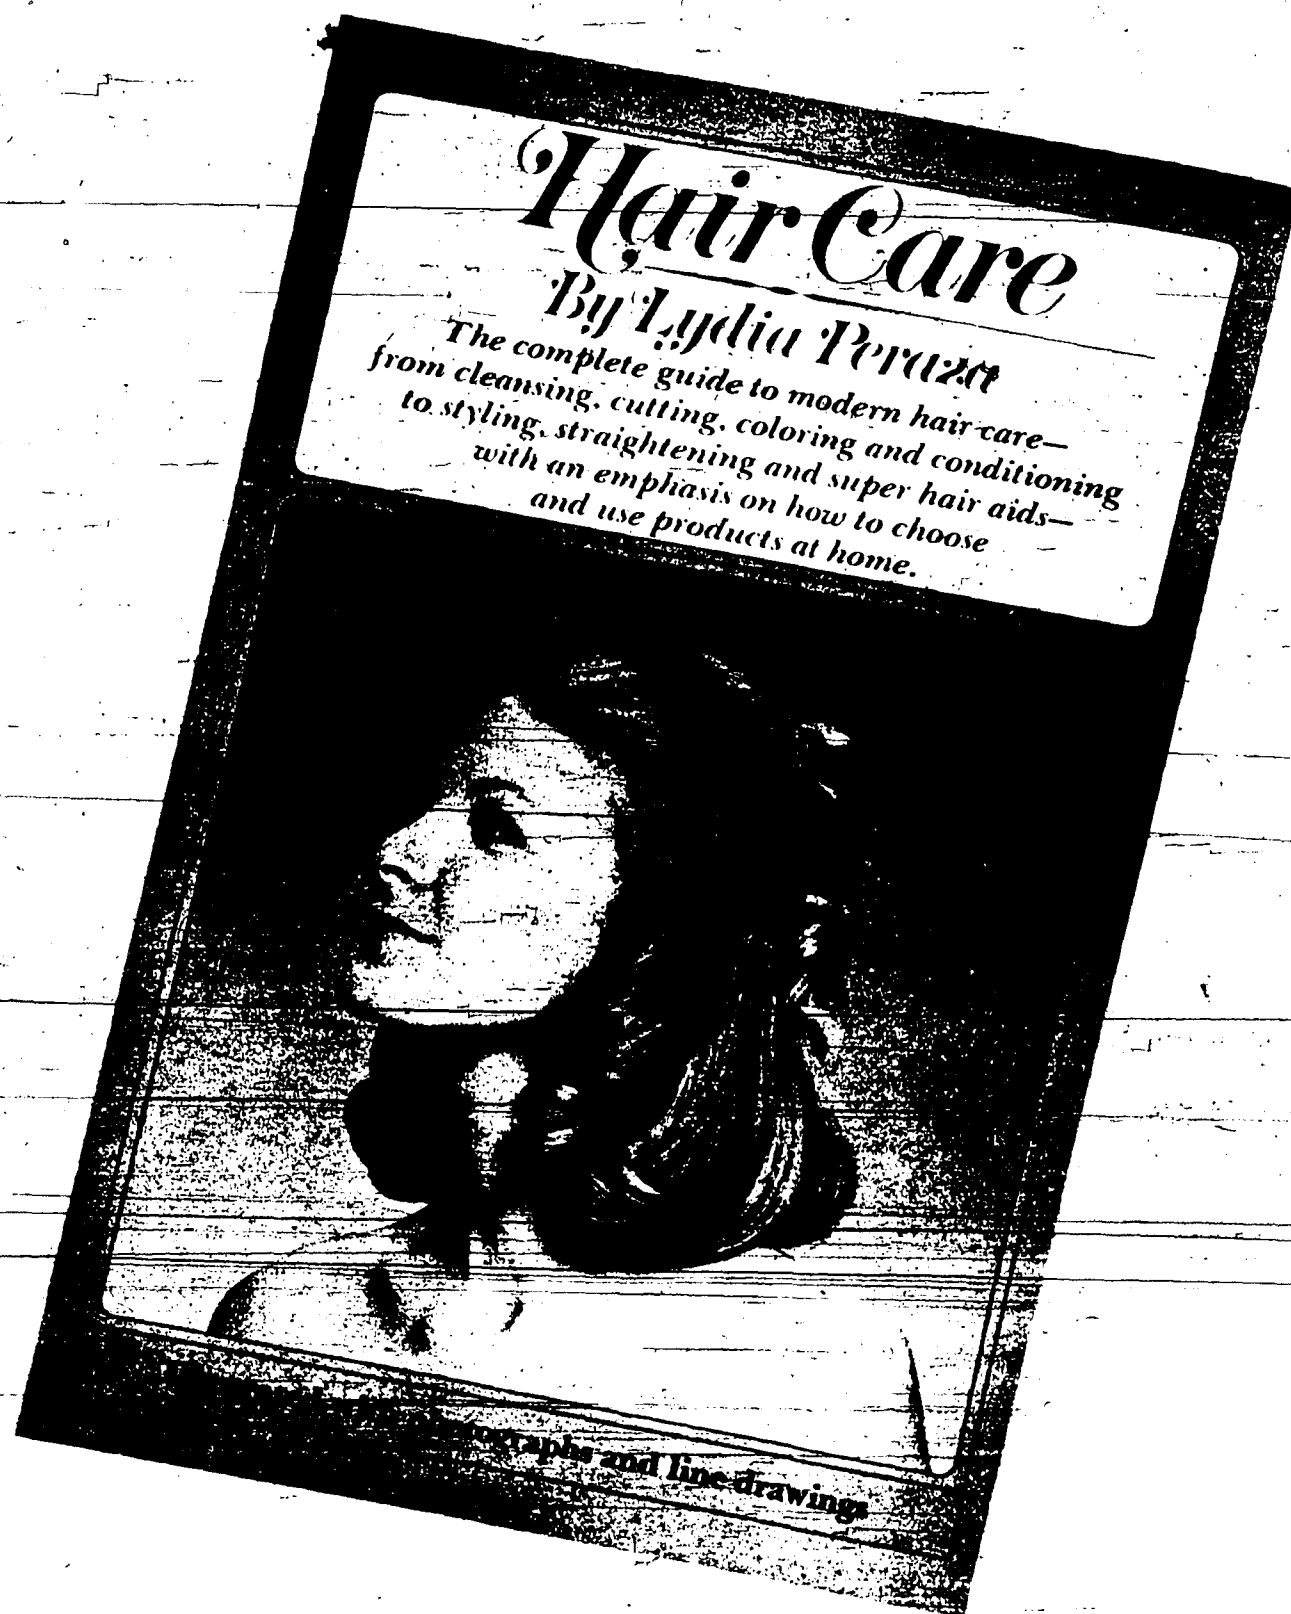

It's a practical book that can save you money, because it tells you when you will need the help of a professional hairdresser, and when you can do the job yourself. In addition, Hair Care emphasizes the importance of general bodily health in keeping your hair in tip-top condition and will show you how proper diet and exercise may bring dividends in more lustrous appearance.

Included is the latest information on coloring and setting, brushing and styling, and the use of electrical appliances and commercial hair aids. Products are listed by brand-name, providing a clear and practical guide to their value and usefulness, so that you can tell whether or not they're for you. A list of "do's" and "don'ts" helps you decide which hair styles are best suited to your particular face type, and there's a whole "Q. and A." section covering the most commonly asked questions on hair care, accessories, and even wigs.

Hair Care can make a more glamorous you, at only a fraction of the cost of one visit to the hairdresser. It may be the best investment in personal beauty you ever made.

The Story of a Dog

I can do a trick. He speaks my name, and says, "Here," and He puts down a scrap of meat or a dog cookie or something nice like that, right in front of my nose. I'm supposed to lie motionless and not eat the delicious thing, because He says, "Stay," when He puts it there. I don't move. I'm not supposed to. Sometimes it seems like a very long time before He asks, "Would you like to have it?" I lift my head and say Yes out loud. "OK," He says. That's the signal for me to gobble the thing as if I didn't know where my next meal was coming from.

Also I am a hero. It was in wintertime. I was sleeping downstairs on my own bed, and They had closed the door of Their bedroom, knowing that I would come in and try to sleep with Them if the door were left open.

I woke up feeling disturbed. My nose was hurting, and a queer smell drifted in the air. Also I heard a strange sound. I went up to Their room and scratched at the door. The smell hurt my nose more than ever, so I began to howl.

So it was almost. There was a place on the wall, around a panel of light switches, where wood was scorched and glowing and falling down in big red flakes.

He yelled to Her, "I'm going to pull the master switch!" and He ran downstairs. When He came back He had a flashlight in one hand and a fire extinguisher in the other. He shot a lot of awful smelling stuff from that extinguisher, but at least it put the glowing embers out. The house smelled terribly, and I ran around and yelped.

After They opened up some windows we had some decent air in the place. But it took a long time.

He said to Her solemnly, "If it hadn't been for Gem, the whole house might have burned. With us in it."

Next day was Sunday. And Marie and Luffler and Herb and Ed and Nina and all the other children and grandchildren came over to see how close we had come to having the house burned up, and maybe all of us as well. Some of the neighbors came also.

I lay looking up at Them, and was petted and scratched on the head so much that I rolled over and waved my legs in the air, and held my mouth open. When I do that, They always say I'm being a clown. So I was a clown again and again, because They petted me so eagerly, and talked baby talk.

I have heard some people say that dogs don't like to have baby talk spoken to them, but that's silly. Dogs do like it, and I especially enjoy it very much.

You'd be surprised at some of the people who do it, too. People who you'd think would never talk baby talk to anyone, not even to babies. But they do it to dogs. Secretly.

Since 1922, when first isolated by scientists, Vitamin E has been the subject of intensive research by skin doctors, nutritionists and cosmeticians in Europe, Japan and the United States. But due to its cost to synthesize, this incredible vitamin has been added only in very small amounts to certain beauty products. It's a pity that some creams and lotions costing many dollars, barely contain 500 to 1000 units per ounce — or even less!

Hi potency Vitamin E is so pure and gentle that it can be used even on a baby's skin with complete safety.

Then apply several drops of this light, wonderful oil to problem skin areas, such as: dry, parched, aging skin; tiny blemishes, scars, stretch marks, wrinkles and lines around eyes, mouth, chin, and neck. Next morning, tissue off. Wash face thoroughly and repeat this ritual — using only a few drops — always BEFORE putting on powder or makeup. Use oil sparingly. Extra rich! A few drops are all you need to start its wonderful moisturizing, emollient, and beautifying action. Vitamin E Supreme is expensive, but it's so long lasting that beauty treatments cost only pennies a day.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

In recent years, doctors and scientists have delved deeply into the mysteries of this strange vitamin substance. They have expended time, money, and endless labor in seeking to unlock its hidden potentials. Now at last some of its incredible properties have been revealed to the world. It has been discovered that when Vitamin E is applied externally to the skin, it acts as an anti-oxidant. This amazing quality helps prevent the loss of vital moisture through perspiration. It aids skin tissues and cells in maintaining adequate supplies of life-giving oxygen! Truly a blessing for the complexion — especially in women over 35. No wonder so many costly creams now add some Vitamin E into their creams!

SAVES UP TO 2 GALLONS OF GAS EVERY HOUR!

And Gives You Up To 25% More Horsepower Doing It!

How? By eliminating "Fuel-Pump Slop-Over"! And thus feeding your car up to 25% LESS gas (as much as two gallons an hour in heavy stop-and-go driving) . . . at the same exact time that it gives you up to 25% MORE Horsepower doing it! Like this . . .

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU? Just this—

- Up to 8 miles MORE per gallon—INSTANTLY!
- Jackrabbit starts—INSTANTLY!
- Skyrocket passing power—INSTANTLY!
- Up to 10 miles more per hour top speed—INSTANTLY!
- And up to $100 a year savings on your repair bills alone—INSTANTLY . . . and for as long as you drive that car!

What does it cost you? Less than a new set of spark plugs! Less than five cents for every dollar you can save on gas bills THIS YEAR ALONE!

And how does it work? As simple as this—

Stops Your Fuel-Pump From Over-Feeding Your Engine One Minute . . .
And Starving It The Next!

Your car, like every other car, stores its gasoline in a gas tank and then draws that gas out of that tank and feeds it to your engine with a fuel pump. This fuel pump was invented over fifty years ago! It's a mechanical idiot! It has no brain—just a pump! And therefore, it always feeds your engine THE SAME EXACT AMOUNT OF GASOLINE, whether you're stopped dead in traffic . . . or spurting past another car at eighty miles an hour!

Think about it for a moment! The way gas is fed into your engine today, when you're pulled up for a light your engine is being flooded with gas that it can't possibly burn! (That's why stop-and-go driving is so incredibly expensive—because most of your gas goes right out the tailpipe.) Then when you pick up speed again to turn onto a highway, your engine is still wasting a little less gas at 20 miles an hour, wasting a little less gas at 30 miles an hour . . . and finally getting just the right amount of gas for top performance at about 40 or 50 miles an hour!

And then, if you go over 50 miles an hour . . . if you really want to zoom away at 60, 70 or 80 . . . or if you need "instant-muscle" to flash away from another car on a curve . . . then your "idiot fuel pump" STILL gives you the same exact amount of gas it fed you when you were going 40 miles an hour LESS—and leaves you puffing and puffing with your neck stuck out, as though that car was 20 years old and carrying a ton of cement!

IT COULD COST YOU YOUR LIFE ON A BAD
CURVE! IT DOES COST YOU UP TO $100 A YEAR ON WASTED GAS ALONE! AND IT CAN
ALL BE CORRECTED—IN JUST FIVE MINUTES WITH A SCREWDRIVER—LIKE THIS . . .

Now, just picture the startling difference with this ED ALMQUIST MINI-INJECTOR on your engine—

As you can see by the photo above, the MINI-INJECTOR is small enough to hold in your hand. It slips right on to your engine, between the fuel pump and the carburetor. A 12-year-old boy can put it on perfectly, using nothing more than a screwdriver, even if he never opened the hood before. But once he's done, and once you switch on that engine again . . . you're going to HEAR the difference—and FEEL the difference—from the very first second that engine ROARS to life again.

Yes! ROARS to life again! Because this is a NEW TYPE OF ENGINE you're driving with from now on! An engine that operates at absolute top gas-power every single driving second! THAT DOESN'T GET ONE DROP OF GAS IT DOESN'T NEED, AND DOESN'T WASTE ONE OUNCE OF POWER THAT IT CAN DELIVER TO YOUR WHEELS!

And this fact shows up for you the instant you start your car! Because even on freezing mornings—your key is hardly in the switch before that engine is purring with power! Why? Because now there's no gas-flood at all. The walls of that cold engine aren't being choked up with raw gas that keeps the spark from catching fire . . . and that then drains out into your tailpipe, exactly as though you poured it right on the ground!

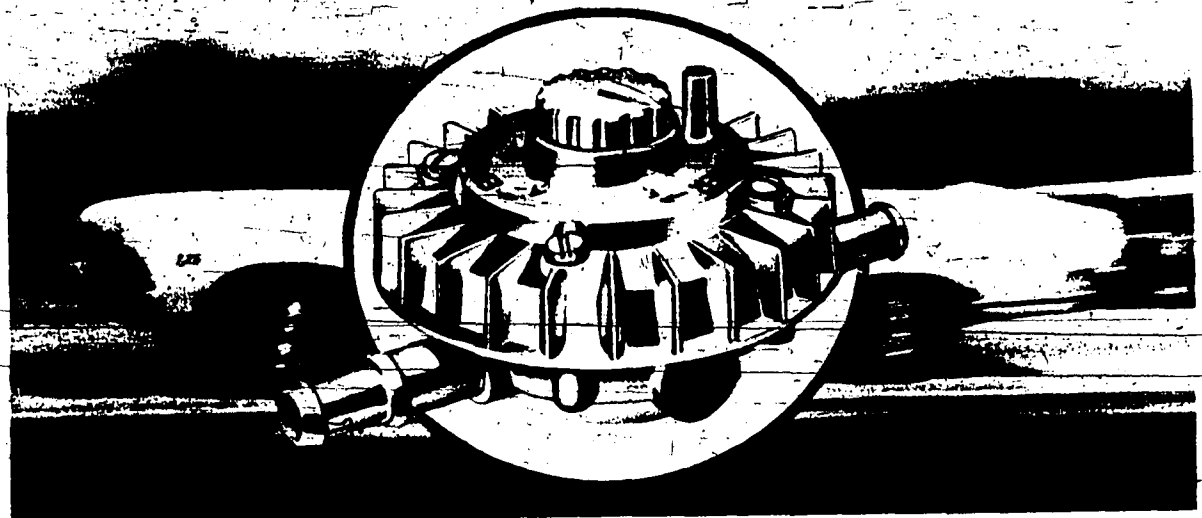

Now, at this time, YOUR ENGINE ITSELF SIGNALS TO THE MINI-INJECTOR EXACTLY HOW MUCH GAS IT NEEDS TO START! And the MINI-INJECTOR tells the fuel pump to deliver JUST THAT AMOUNT OF GAS, AND NOT ONE DROP MORE!

You're off in less time than it takes a second passenger to close the door! And you're about to take the most thrilling ride of your entire driving life!

You Would Never Have Believed That Your Engine Could Deliver Power Like This!
AND ALL AT A SAVING OF ONE GALLON OUT OF EVERY FIVE!

Now pull into the street and start cruising up to the first traffic light. You'll notice instantly that your foot sits lighter on the pedal . . . that your engine sounds silken-smooth . . . that it's, practically, floating up to that light, even though it was once-cold only a few moments ago.

There's no coughing, or sputtering or bucking, and it means that you could misfire. And when you pull up to the light, and put your foot on the brake, your engine will tone right down to a concerned purr. It will be quieter than you've ever heard it before, without the slightest shiver in the rest of the car itself. Because now that engine is NOT trying to spit out excess gas! Not trying to jerk away from your brakes! NOT letting you know every waiting second that you're pouring money out of its tailpipe!

Now the light changes to green. Wait a second, and then carefully place your foot back on the gas pedal. Make sure to give it LESS pressure—THIS TIME—than you ever did before! BECAUSE THAT FOOT IS GOING TO GIVE YOU MORE BLAST-OFF-POWER FROM THAT CAR THAN YOU'VE EVER KNOWN BEFORE! AND YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE TO SPEND A DAY OR TWO GETTING USED TO IT!

Prove It At The Lights! Prove It
On The Hills! PROVE IT ON THE HIGHWAY—
BY FLOATING RIGHT PAST OTHER CARS
WHEN YOU WANT TO!

From that moment on, driving becomes a totally new experience for you! Because your car suddenly acts like an athlete—instead of a fat overfed fool!

Now you're not fouling that car with too much gas 80 per cent of the time! Now you're not splashing your plugs . . . eating away your valves . . . corroding your cylinders . . . or draining power out of your engine for every mile you drive!

Now, instead, for perhaps the first time in your life, you are sitting behind the kind of lean, tough, instant-response engine that only

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS!

Here's how it saves you up to one gallon out of every five—at the same time that it gives you the most power-packed ride of your life!

Think of this MINI-INJECTOR as having two main parts. The first is a "Miniature brain." And the second is an extra fuel pump connected right on to the brain.

Now, what happens when you put this MINI-INJECTOR onto your car is this: The miniature brain automatically senses the exact amount of gas your engine needs at every driving second (it does this by measuring the vacuum pressure within that engine from second to second).

Your fuel pump, on the other hand, has no such measuring device. So it never knows how much gas your engine really needs. So it simply delivers the same amount of gas to that engine, no matter how hard, or how easy that engine is working!

But now MINI-INJECTOR Takes over! And if your fuel pump is delivering TOO MUCH gas to that engine, MINI-INJECTOR blocks that extra gas with its own fuel pump . . . sends it back and holds it under compression until your carburetor calls for more gas!

Or, when your fuel pump is delivering TOO LITTLE gas to your engine (for example, when it's a life-or-death case of passing another car on a curve), MINI-INJECTOR skyrockets its own fuel pump into action, and shoots in that extra gas your engine needs. THE VERY SECOND IT NEEDS IT!

So you save the money you want—and you get the power you need—EVERY MINUTE YOU DRIVE!

sports-car drivers know before! An engine that flattens hills right down at the merest touch of your foot! That takes off screaming at the lights whenever you want to . . . leaves other cars sitting behind you, choking in your dust!

An engine that simply glides past other cars at 70 . . . 80 . . . 90 miles an hour—whenever you want to walk away from them! And that has so much reserve power left that you KNOW that there's no just you can get into on the highway that it can't zoom you right out of the highest touch of your foot!

And—most important of all—STILL USING EVERY THRILL-PACKED SECOND ONLY THE EXACT AMOUNT OF GAS THAT IT NEEDS AT THAT INSTANT—AND NOT ONE SINGLE DROP MORE! So that the gas savings pile up—day after day, week after week, month after month! Till you've put a $20 bill back in your pocket . . . a $50 bill back in your pocket . . . a $100 bill back in your pocket—all from a simple little "engine-brain" that costs you originally less than a single set of spark plugs!

Prove Every Word Of It At Our Risk!

Far More Power On Far Less Gas.

From The Very First Second—Or We Send Every Cent Of Your Money Back!

And what's the cost for all this performance and all these savings? Only $11.98 complete—less than this MINI-INJECTOR can save you in your very first month!

And you try it entirely at our risk! Just slip it on, and measure the results! Either you're thrilled from the very first take-off—or every cent of your money back!

Smart Cooking

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a Holiday Sandwich Tree and a Spicy Citrus Punch to serve visiting children or carolers. "The sandwiches," says Marilyn, "are made of corned beef and chicken spreads, plus seasonings. The flavor's unique, but not so unique, I think, that kids won't love it."

Make a Holiday Sandwich Tree

HOLIDAY SANDWICH TREE

- 1 can (4½ ozs.) corned-beef spread
- ¼ cup small-curd creamed cottage cheese
- 2 teaspoons chopped chives or freeze-dried chives
- ½ teaspoon prepared horseradish
- 3 drops liquid hot-pepper sauce
- 1 can (4¼ ozs.) chicken spread
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped water chestnuts, celery or cucumber
- Dash ground ginger
- 1 loaf (16 ozs.) thinly sliced white bread (17 slices)
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- ½ cup finely chopped parsley

1. Make fillings first: In small bowl combine corned-beef spread, cottage cheese, chives, horseradish and hot-pepper sauce.
2. In another bowl combine chicken spread, water chestnuts and ginger.
3. Trim crusts from bread slices. (Keep bread slices under damp dish towel to keep them from drying out as you work.)

4. Spread corned-beef filling on four slices of bread, cover with four additional slices of bread. Repeat with chicken filling.

5. Cut each sandwich in quarters, making four squares. Dip one corner of each square into mayonnaise and then into parsley.

6. Arrange sandwiches into tree shape on serving plate, beginning with 9 squares in bottom layer; 7 on the outside and 2 in middle, so that the parsleyed points project.*
7. In shaping the remaining four layers, use 7 squares outside and 1 in the middle; 6 squares outside and 1 in the middle; 5 squares and 4 squares.

8. Top tree with remaining slice of bread cut into star shape. (Use a star-shaped cookie cutter if you have one.) Points of star should also be dipped in mayonnaise and parsley; secure star on top with a toothpick.
9. Cover with foil or plastic film and refrigerate if not serving at once.

Makes 32 party-size sandwiches
*If you are short on time, arrange sandwiches in tree shape and sprinkle all over with chopped parsley.

Christmas is for children, they say—and so are this decorative sandwich tree and punch.

SPICY CITRUS PUNCH

- 4 qts. water
- 2 teaspoons whole cloves
- 1 teaspoon whole allspice
- 2 sticks whole cinnamon
- 6 lemons
- 7 large oranges
- ½ cup tea leaves
- 3 cups sugar
- Orange slices
- Whole cloves

1. Measure 2 qts. water into a large saucepan; add whole cloves, allspice and cinnamon sticks.

2. Using a vegetable peeler, remove the thin outer yellow- and orange-colored zest from the white part of the fruit peel. Add zest peels to water-spice combination. Bring to boiling, cover, reduce heat and simmer for 30 minutes.

3. Meanwhile bring another 2 qts. water to boiling. Remove from heat, add tea, cover and steep 10 minutes.

4. Strain both mixtures and combine. While still hot, stir in the sugar until dissolved.

5. Squeeze juice from reserved lemons and oranges and add to hot tea mixture. If made ahead, refrigerate, covered, until needed.

6. May be served steaming hot or icy cold; either way, stud orange slices with whole cloves and float on surface. Garnish punch cups with whole cinnamon sticks if desired.

Makes 4½ qts., about 40 servings

A GRISLY DEATH

With bone-crushing force steel-jaw traps spring shut on millions of wild animals each year in the United States. These animals die a slow, agonizing death of starvation, thirst, freezing, fear, or gangrene. Many times the animal will actually chew or twist off its foot in a desperate attempt to save itself.

These beautiful wild creatures are killed primarily for their fur; few are used as food. Furs are a luxury item catering to our vanity but hardly necessary to our survival. From forty to over sixty small animal skins are often used for a single fur coat. Consider the immense pain, fear and suffering each coat represents. Steel-jaw traps account for 90 percent of the annual U.S. fur take. Only 10 percent are caught in more humane, instant-kill traps.

State laws regulating trapping are rarely enforceable. Steel-jaw traps may be purchased and set by anyone, including children, who often forget or neglect them, leaving any unfortunate animal trapped to die a miserable, painful and prolonged death.

We are a nation who has put man on the moon. Yet we treat our fellow creatures with barbaric and primitive cruelty. It is time to redefine our values. It is time to end this abusive use of our wild animals. YOU CAN HELP.

My TAX DEDUCTIBLE contribution of $..... is enclosed to help:

1. Bring an end to the use of steel-jaw traps within the U.S.
2. Ask our government for an importation ban on furs taken by means of steel-jaw traps.

Yet, unbelievable as it may seem, you'll lose excess weight faster than you dreamed possible! Up to 10 full pounds (or more) in only 10 days. And remember, this new, fast-acting Super "C" Grapefruit Diet is super-charged with NATURAL VITAMIN "C". This vitamin has been acclaimed by dieticians, doctors, even Nobel Prize scientists both in America and abroad. As ugly fat is catabolized out of your body, it also helps you conquer that tired, sluggish, "old age" feeling so often caused by a fat-burdened body.

DOCTORS WARN AGAINST STRICT DIETING

The United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare plus many doctors warn against restricted diets deficient in vitamins, minerals, proteins, fats, and starches. You need all these elements for abundant health. If you eliminate any of them, you get only temporary weight loss. Eventually, your body fights back and ugly fat returns, pound after pound. Super "C" Grapefruit Diet is different. It works with you, not against you. No hunger pangs, ever. No skipped meals. You feast on hearty breakfasts, lunches, dinners. You enjoy a rich variety of good eating—foods you've always craved for. Just imagine, you can partake of formerly "prohibited" foods, such as ham, bacon, stews, rich casseroles, creamy desserts, etc. You certainly fill up on many delicious foods. Yet, by following this fast and easy 10 day plan, you can catabolize pounds and pounds of accumulated fat out of your body. Right up to 10 pounds (or more) in 10 days!

HOW DOES IT WORK?

Your body burns up fat very much like a car burns gas. This natural process is called CATABOLISM. After years of faulty dieting, excess fats become hardened and lazy—locked up in body tissues. Meantime your body catabolism may also slow down. Result: cholesterol fats may clog up arteries, placing life itself in jeopardy. Fats become lodged in arms, thighs, buttocks, belly, etc. You look older. You also act older.

Now there is an easy way to wake up that lazy, sleepy catabolism! Within 24 hours, the Super "C" Diet starts to catabolize this dangerous fat out of your body. The unsightly bulges and awkward pot belly vanish. You eat your fill without regrets, yet strange but true, you lose pound after pound—even if you gorge yourself on scrumptious foods. This great diet helps you feel younger, act younger, and regain that sparkling, youthful look of long ago.

"SANTA" HELEN SCOTT
Another male bastion falls

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus—and here she is. . . . With today's equal-opportunity laws, it's no longer legal for department stores to insist that their Santas be men. So at least one temporary-help agency is training women for the job. One graduate from Western Girl Santa training is trim housewife Helen Scott. Do children object to sitting on the knee of a bearded lady? Apparently not. They're too young—and too nervous—to notice. Three things Helen has learned: Never promise the kids anything; always refer to the child's "folks" instead of his parents (in case he doesn't have parents); and never, never go "Ho-ho-ho!"—because no one, man or woman, can give that laugh the real Santa ring!

Robert Mitchum hoboed around the U.S. 39 years ago—when he was 15 and 16 years old. He was arrested for vagrancy near Savannah in 1933, and served seven days on the Chatham County Camp chain gang. Then he escaped. Mike Tomkies tells the tale in "The Robert Mitchum Story" (Regency, $6.95): "After the first day and night, Mitchum's ankles were blistered, inflamed and bleeding; just to walk at all was agony. . . . The pain of the shackles was an integral part of the punishment. . . . On the seventh day, as the prisoners were being transported back to the farm, the guards removed their chains. Mitchum watched, and finally ran. As he tore across the road and toward the fields and distant woods, he heard the guards start to shout. Then he heard the 'whuff' and thump of rifle bullets as they tore into the ground near his pumping legs. When he reached the first clump of trees, he found to his amazement that no one was chasing him. 'In those days . . . if they missed you with a rifle,' Mitchum explains, 'they just went out and rounded up someone else to take your place on the work gang.'

PIERRE BOTTONI'S SECRET

Next time you see a "hip looking" young man with shoulder-length hair, look again—it may be fake. From Paris comes word that men's wig salons are the latest craze. Young banker Pierre Bottoni (pictured) is one of their customers. His employers demand short hair during work hours; fashion demands that he look like his mod friends at night. Men's long-hair wigs are having brisk sales in the U.S., too—particularly among Army Reservists and National Guardsmen. Here, the situation is reversed. Youths making their living, as rock performers, film directors or advertising writers claim their business calls for flowing tresses; it's the Army that says no. Girls, beware! You can't tell a head by its cover!

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

By Richard Armour

SHOE STORY

I have some shoe trees made of wood
That I keep close about.
At night I put them in my shoes,
Replacing feet now out.
But I regret these trees don't grow,
As trees should, toward the skies
And bear a crop of splendid shoes,
Each one, when ripe, my size.

If such a tree I had, I'm sure
I'd tend it every day
And prop the laden branches up
And frighten birds away.

At harvest-time I'd pick my shoes

And, as I picked them, smile.
I'd hope that half were left, half right,
And all the latest style:

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

My five-year-old son has been worried about the scrapes people get into on TV, and I explained that these were just shows, not real life. Shortly after, he came up to me and asked, "Mom, are we real people?" Then, looking around the room thoughtfully, "Or is this just a show?"

Dear Sen. Church:

Please see that I get into the tailoring department of the Army. I know a lot about tailoring as I've spent most of my life in women's clothing.
